Hoover Is For Joint War Board

National Administrators Would Meet With President; Others Use Method

Gives Principles

Hoover Outlines 12 Rules Stemming From World War I

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Experience in every major nation in this war and the last shows there should be a war council of head administrators sitting directly with the President, Herbert Hoover told the National Association of Manufacturers today.

The former President of the United States said:

"There was a war council or a war cabinet in every principal nation in the last war. There is one in every principal nation in this war, except the United States."

Hoover continued in a prepared address that every important aspect of war direction should be in the hands of a single administrator, rather than a board or committee, and the top administrators from the war council with the President.

"Especially in war," he said, "we need leadership, and leadership comes from individual men. * * * It is the experience of 150 years in the whole productive economy of the United States. We can no more administer civilian activities in war with a committee than we could direct a battle with a committee."

The former President said those who helped organize World War I had much to offer those directing World War II, and offered 12 principles to consider, "not as criticism but as recommendations."

Hoover's 12 principles follow, in brief:

"First—* * * All civilian activities should be directed by civilians and within limitations laid down by the legislative body. Otherwise we shall be a military dictatorship with all its implications.

"Second—* * * Civilian activities must be directed by single headed administrators. In every country in the last war—and in this war—the United States, Britain, France and for that matter, Germany, all boards, committees, or commissions proved a failure except in advisory or judicial functions. * * *

"Third—The third principle is that all functions and authority in respect to a particular activity must be concentrated in the hands of a single administrator. . . . The problems of production, distribution, conservation and price fixing in any particular material are interlocked. The same single head must direct all of these functions. Otherwise we have infinite confusion, conflicts, and waste.

"For instance the munitions administrator, whatever his title, must of course have many sub-administrators, but each should have all the authority and all the functions that relate to his particular job. . . .

"Fourth—The head administrators for such major groups should compromise a war council sitting directly with the President. Here alone the general economic and civilian policies should be determined, and conflicts and overlaps planned out with the President present as the final umpire. . . .

"Fifth—The first civil necessity of total war production is the maximum production of war essentials. . . . The high cost producer must be brought into action.

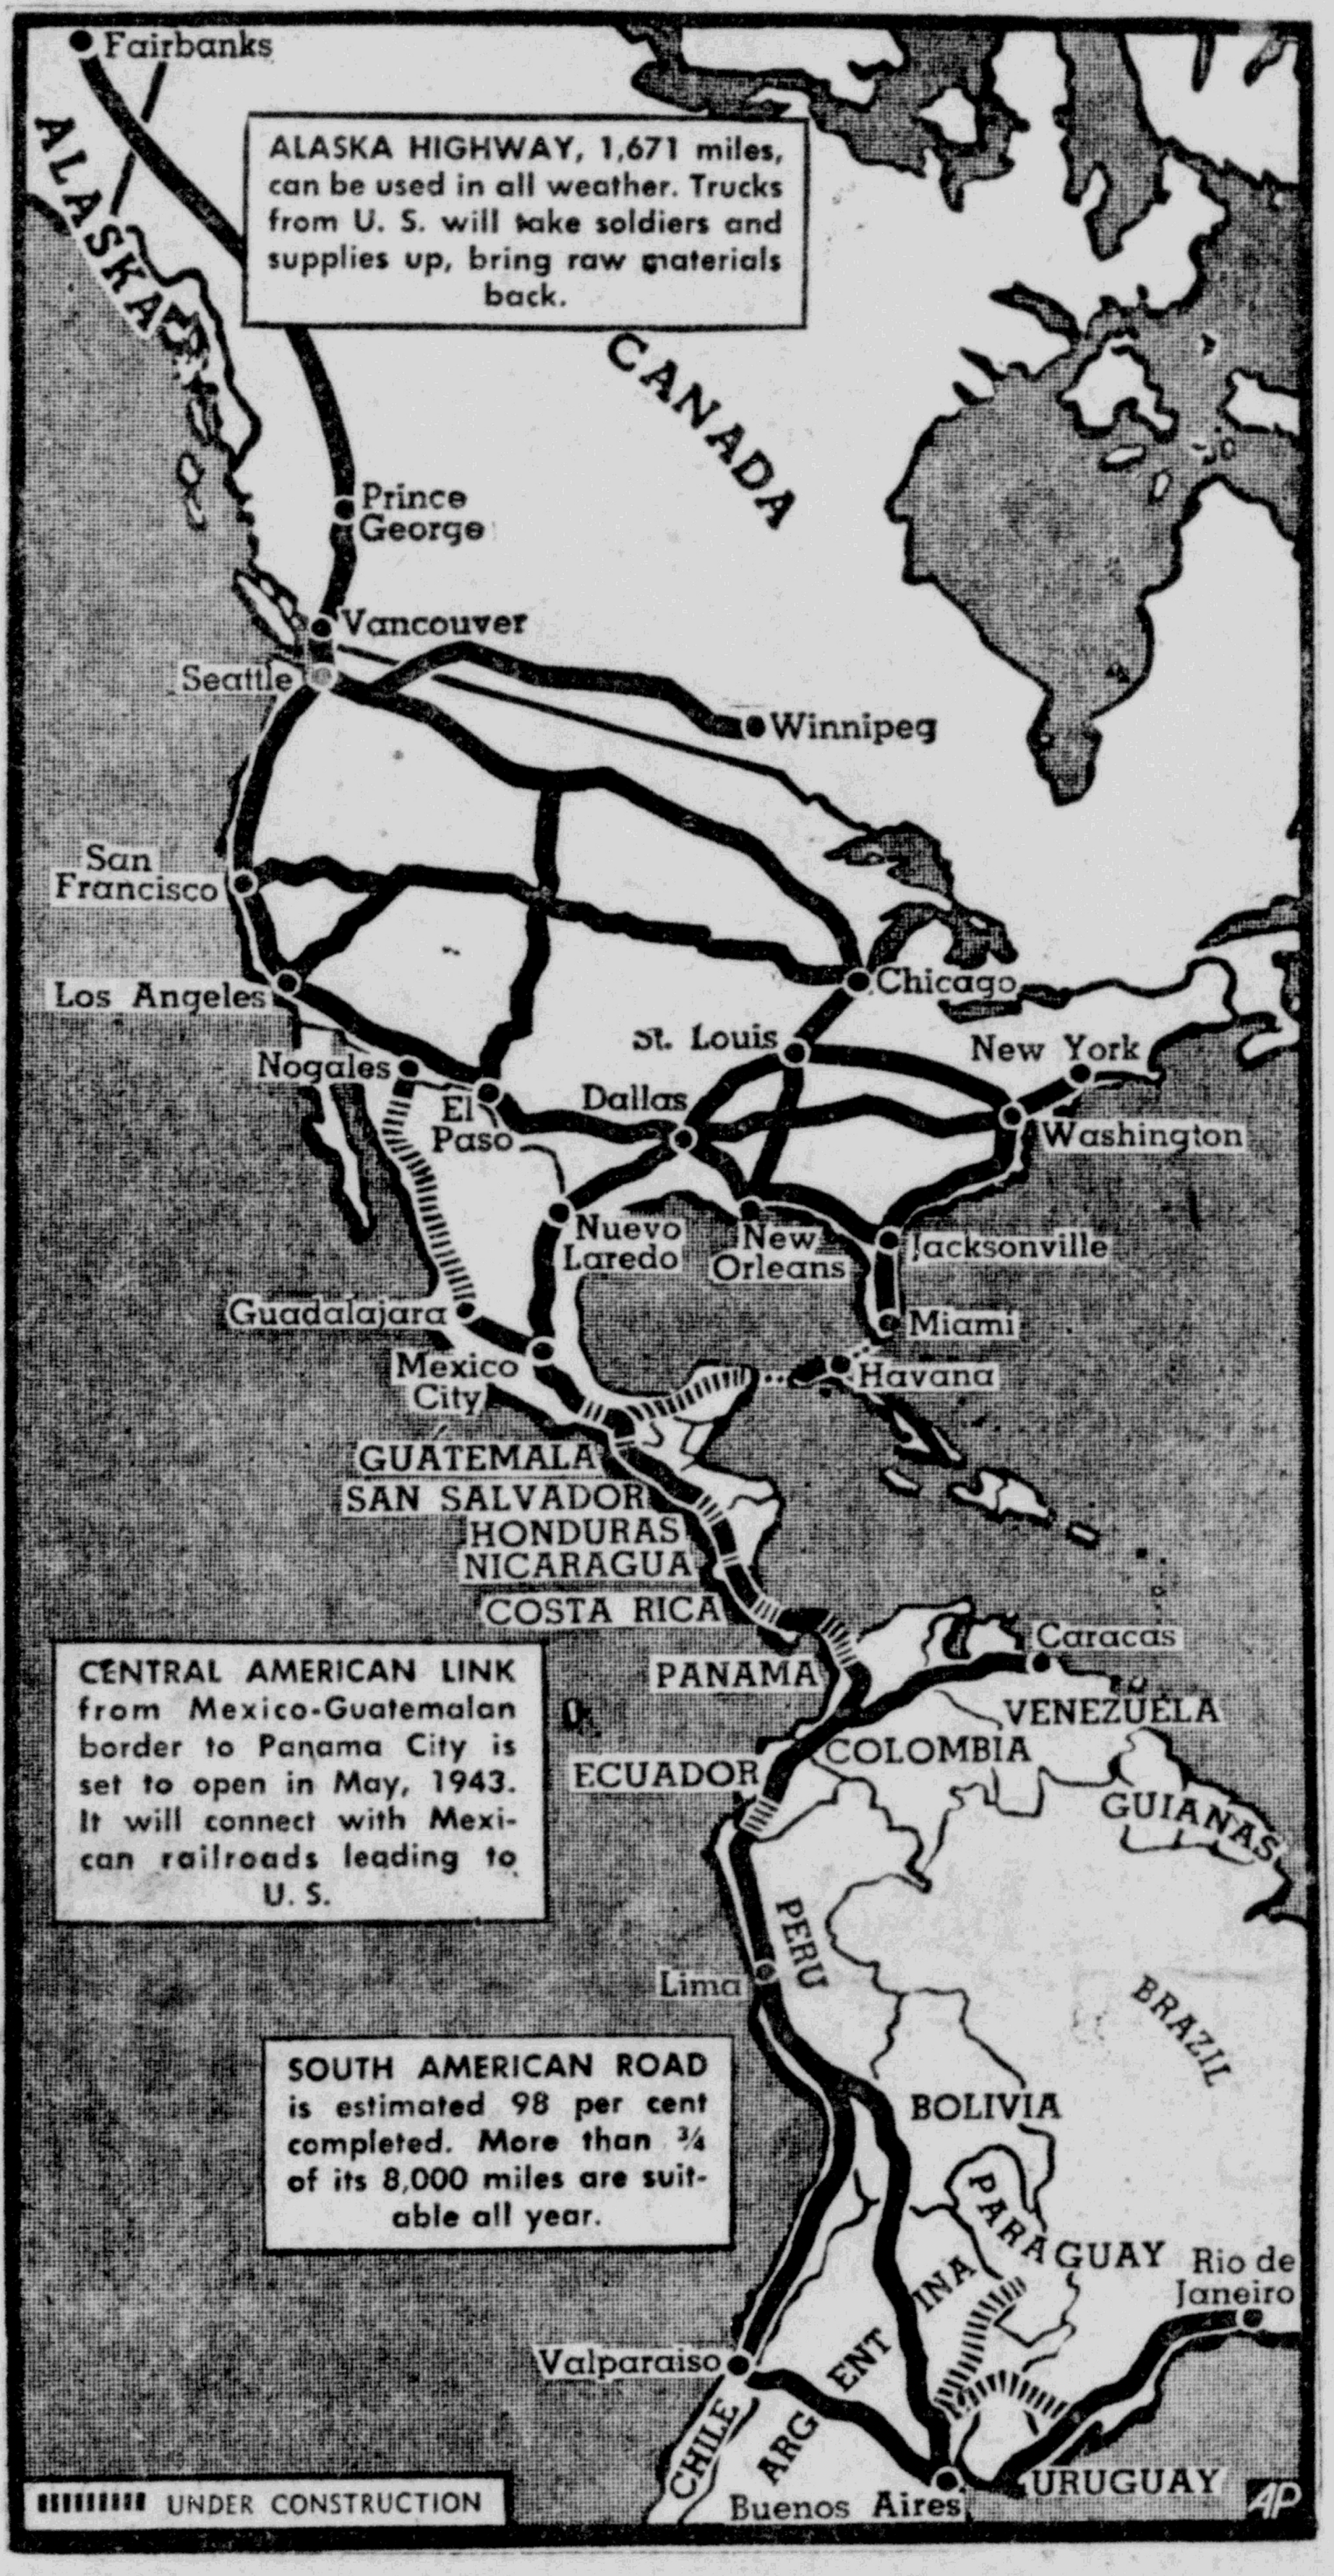
Good Neighbor Road



By The Associated Press

This is how the Pan-American Highway stands today. When completed it will run more than 15,000 miles from Alaska to Argentina—through almost every kind of climate and terrain. Total cost of the road, nineteen years in the building, will be almost half a billion dollars. It will ease the strain on shipping lanes, make strategic raw materials from South America more available for our war industries, and in the post-war years open up vast possibilities for tourists.

Hurley Is 'Bombed' Off Map; Blackout Called 'Success'

Siren Fails to Blow in Central Section of City; Reports Are Given

At the height of the gale that howled through the streets of Kingston and the county highways and byways Wednesday night a surprise blackout was staged, which city and county officials pronounced a success, although several incidents caused a delay in blacking out houses and streets.

This was especially true in the central section of Kingston when the siren on top of the Central Fire Station failed to sound an alarm. Today the siren was taken down and it was found that it was necessary to make some adjustments to it.

As all of the street lighting system in the city is controlled from the Jansen avenue station of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., opposite the Central Fire Station, there was a delay of from six to seven minutes before the street lights were turned off. Those in control of the light switch had previously received orders not to throw the switch until the siren across the street sounded an alarm.

At the office of the Central Hudson this morning it was stated that the red signal was received at the switchboard at 7:29 p. m., and was relayed at once to the control station on Jansen avenue.

Officials of the Central Hudson said that orders at the Jansen avenue control station have been to await the sounding of the siren alarm, and as that failed to sound it was necessary to check back to the main office where orders were given to turn off the street lights.

Mr. Strong of the Central Hudson said today that the control at the Jansen avenue station is for

Village 'Goes Out' in Blaze of Bright Lights; No Signal Is Sounded

The village of Hurley, theoretically, was "bombed off the map" during the "air raid" Wednesday night, due to the fact that following the flashing of the red signal at the control center in Kingston at 7:26 no alarm was sounded in that old village three miles from the county seat.

Neither the fire alarm at the town hall nor the bell of the Reformed Church, both of which are supposed to sound the alarm on occasions of air raids, were in action.

One of the wardens, Walter Stauble, received the call from the central control room and he and E. R. Bower, also a warden, went out on the job. Stauble warned occupants of three or four houses to put out their lights, but when he noted that cars were continuing to move from the direction of Kingston and that homes in the entire village were lighted, many of the houses having porch lights blazing, while no general alarm sounded, he decided that it was no use to continue.

One resident of the village said this morning that some little time after the blackout was supposed to have become effective the sound of the alarms at High Falls and Marbletown could be heard, but that no alarm was sounded in Hurley.

It is said that the chief air raid warden, who has no telephone, first learned that there had been a test blackout some time after 8 o'clock, considerable time after the "all clear" had been flashed. He happened in at one of the village stores and thought that he was being "kidded" when others present began to ask him about the blackout.

Allies Smash Jap Landing

23 Fighters Lost to Japs In Assault

Flying Fortresses, B-25's Send Destroyers Off in Panic Near New Guinea Base

(By The Associated Press)

Allied warplanes were officially credited today with smashing a new Japanese sea-borne attempt to land reinforcements on the coast of New Guinea, knocking 23 enemy fighters out of the skies in a 12-hour running battle, while imperial Tokyo headquarters claimed victory in a naval battle off Guadalcanal.

Without confirmation elsewhere, the Tokyo command asserted that a Japanese torpedo-attack flotilla sank an Allied battleship, a cruiser of the 9,050-ton Augusta type and two destroyers in a night assault, November 30.

"Two other destroyers were set ablaze," a Japanese communique said.

"Our losses — one destroyer sunk."

The communique said the battle took place off Lunga, Guadalcanal, when the imperial flotilla "carried out a fierce attack against a powerful enemy naval unit."

Similar Japanese claims in the past have proved exaggerated.

A communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that American Flying Fortresses and twin-engined B-25's drove a Japanese force of four destroyers to flight off the Papuan coast in New Guinea, beating off enemy Zero fighters and pursuing the fleeing enemy warships out to sea.

At least one enemy destroyer suffered a direct bomb hit.

The dispatches said Allied airmen violently bombed and gunned the destroyers and small craft seen clustered around the warships off the Papuan coast, and the withdrawal followed.

On the Papuan beach, Allied troops were reported to have driven through the perimeter of Japanese defenses to the coast on the northern end of the 20-mile-long front and advanced to the outskirts of Buna village on the southern flank.

Near Gona, in the north, Australian troops captured a Japanese command post, killing 34 enemy soldiers in a close-quarter fight.

Snowstorms Lash Upstate Sections

Roads Are Blocked; Some Schools Are Closed; Winds Cause Drifts

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP) — Fresh storms lashed northern, western and central New York today with wind-tossed snow blocking several roads, lowering visibility and forcing many schools to close.

State police reported Route 11 blocked east of Malone by four foot drifts, Route 37 closed between Malone and Massena and Route 10 between Malone and Saranac Lake. Secondary roads were in doubtful condition in Jefferson, Essex, Clinton and St. Lawrence counties. There was no travel in or out of Canton.

High winds, which continued throughout the state, hindered attempts to plow roads open in the Salamanca-Jamestown section, and both cities were isolated from highway traffic. The Gowanda-Cat-

Reports Are Given To Supervisors on Tuberculosis Work

Drop in Death Rate in 15 Years Is Highlight of Holcomb Report to County Board

The annual report of the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, president of the Board of Managers, and the report of Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, superintendent of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital were received by the Board of Supervisors Wednesday evening.

In his report Dr. Holcomb pointed out that in the last 15 years there has been a drop in the death rate from tuberculosis from 103 per hundred thousand population to 31 per hundred thousand of population according to state figures, indicating the good work which is being done in the battle against this dread disease.

Dr. Holcomb's report contained many interesting figures on the battle which is being waged in Ulster county where 19,708 hospital days service was rendered during the past year to patients at a net cost of $3.43 per day. During the year there were 2,579 clinic cases examined and treated at the hospital and 85 patients were admitted for care. During the year 83 were discharged from the institution.

In his statement to the board, Dr. Holcomb told of one former patient who has been discharged as cured and who recently went hunting with one of the supervisors and led the supervisor a merry chase in the woods. This same former patient has so recovered as to be able to carry on normal work, in fact exceptional work. It was stated that the man has recovered and is now carrying on a normal life with but one lung and among the duties he has been able to perform is the operation of a county snow plow. This example, Dr. Holcomb pointed out as a sample of the usefulness and benefits of the hospital.

The report of Dr. Seeley as president of the Board of Managers and the report of Dr. Holcomb, as superintendent, to the Board of Managers and to the Board of Supervisors, follow:

Annual Report of the President of the Board of Managers

Gentlemen:

The Board of Managers submits an account of its stewardship for the fiscal year. The report covers briefly the professional work and the care of the physical property. Of the professional work you are fully advised in the detailed report of the superintendent, Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb. We desire to express our pride and satisfaction in the outstanding professional skill of the superintendent and his untiring devotion to the work of the hospital. He has been assisted in the past year by Dr. Irving J. Josephson as assistant physician, whose work has proved his high efficiency.

The board and the hospital have been forced since last June to lose the services of Dr. Joseph Jacobson, who not only served as a most valuable member of the Board of Managers but gave his unparalleled skill as chest surgeon to the hospital without charge to the county. His enlistment in the Navy last June, while a great gain to the armed forces of our country, is a great loss to our hospital. In that connection the Board of Managers desires to call the attention of the Board of Supervisors to the increased cost to the county of the care of patients in the State Tuberculosis Hospital at Oneonta for the special treatment we are unable to give our patients since Dr. Jacobson left. We have been paying $17.50 per week out of our budget for the care of these patients, and must soon send another patient for an indefinite stay. The board must recognize what it has meant financially to the county to have had the free services of Dr. Jacobson. Dr. Saul Ritchie, who is now also a member of the armed forces, has given much service as orthopedic surgeon without charge to the county, and we are very grateful to him.

The nursing care under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Kraus

Dewey Names Burton Budget Director

New York, Dec. 3 (AP).—John E. Burton, research economist of Garden City, L. I., was named to be New York state budget director today by Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey.

Dewey described Burton as "the ablest student of government financing that I know." He succeeds J. Buckley Bryan in the $12,000-a-year post.

Burton is 34, married and the father of a son, Coleman Henry B. Burton.

Dewey said Burton's efforts as advisor to the legislative committee which investigated unemployment insurance in 1939 "contributed largely to a total reorganization of that department."

'Get Henderson' Is Move in Congress

Members Out to Retrieve Some Lost Powers; G.O.P. Neutral

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Government bureaus in general and the Office of Price Administration in particular found themselves the targets today of a congressional drive to retrieve some of the powers delegated in recent years to the executive arm of the government.

A definite "get Leon Henderson" movement was under way, with Democratic House members, mostly from the south, joining in a chorus of criticism of the price administrator.

Republicans kept on the sidelines, but influential minority members said they were ready to join in a campaign, expected to reach a climax early in the next Congress, to shear Henderson of much, if not all, of his authority and to apply a legislative squeeze on other emergency bureaus.

"We are suffering from a severe case of federalitis," said Representative Barden (D.-N. C.) in one of several attacks in the House yesterday on what most of the speakers referred to as "the bureaucrats."

Barden drew applause from Democrats and Republicans alike when he suggested that if the heads of federal bureaus refuse to heed the warning of Congress, "let them feel us."

"Somebody down there," he asserted, referring to O. P. A. "wants to get the American people in the habit of crawling to him on their hands and knees and asking for something, even if it's only a blank sheet of paper."

The flare-up was touched off when Chairman Summers (D.-Tex.) of the House judiciary committee spoke of "an upsurge of the people" against O. P. A. regulations and requirements for obtaining rationed goods.

That the O. P. A., and perhaps other bureaus would have difficulty getting appropriations from the next Congress was conceded even

Big Unions Agree To Practical Plan For Cooperation

First Step Toward Total Unity Will Be Taken in Kaiser Closed Shop Dispute

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—The A.F.L.-C.I.O. plan of "practical cooperation," agreed to as a step toward total unity, will get its first test immediately in the Kaiser shipyard dispute.

The plan, decided on yesterday by leaders of America's two major labor movements, provides for arbitration of jurisdictional differences which cannot be solved by the unions themselves. The agreement is subject to approval of the A.F.L. and C.I.O. executive boards, but unity negotiations will go forward meanwhile.

President Roosevelt, it was learned, has intervened to prevent a prospective knock-down, drag-out fight which finds the National Labor Relations Board in the middle. Through James F. Byrnes, his economic stabilization director, Mr. Roosevelt has requested that leaders of both organizations withhold their fire in the Kaiser battle and try to reach a conference solution.

The N.L.R.B. had ordered a hearing at Portland, Ore., on December 14 at the instigation of the C.I.O. Marine and Shipbuilders' Union, which charges that the closed shop contracts between A.F.L. unions and three yards of Henry J. Kaiser were made illegally.

The A.F.L. Metal Trades Department, pledging all its resources in the fight, has assailed the N.L.R.B. for disturbing an amiable relationship. If the contracts are set aside and a collective bargaining election ordered, as the C.I.O. wants, the A.F.L. says bitter electioneering will cut down vital ship production. The C.I.O. union, meanwhile, is soliciting support among the west coast workers.

Rival leaders disclosed their agreement after a day and a half of conferences in a Washington hotel but would not discuss its practical application in relation to specific fights between constituent unions of the two organizations. Unless the individual unions ratify the agreement, there is some doubt whether it can be made binding on any union which chooses to reject it.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the A.F.L. Machinists', declared in advance of the peace negotiations that the A.F.L. committee could not speak for his union or many others in the metal trades group. These are the unions involved in the Kaiser shipyards case.

The joint peace committee set forth in a preamble that it agreed upon the plan "in an effort to make its maximum contribution to our country in the war and for the furtherance and protection of the conditions of the workers."

C.I.O. President Phillip Murray described the agreement as "a broad declaration of principles de-

Annual Plans Are Made for March Of Dimes Paralysis Campaign

Preliminary plans for the annual March of Dimes drive to raise funds to combat infantile paralysis were made at a dinner meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., held Wednesday evening in the Governor Clinton Hotel with Rolliston W. Linscott, regional director of the National Foundation, as the principal speaker of the evening.

Alderman Paul Black, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, presided at the meeting, and Mayor William F. Edelmuth spoke briefly, congratulating those present on the interest shown in the coming campaign, which he said would undoubtedly prove as successful as in former years.

At the meeting it was brought out that the usual President's Ball should be held during January. Mrs. Helen Stern Mann and Ray Garraghan were named as co-chairmen of the ball, which will likely be held on Saturday evening, January 30, at a place to be designated later.

Alderman Black said that it had been thought best to stage the coming campaign in January along similar lines of former successful campaigns held in Kingston and Ulster county.

Chairman Black named the following chairmen, who will select the members of their committees: Schools, Mrs. Margaret Pendill; publicity, Robert S. Rhinehart; industrial concerns, Mrs. Grace DuBois; organization, Mrs. Agnes Powers, and March of Dimes, Paul Black.

It is planned to place coin collection boxes in the various schools and business and industrial plants.

Mr. Linscott, the regional director, congratulated the chapter on its progressiveness, and then spoke briefly of the plans of the Foun-

Troops Are Stationed In Republic

Anglo Mediterranean Fleet 'Covers' Allied Advance in Tunisia, Reports Say

Navy Tells Loss

Eleven Allied War Vessels Also Lost Off Africa

BY ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Liberia has granted the United States air base rights for the duration of the war and American troops, principally negro units, are stationed already in that strategic West African republic.

The United States acted, it said today, at the request of Liberia, which said that due to the nation's strategic location it was in danger of attack and wanted to "safeguard the independence and security of the republic.

"The traditional friendly interest of the United States in the welfare of Liberia" led to the agreement, the State Department said.

The agreement, announced by the State Department today, gives the United States the right to build, control, operate and defend air ports in Liberia and to assist also in the protection and defense of any part of that country which might be liable to attack.

The announcement said the agreement was signed at Monrovia, the Liberian capital, last March 31 by the Liberian secretary of state and Lieutenant Colonel Harry A. McBride, special representative of President Roosevelt.

Britain's powerful Mediterranean fleet was reported "covering" the Allied advance in Tunisia today while the London admiralty announced the destruction of four more enemy merchant ships and two destroyers en route to North Africa with reinforcements for the hard-pressed Axis garrisons at Tunis and Bizerte.

U. S. heavy bombers were officially credited with destroying or crippling six other Axis merchant ships at Tripoli, the enemy's only remaining harbor in Libya.

An Italian version of the sea battle off the Tunisian coast Tuesday night acknowledged the sinking of a fascist destroyer and declared a British cruiser was blown up and a light unit sunk in "a brief but violent encounter."

The British listed the loss of one destroyer, sunk by Axis air attack after a British force of three cruisers and two destroyers had broken up the convoy with its sorely needed fresh strength for the Axis in Tunisia.

Five Transports Lost

Simultaneous announcements in London and Washington disclosed the loss of 11 allied warships and five U. S. naval transports during the AEF-led landings in North Africa nearly a month ago.

In London, H. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told parliament these losses were much smaller than had been expected, considering the magnitude of the operation, and "far less than the enemy claimed."

In the Russian campaign, white-clad Soviet ski troops were reported driving the Germans back across blizzard-swept battlefields west of Moscow, and the Red armies before Stalingrad now controlled Key Heights northwest and southwest of the Volga Metropolis.

Soviet dispatches said Russian tanks on the east bank of the Don river had smashed into Nazi front lines and won control of a junction commanding the "escape" corridor from Stalingrad.

Adolf Hitler's high command was reported rushing reinforcements into at least three keys sectors in a desperate attempt to stem the Soviet tide, but as winter hardened its grip on the long battlefront the government newspaper Izvestia declared that the Nazis were even abandoning some of their mechanized equipment in the snowdrifts as they retreated.

The army newspaper Red Star, describing a typical attack, said Russian ski troops armed with tommyguns and riding atop tanks raced from village to village, met an enemy company, and "awful destruction followed with the whole German company being ground in the snow beneath the tanks while the ski troops raked

The report of Dr. Seeley as president of the Board of Managers and the report of Dr. Holcomb, as superintendent, to the Board of Managers and to the Board of Supervisors, follow:

Annual Report of the President of the Board of Managers

Gentlemen:

The Board of Managers submits an account of its stewardship for the fiscal year. The report covers briefly the professional work and the care of the physical property. Of the professional work you are fully advised in the detailed report of the superintendent, Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb. We desire to express our pride and satisfaction in the outstanding professional skill of the superintendent and his untiring devotion to the work of the hospital. He has been assisted in the past year by Dr. Irving J. Josephson as assistant physician, whose work has proved his high efficiency.

The board and the hospital have been forced since last June to lose the services of Dr. Joseph Jacobson, who not only served as a most valuable member of the Board of Managers but gave his unparalleled skill as chest surgeon to the hospital without charge to the county. His enlistment in the Navy last June, while a great gain to the armed forces of our country, is a great loss to our hospital. In that connection the Board of Managers desires to call the attention of the Board of Supervisors to the increased cost to the county of the care of patients in the State Tuberculosis Hospital at Oneonta for the special treatment we are unable to give our patients since Dr. Jacobson left. We have been paying $17.50 per week out of our budget for the care of these patients, and must soon send another patient for an indefinite stay. The board must recognize what it has meant financially to the county to have had the free services of Dr. Jacobson. Dr. Saul Ritchie, who is now also a member of the armed forces, has given much service as orthopedic surgeon without charge to the county, and we are very grateful to him.

Dewey Names Burton Budget Director

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—John E. Burton, research economist of Garden City, L. I., was named to be New York state budget director today by Governor-elect Thomas E. Dewey.

Dewey described Burton as "the ablest student of government financing that I know." He succeeds J. Buckley Bryan in the $12,000-a-year post.

Burton is 34, married and the father of a son, Coleman Henry B. Burton.

Dewey said Burton's efforts as advisor to the legislative committee which investigated unemployment insurance in 1939 "contributed largely to a total reorganization of that department."

'Get Henderson' Is Move in Congress

Members Out to Retrieve Some Lost Powers; G.O.P. Neutral

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Government bureaus in general and the Office of Price Administration in particular found themselves the targets today of a congressional drive to retrieve some of the powers delegated in recent years to the executive arm of the government.

A definite "get Leon Henderson" movement was under way, with Democratic House members, mostly from the south, joining in a chorus of criticism of the price administrator.

Republicans kept on the sidelines, but influential minority members said they were ready to join in a campaign, expected to reach a climax early in the next Congress, to shear Henderson of much, if not all, of his authority and to apply a legislative squeeze on other emergency bureaus.

"We are suffering from a severe case of federalitis," said Representative Barden (D.-N. C.) in one of several attacks in the House yesterday on what most of the speakers referred to as "the bureaucrats."

Barden drew applause from Democrats and Republicans alike when he suggested that if the heads of federal bureaus refuse to heed the warning of Congress, "let them feel us."

"Somebody down there," he asserted, referring to O. P. A. "wants to get the American people in the habit of crawling to him on their hands and knees and asking for something, even if it's only a blank sheet of paper."

The flare-up was touched off when Chairman Summers (D.-Tex.) of the House judiciary committee spoke of "an upsurge of the people" against O. P. A. regulations and requirements for obtaining rationed goods.

That the O. P. A., and perhaps other bureaus would have difficulty getting appropriations from the next Congress was conceded even

Big Unions Agree To Practical Plan For Cooperation

First Step Toward Total Unity Will Be Taken in Kaiser Closed Shop Dispute

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—The A.F.L.-C.I.O. plan of "practical cooperation," agreed to as a step toward total unity, will get its first test immediately in the Kaiser shipyard dispute.

The plan, decided on yesterday by leaders of America's two major labor movements, provides for arbitration of jurisdictional differences which cannot be solved by the unions themselves. The agreement is subject to approval of the A.F.L. and C.I.O. executive boards, but unity negotiations will go forward meanwhile.

President Roosevelt, it was learned, has intervened to prevent a prospective knock-down, drag-out fight which finds the National Labor Relations Board in the middle. Through James F. Byrnes, his economic stabilization director, Mr. Roosevelt has requested that leaders of both organizations withhold their fire in the Kaiser battle and try to reach a conference solution.

The N.L.R.B. had ordered a hearing at Portland, Ore., on December 14 at the instigation of the C.I.O. Marine and Shipbuilders' Union, which charges that the closed shop contracts between A.F.L. unions and three yards of Henry J. Kaiser were made illegally.

The A.F.L. Metal Trades Department, pledging all its resources in the fight, has assailed the N.L.R.B. for disturbing an amiable relationship. If the contracts are set aside and a collective bargaining election ordered, as the C.I.O. wants, the A.F.L. says bitter electioneering will cut down vital ship production. The C.I.O. union, meanwhile, is soliciting support among the west coast workers.

Rival leaders disclosed their agreement after a day and a half of conferences in a Washington hotel but would not discuss its practical application in relation to specific fights between constituent unions of the two organizations. Unless the individual unions ratify the agreement, there is some doubt whether it can be made binding on any union which chooses to reject it.

Harvey W. Brown, president of the A.F.L. Machinists', declared in advance of the peace negotiations that the A.F.L. committee could not speak for his union or many others in the metal trades group. These are the unions involved in the Kaiser shipyards case.

The joint peace committee set forth in a preamble that it agreed upon the plan "in an effort to make its maximum contribution to our country in the war and for the furtherance and protection of the conditions of the workers."

C.I.O. President Phillip Murray described the agreement as "a broad declaration of principles de-

Preliminary plans for the annual March of Dimes drive to raise funds to combat infantile paralysis were made at a dinner meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., held Wednesday evening in the Governor Clinton Hotel with Rolliston W. Linscott, regional director of the National Foundation, as the principal speaker of the evening.

Alderman Paul Black, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, presided at the meeting, and Mayor William F. Edelmuth spoke briefly, congratulating those present on the interest shown in the coming campaign, which he said would undoubtedly prove as successful as in former years.

At the meeting it was brought out that the usual President's Ball should be held during January. Mrs. Helen Stern Mann and Ray Garraghan were named as co-chairmen of the ball, which will likely be held on Saturday evening, January 30, at a place to be designated later.

Alderman Black said that it had been thought best to stage the coming campaign in January along similar lines of former successful campaigns held in Kingston and Ulster county.

Chairman Black named the following chairmen, who will select the members of their committees: Schools, Mrs. Margaret Pendill; publicity, Robert S. Rhinehart; industrial concerns, Mrs. Grace DuBois; organization, Mrs. Agnes Powers, and March of Dimes, Paul Black.

It is planned to place coin collection boxes in the various schools and business and industrial plants.

Mr. Linscott, the regional director, congratulated the chapter on its progressiveness, and then spoke briefly of the plans of the Foun-

Anglo Mediterranean Fleet 'Covers' Allied Advance in Tunisia, Reports Say

BY ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Liberia has granted the United States air base rights for the duration of the war and American troops, principally negro units, are stationed already in that strategic West African republic.

The United States acted, it said today, at the request of Liberia, which said that due to the nation's strategic location it was in danger of attack and wanted to "safeguard the independence and security of the republic.

"The traditional friendly interest of the United States in the welfare of Liberia" led to the agreement, the State Department said.

The agreement, announced by the State Department today, gives the United States the right to build, control, operate and defend air ports in Liberia and to assist also in the protection and defense of any part of that country which might be liable to attack.

The announcement said the agreement was signed at Monrovia, the Liberian capital, last March 31 by the Liberian secretary of state and Lieutenant Colonel Harry A. McBride, special representative of President Roosevelt.

Britain's powerful Mediterranean fleet was reported "covering" the Allied advance in Tunisia today while the London admiralty announced the destruction of four more enemy merchant ships and two destroyers en route to North Africa with reinforcements for the hard-pressed Axis garrisons at Tunis and Bizerte.

U. S. heavy bombers were officially credited with destroying or crippling six other Axis merchant ships at Tripoli, the enemy's only remaining harbor in Libya.

An Italian version of the sea battle off the Tunisian coast Tuesday night acknowledged the sinking of a fascist destroyer and declared a British cruiser was blown up and a light unit sunk in "a brief but violent encounter."

The British listed the loss of one destroyer, sunk by Axis air attack after a British force of three cruisers and two destroyers had broken up the convoy with its sorely needed fresh strength for the Axis in Tunisia.

Five Transports Lost

Simultaneous announcements in London and Washington disclosed the loss of 11 allied warships and five U. S. naval transports during the AEF-led landings in North Africa nearly a month ago.

In London, H. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, told parliament these losses were much smaller than had been expected, considering the magnitude of the operation, and "far less than the enemy claimed."

In the Russian campaign, white-clad Soviet ski troops were reported driving the Germans back across blizzard-swept battlefields west of Moscow, and the Red armies before Stalingrad now controlled Key Heights northwest and southwest of the Volga Metropolis.

Soviet dispatches said Russian tanks on the east bank of the Don river had smashed into Nazi front lines and won control of a junction commanding the "escape" corridor from Stalingrad.

Adolf Hitler's high command was reported rushing reinforcements into at least three keys sectors in a desperate attempt to stem the Soviet tide, but as winter hardened its grip on the long battlefront the government newspaper Izvestia declared that the Nazis were even abandoning some of their mechanized equipment in the snowdrifts as they retreated.

The army newspaper Red Star, describing a typical attack, said Russian ski troops armed with tommyguns and riding atop tanks raced from village to village, met an enemy company, and "awful destruction followed with the whole German company being ground in the snow beneath the tanks while the ski troops raked

Uncle Sam Apologizes

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—When Uncle Sam is wrong, he'll apologize. Ask the Harold Petersens, parents of Linda Peterson, 2. A photograph made of Linda when she was 10 months old and hadn't the curls she sports now, was used in a government war bond poster. The poster, circulated nationally, depicts a child saying ". . . please give us little guys a chance . . ." And adds ". . . make sure he grows up a free man . . . on to victory . . . avenge December 7!" The treasury department didn't find out until after the posters were printed that Linda was a she, not a he, and she received an apology yesterday.

Public Welfare Commissioner Gives Report to Supervisors

Reports by Albert D. Kniffin, county commissioner of public welfare, constituted the bulk of the business transacted Wednesday evening at the session of the Board of Supervisors. The reports covered various welfare funds and activities which come within his jurisdiction and included the report on the County Home, Dependent Children, Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind and the Old Age Funeral Fund.

In his report Mr. Kniffin listed the various sums which would be required by his departments to cover their activities for the coming year. It was suggested that the following appropriations be made to cover the 1942-1943 activities:

Aid to the blind $2,000. Children in boarding homes $3,800. Old age assistance $90,000. Old age funeral fund $5,000. Emergency relief $10,000. Non-settlement fund $20,000. Aid to dependent children $23,000. Maintenance County Home $16,000.

The recommendations were received and filed and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

In his report on County Home activities for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1942, Mr. Kniffin reported the following charges against the various towns for care of inmates at the home and it was moved that the amounts be levied against the towns and county at large, outside the city of Kingston, the following amounts:

Esopus, $582.60; Gardiner, $436.80; Hardenbergh, $219; Lloyd, $1,897.80; Marbletown, $156; Marlborough, $5,191.20; New Paltz, $430.20; Olive, $207.60; Plattekill, $577.99, after a credit of $387.41 had been allowed; Rochester, $1,115.40; Rosendale, $682.20; Saugerties, $1,182; Shandaken, $278; Shawangunk, $747; Ulster, $1,945.80; Wawarsing, $1,629.60; Woodstock, $390.60, after a credit of $31.61 had been allowed. County at large $1,791. Total for maintenance of inmates of county home $19,409.12.

In his financial report on County Home maintenance Mr. Kniffin reported:

Appropriations $58,439.50, less overdraft of $4,129.70, leaving $54,309.79, to which was added from various sources moneys to bring to total amount available up to $56,401.93. The total expenditures for all purposes, including groceries, wages, clothing, fuel and light, furnishings, general household expenses, burials, farm seeds and fertilizers, etc., was $44,067.56, leaving a balance in the maintenance fund as of October 31, 1942, of $12,334.37.

In his report on child maintenance in boarding homes, Industrial Home and in institutions, Mr. Kniffin reported that the total cost during the year had been $46,976.14. His report gave detailed figures on the number of children being cared for in foster homes, boarding homes and in institutions. The total number in 1942 was 104. During the year 34 children were taken in care and 16 were returned to their parents. The total amount of the fund available for the year had been $51,168.79, from which a credit of funds contributed by parents amounting to $4,200.65 was made, leaving a net cost to the county and towns of $46,967.14. His report was referred to the committee on county commissioner. The following amounts for care of children was referred back to the towns and county at large as their share of the cost:

Esopus, $2,374.06; Gardiner, $2,075.86; Lloyd, $2,666.27; Marbletown, $650.50; Marlborough, $3,052.88; New Paltz, $3,939.44; Olive $1,783.63; Plattekill, $312.43; Rochester, $5,773.57; Rosendale, $4,018.49; Saugerties, $5,060.27; Shandaken, $1,557.29; Shawangunk, $1,698.28; Ulster, $2,411.65; Wawarsing, $5,452.57; Woodstock, $2,605.04; county at large, $1,534.91. Total, $46,967.14.

Mr. Kniffin in his report stated that during the past year one of the child welfare workers had been given a leave of absence for educational purposes and a substitute had been hired. He asked the Board whether in view of the large amount of work, it would not be wise to continue the two during the coming year. Referred to committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

In his report on the Non-Settlement Fund, a revolving fund used for payment of relief to non-residents who may be a charge against the county and who have been paid by the municipality of their residence but which the county of Ulster must reimburse was as follows:

Total receipts $37,871.74. Disbursed $35,927.71. Balance $1,944.03. Reimbursements due from state $1,556.91. From towns $2,947.71. From county $2,769.72. Total due from reimbursements $8,055.97. Mr. Kniffin recommended that there be raised on the county at large the sum of $781.63 to reimburse the fund. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

A report was also made on Emergency Relief as follows:

Balance on hand at beginning of fiscal year, $746.49. Appropriations $9,000.00. Other receipts $23,013.67. Total $32,760.16. Expenditures $30,035.28. Balance on October 31, 1942, $2,724.88. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

The following report was made on Aid to Dependent Children:

Receipts and balance $49,061.56. Expenditures $42,492.62. Balance October 31, 1942, $6,568.94. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

A report was made on the Old Age Assistance costs for the year. Mr. Kniffin reported a total expenditure of $313,113.26, of which $272,250.40 was paid in benefits. On October 31, 1942 there were 962 people receiving Old Age Assistance and the average payment was $19.84 per month in October. The total receipts together with balances on November 1, 1941, was $329,782.30. The balance on October 31, 1942, was $16,669.04. Referred to same committee.

The Aid to the Blind Fund had a total available, including appropriation, balance, state and federal aid, of $8,522.59 and the expenditures during the year were $6,165.06, leaving a balance on October 31, 1942 of $2,371.53 against which were outstanding checks. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

In the Funeral Fund Mr. Kniffin reported that at the beginning of the year there had been a balance of $679.76. Appropriation was $3,000. Refunds amounting to $4,737.68 were received making a total available of $8,417.44. The expenditures during the year were $8,140.00, leaving a balance on October 31, 1942 of $277.44.

A communication was received from City Clerk stating John Costello had been appointed supervisor from the Sixth Ward. His term expires December 31, 1943. His appointment was to fill the vacancy created by the death of Carl Laicher.

The Committee on Printing Proceedings reported one bid from The Freeman Publishing Company and the contract was awarded to that firm for the sum of $3.19 per page.

The Committee on Printing reported bills in the sum of $16,497.74. The bills were reported correct and a just charge against the county and a resolution was offered that that amount be levied and assessed against the county. Over under the rule.

The Committee on Commissioners of Election reported claims in the sum of $840.67 and a resolution was offered that this sum be levied and assessed. Over.

Committee on Town and County Accounts relative to justices' and constables' bills reported claims amounting to $283.50 and a resolution was offered to levy this sum. Over.

The Committee on Sheriff's Accounts reported claims in the sum of $10,064.32 and a resolution was offered that this amount be levied and assessed. Over.

A report by the Committee on Coroners Bills reported claims of $22.50 and a resolution was offered that this sum be levied and assessed. Over.

A change by the state in the fiscal year made necessary the rescinding of a resolution adopted previously, authorizing the entering into of a contract with the city laboratory by the county for laboratory work. In the past the fiscal year has been from June to June. The change moves the fiscal year over to a January to January basis. The former resolution appropriated $12,000 for services from June 1943 to June 1944. Since last year the appropriation was made from June to June, the fund now has in it a sufficient amount to carry the work on to June 1943 and consequently it will be necessary to raise but $6,000 to complete the 1943 work to the end of that year from June. The former resolution authorizing a contract from June to June was rescinded and a new resolution authorizing a contract to conform to the new fiscal year was adopted.

The board also voted to accept back taxes from the O. & W. Railroad, now in bankruptcy, in installments. For the past six or seven years the O. & W. Railroad has been in the hands of a receiver. Several meetings have been held with the railroad and the court relative to payment of back taxes. Under the ruling of the court the railroad property could not be offered for sale for taxes and the taxes have accumulated. An agreement has been arranged whereby the towns and counties through which the railroad runs will be paid 10 per cent of these back taxes without interest or penalties. The board voted to accept the same proposition and receive without interest or penalties the delinquent taxes in 10 per cent installments annually.

Supervisor Rifenbary gave notice that at some future time he would move to suspend the provisions of Rule 6, Section 7, so that resolutions calling for an appropriation might be voted upon the same day offered.

Clerk James A. Simpson announced that supervisors' bills should be in by December 7. The county commissioner of Public Welfare invited the members of the board to make the annual inspection of the County Home at New Paltz on December 10.

The board adjourned to meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Zoot Killers Sentenced

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Neil Simonelli, 16, and Joseph Annunziata, 19, the "zoot-suit" killers of Brooklyn, were sentenced today from 50 years to life each in Sing Sing for the slaying of Irwin Goodman, Brooklyn Mathematics teacher, last Oct. 2. County Judge Peter J. Brancato observed that the normal sentence in second degree murder convictions was 20 years to life, but said that he had decided upon the longer sentence because he did not wish to take the responsibility of permitting the youthful killers eligibility for parole in 13 years, as would be possible under such a sentence.

Debut Is Made

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — With only 26½ hours notice, Marie Wilkins of Lawrence, Kan., last night made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera, singing the role of "Lakme" in place of Lily Pons. Mrs. Wilkins, the wife of Joseph F. Wilkins, head of the voice department at the University of Kansas, was notified Tuesday evening that she could sing the role, after a physician announced that a cold would prevent Miss Pons from taking the part. Largely, the critics reacted favorably to Mrs. Wilkins' performance.

On August 31 the Board of Managers received the resignation of Christopher Snyder as business manager owing to illness, and in accepting it the board expressed its great appreciation of his faithful service rendered since the opening of the hospital. The board unanimously nominated to the State Civil Service Department the name of Mrs. Mary Richards Weber for appointment as institutional manager, and the appointment has been officially approved by that department. In this connection the board feels itself very fortunate to have Mrs. Weber as institutional manager. She has been with the hospital since its opening; is entirely familiar with every detail of its operation, and has most unusual knowledge and skill in its direction.

The board has welcomed to its membership the Rev. John P. McCaffrey, whom your board appointed in the place of the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen. Father McCaffrey has brought to us a fine mind, spirit and great interest in the work.

In the maintenance of the physical property, the exterior of the hospital and nurses' home has been painted at a cost of $2,125, and the water tower at a cost of $558. New refrigeration became imperative, and we were very fortunate in being able to install entirely new refrigeration at a cost of $426. New window shades have been installed throughout the building at a cost of $200. Our employes have painted practically the entire interior of the hospital. The interior of the Nurses' Home has not been painted since 1937, and this work must be done this year. The cost five years ago for the work was over $500, and of course will be more this coming year.

We report 19,708 hospital days at a net per capita of $3.43, which is 27 cents more than last year. This increase is divided between repairs — approximately $1,500; food—approximately $2,900; salaries—approximately $1,800; and fuel and light $400.

I desire to call your attention to the fund to provide moving pictures for the patients. Through the generosity of individuals a fund was provided that enabled us to give the patients every month the best pictures at a cost of $25 per month. This fund became exhausted in September, but the board felt it of such great value to the patients that it authorized the continuance of this entertainment at a cost of $25 per month. Cannot we hope for private contributions to meet this expense?

I wish to express again my appreciation of the gracious co-operation of the members of the Board of Managers and their devoted interest in the conduct of our hospital.

The board is very grateful to the Ladies' Auxiliary for their tireless and efficient service to the patients under the leadership of Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb.

The confidence of the Board of Supervisors in the management is most deeply appreciated and your interest and co-operation mean much to the board.

We have a united desire to so conduct the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital that it will continue to be a source of pride on the part of all the citizens of Ulster county.

Respectfully submitted,
F. B. SEELEY
President, Board of Managers.

REPORT OF THE ULSTER COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1942

To: Dr. Frank B. Seeley, President, and to the Board of Managers of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital:

Recently the New York State Health Department published the death rate from Tuberculosis in Ulster County for 1941. We find that this has reached the lowest point in the history of our county. As we compare it to the figures of only fifteen years ago, which were 103 per hundred thousand population, we are gratified to learn that the latest statistics show a rate of 31 per hundred thousand. To those who have contributed to this remarkable decrease in this mortality and morbidity we feel that a tribute should be paid. To accomplish this result no single person or any single group of persons can claim the full credit. The combined efforts of the educational work which has been done over a period of years by the members of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health; by the members of the medical profession of the county of Ulster; by the personnel of the district state health office and the public health nurses of the county; by the staff of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital; and to a great degree by the intelligent co-operation of the people of the county, this most satisfactory figure must be credited. It has been a splendid bit of team-work, and we all are grateful to our County Board of Supervisors for their financial assistance in the way of sufficient appropriations, without which this work would never have been done. It is a well known fact that when a country is at war the tuberculosis death rate in any community usually rises. This has been due to many factors—long hours of work, over-crowding in homes, the consequent nervous strain which prevails among the people of a community, the tendency to neglect periodic health examinations—all have contributed to this usual increase in the prevalence of tuberculosis cases. Fortunately, the lessons of the last war have not been altogether forgotten during this second world war. It has been estimated that undiscovered cases of Tuberculosis cost the United States Government over $100,000,000 following the first world war during the past twenty-five years. Due to the routine X-raying of inducted men it is hoped that a tremendous saving of lives and money will be effected during our present world wide struggle. For several months when more complete examinations were done at the local medical boards and before men were sent to induction centers without complete examinations, we X-rayed over 1400 Ulster County boys prior to induction. Many cases of tuberculosis were discovered, as well as other heart and lung abnormalities. These X-rays will remain at the Ulster County Hospital and will be of great value in the care of these men when they return to civil life. At the present time we are X-raying large numbers of workers in industrial plants, and we are encouraging the X-raying and examining of applicants for war-time jobs. We still are carrying on as many examinations of school children as the time will allow. Last year nearly 4000 X-ray films were taken of persons in the county who were referred to the hospital for examination.

It must still be remembered that despite all our efforts Tuberculosis is the commonest cause of death between the ages of 15 and 25, and despite a most satisfactory mortality rate in Ulster County this is no time to relax our vigilance.

Many workers in war industries in this vicinity are patients who have been cured and who are now contributing to the war effort, as well as healthy individuals who have never contracted tuberculosis. There are still 599 reported cases of tuberculosis on our list, and with an average of four family contacts per case the group who must be examined and X-rayed periodically is well over 2000 persons. Various types of X-ray film, together with many laboratory procedures, such as examination, culture and inoculation of guinea pigs for the detection of tuberculosis, are now available in our modern and well equipped laboratory system. Without all these aids in tuberculosis control, satisfactory results could never be obtained.

During the past year our hospital has operated to a practically full capacity, and while we have lost some employes who have either entered the armed forces or have taken up positions in war industries at much higher wages than we could pay, I feel that our standards of medical and nursing care in the institution, as well as the various other departments which carry on the necessary work in the operation of a hospital, have not been lowered appreciably. Many of our employes have had to assume extra duties, but have done so in a way that reflects great credit on their loyalty to the hospital. At this time I feel we all owe them a debt of gratitude for working longer hours and performing their duties efficiently and in a cheerful manner.

Hospital days service rendered to patients, 19,708.

Net cost per day per patient, $3.43.

Total clinic cases examined and treated, 2,579.

New positive cases of tuberculosis discovered in clinic, 108.

Patients admitted to hospital, 85.

Patients discharged from hospital, 83.

Comparing the status of the cases admitted in the year 1932, which numbered 90, with those of this year, we note a most interesting fact. Forty-seven of the 90 cases admitted ten years ago were in the far advanced stage of tuberculosis. Last year of the 85 cases admitted, 24 were far advanced, or 28 per cent. This would prove that the earlier diagnosis that is being made has contributed greatly to the fall in the death rate in the county from 85 to 31 last year.

It has been, of course, impossible to operate the hospital at as low a figure as was done last year. The following table of hospital expenditures will show greatly why some rise in operating costs have been and will be unavoidable.

Salaries and wages	$36,585.54
Food, ice, water	16,951.90
Fuel, light, power	6,604.58
Repairs, maintenance, new equipment, replacements	7,423.29
Medical and surgical supplies	2,123.40
X-ray & clinic supplies	1,876.87
Cleaning supplies	1,270.25
Household supplies	1,190.68
Laundry supplies	712.22
Telephone	569.69
Car expense	324.72
Office supplies	333.51
Insurance	172.81
Sundry expenses	923.05
	$77,062.51
Less amount received from patients	9,408.86
Net amount of operation	$67,653.65

Our food costs have advanced $2,978 over last year, or 21 per cent. Our salaries have only advanced from $34,752.36 to $36,585.54, or 5 per cent over last year. You will note that the item of repairs, maintenance, new equipment and replacements has increased $1,473.37 over last year, or 25 per cent. The painting of the entire buildings, including the hospital, nurses' home and water tower cost $2,683.

An inspection of the hospital will show that the property is at a high level of maintenance at this time. The board of managers has followed its previous policy of making necessary repairs and replacements when needed. I believe that this is a business like method in not allowing the property to become depreciated so that large expenditures would be required in any one year.

We have made every effort to collect as much as possible from patients who are treated in the institution. This has always been done with due consideration for the financial status of all patients admitted to the hospital. Our receipts from hospital and clinic patients have increased during the

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—When Uncle Sam is wrong, he'll apologize. Ask the Harold Petersens, parents of Linda Peterson, 2. A photograph made of Linda when she was 10 months old and hadn't the curls she sports now, was used in a government war bond poster. The poster, circulated nationally, depicts a child saying ". . . please give us little guys a chance . . ." And adds ". . . make sure he grows up a free man . . . on to victory . . . avenge December 7!" The treasury department didn't find out until after the posters were printed that Linda was a she, not a he, and she received an apology yesterday.

Public Welfare Commissioner Gives Report to Supervisors

Reports by Albert D. Kniffin, county commissioner of public welfare, constituted the bulk of the business transacted Wednesday evening at the session of the Board of Supervisors. The reports covered various welfare funds and activities which come within his jurisdiction and included the report on the County Home, Dependent Children, Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind and the Old Age Funeral Fund.

In his report Mr. Kniffin listed the various sums which would be required by his departments to cover their activities for the coming year. It was suggested that the following appropriations be made to cover the 1942-1943 activities:

Aid to the blind $2,000. Children in boarding homes $3,800. Old age assistance $90,000. Old age funeral fund $5,000. Emergency relief $10,000. Non-settlement fund $20,000. Aid to dependent children $23,000. Maintenance County Home $16,000.

The recommendations were received and filed and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

In his report on County Home activities for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1942, Mr. Kniffin reported the following charges against the various towns for care of inmates at the home and it was moved that the amounts be levied against the towns and county at large, outside the city of Kingston, the following amounts:

Esopus, $582.60; Gardiner, $436.80; Hardenbergh, $219; Lloyd, $1,897.80; Marbletown, $156; Marlborough, $5,191.20; New Paltz, $430.20; Olive, $207.60; Plattekill, $577.99, after a credit of $387.41 had been allowed; Rochester, $1,115.40; Rosendale, $682.20; Saugerties, $1,182; Shandaken, $278; Shawangunk, $747; Ulster, $1,945.80; Wawarsing, $1,629.60; Woodstock, $390.60, after a credit of $31.61 had been allowed. County at large $1,791. Total for maintenance of inmates of county home $19,409.12.

In his financial report on County Home maintenance Mr. Kniffin reported:

Appropriations $58,439.50, less overdraft of $4,129.70, leaving $54,309.79, to which was added from various sources moneys to bring to total amount available up to $56,401.93. The total expenditures for all purposes, including groceries, wages, clothing, fuel and light, furnishings, general household expenses, burials, farm seeds and fertilizers, etc., was $44,067.56, leaving a balance in the maintenance fund as of October 31, 1942, of $12,334.37.

In his report on child maintenance in boarding homes, Industrial Home and in institutions, Mr. Kniffin reported that the total cost during the year had been $46,976.14. His report gave detailed figures on the number of children being cared for in foster homes, boarding homes and in institutions. The total number in 1942 was 104. During the year 34 children were taken in care and 16 were returned to their parents. The total amount of the fund available for the year had been $51,168.79, from which a credit of funds contributed by parents amounting to $4,200.65 was made, leaving a net cost to the county and towns of $46,967.14. His report was referred to the committee on county commissioner. The following amounts for care of children was referred back to the towns and county at large as their share of the cost:

Esopus, $2,374.06; Gardiner, $2,075.86; Lloyd, $2,666.27; Marbletown, $650.50; Marlborough, $3,052.88; New Paltz, $3,939.44; Olive $1,783.63; Plattekill, $312.43; Rochester, $5,773.57; Rosendale, $4,018.49; Saugerties, $5,060.27; Shandaken, $1,557.29; Shawangunk, $1,698.28; Ulster, $2,411.65; Wawarsing, $5,452.57; Woodstock, $2,605.04; county at large, $1,534.91. Total, $46,967.14.

Mr. Kniffin in his report stated that during the past year one of the child welfare workers had been given a leave of absence for educational purposes and a substitute had been hired. He asked the Board whether in view of the large amount of work, it would not be wise to continue the two during the coming year. Referred to committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

In his report on the Non-Settlement Fund, a revolving fund used for payment of relief to non-residents who may be a charge against the county and who have been paid by the municipality of their residence but which the county of Ulster must reimburse was as follows:

Total receipts $37,871.74. Disbursed $35,927.71. Balance $1,944.03. Reimbursements due from state $1,556.91. From towns $2,947.71. From county $2,769.72. Total due from reimbursements $8,055.97. Mr. Kniffin recommended that there be raised on the county at large the sum of $781.63 to reimburse the fund. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

A report was also made on Emergency Relief as follows:

Balance on hand at beginning of fiscal year, $746.49. Appropriations $9,000.00. Other receipts $23,013.67. Total $32,760.16. Expenditures $30,035.28. Balance on October 31, 1942, $2,724.88. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

The following report was made on Aid to Dependent Children:

Receipts and balance $49,061.56. Expenditures $42,492.62. Balance October 31, 1942, $6,568.94. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

A report was made on the Old Age Assistance costs for the year. Mr. Kniffin reported a total expenditure of $313,113.26, of which $272,250.40 was paid in benefits. On October 31, 1942 there were 962 people receiving Old Age Assistance and the average payment was $19.84 per month in October. The total receipts together with balances on November 1, 1941, was $329,732.30. The balance on October 31, 1942, was $16,669.04. Referred to same committee.

The Aid to the Blind Fund had a total available, including appropriation, balance, state and federal aid, of $8,522.59 and the expenditures during the year were $6,165.06, leaving a balance on October 31, 1942 of $2,371.53 against which were outstanding checks. Referred to Committee on County Commissioner of Public Welfare.

In the Funeral Fund Mr. Kniffin reported that at the beginning of the year there had been a balance of $679.76. Appropriation was $3,000. Refunds amounting to $4,737.68 were received making a total available of $8,417.44. The expenditures during the year were $8,140.00, leaving a balance on October 31, 1942 of $277.44.

A communication was received from City Clerk stating John Costello had been appointed supervisor from the Sixth Ward. His term expires December 31, 1943. His appointment was to fill the vacancy created by the death of Carl Laicher.

The Committee on Printing Proceedings reported one bid from The Freeman Publishing Company and the contract was awarded to that firm for the sum of $3.19 per page.

The Committee on Printing reported bills in the sum of $16,497.74. The bills were reported correct and a just charge against the county and a resolution was offered that that amount be levied and assessed against the county. Over under the rule.

The Committee on Commissioners of Election reported claims in the sum of $840.67 and a resolution was offered that this sum be levied and assessed. Over.

Committee on Town and County Accounts relative to justices' and constables' bills reported claims amounting to $283.50 and a resolution was offered to levy this sum. Over.

The Committee on Sheriff's Accounts reported claims in the sum of $10,064.32 and a resolution was offered that this amount be levied and assessed. Over.

A report by the Committee on Coroners Bills reported claims of $22.50 and a resolution was offered that this sum be levied and assessed. Over.

A change by the state in the fiscal year made necessary the rescinding of a resolution adopted previously, authorizing the entering into of a contract with the city laboratory by the county for laboratory work. In the past the fiscal year has been from June to June. The change moves the fiscal year over to a January to January basis. The former resolution appropriated $12,000 for services from June 1943 to June 1944. Since last year the appropriation was made from June to June, the fund now has in it a sufficient amount to carry the work on to June 1943 and consequently it will be necessary to raise but $6,000 to complete the 1943 work to the end of that year from June. The former resolution authorizing a contract from June to June was rescinded and a new resolution authorizing a contract to conform to the new fiscal year was adopted.

The board also voted to accept back taxes from the O. & W. Railroad, now in bankruptcy, in installments. For the past six or seven years the O. & W. Railroad has been in the hands of a receiver. Several meetings have been held with the railroad and the court relative to payment of back taxes. Under the ruling of the court the railroad property could not be offered for sale for taxes and the taxes have accumulated. An agreement has been arranged whereby the towns and counties through which the railroad runs will be paid 10 per cent of these back taxes without interest or penalties. The board voted to accept the same proposition and receive without interest or penalties the delinquent taxes in 10 per cent installments annually.

Supervisor Rifenbary gave notice that at some future time he would move to suspend the provisions of Rule 6, Section 7, so that resolutions calling for an appropriation might be voted upon the same day offered.

Clerk James A. Simpson announced that supervisors' bills should be in by December 7. The county commissioner of Public Welfare invited the members of the board to make the annual inspection of the County Home at New Paltz on December 10.

The board adjourned to meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Zoot Killers Sentenced

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Neil Simonelli, 16, and Joseph Annunziata, 19, the "zoot-suit" killers of Brooklyn, were sentenced today from 50 years to life each in Sing Sing for the slaying of Irwin Goodman, Brooklyn Mathematics teacher, last Oct. 2. County Judge Peter J. Brancato observed that the normal sentence in second degree murder convictions was 20 years to life, but said that he had decided upon the longer sentence because he did not wish to take the responsibility of permitting the youthful killers eligibility for parole in 13 years, as would be possible under such a sentence.

Debut Is Made

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — With only 26½ hours notice, Marie Wilkins of Lawrence, Kan., last night made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera, singing the role of "Lakme" in place of Lily Pons. Mrs. Wilkins, the wife of Joseph F. Wilkins, head of the voice department at the University of Kansas, was notified Tuesday evening that she could sing the role, after a physician announced that a cold would prevent Miss Pons from taking the part. Largely, the critics reacted favorably to Mrs. Wilkins' performance.

WARS AND FIRES

Wars occur only occasionally in the life of a nation. The United States has averaged about four a century since it started with the Revolution. But fires and accidents go on all the time. Hardly a week passes without persons losing their life by fire. No week goes by without deaths by accident.

Whether wars can be prevented in a question not yet settled—certainly all nations have had wars. But most accidents are preventable by simple habits of caution, and such a devastating fire as that in the Boston night club has no excuse. The boy who used a match to put a bulb in should have had a flashlight. More basic still, there should have been no flimsy decorations in a hall where there were many people, especially in these days when nearly every patron of a restaurant smokes.

There were other foolish things about that fire. Out of nearly 500 patrons, a dozen, perhaps, kept their heads or knew what to do. The rest didn't know, or lost their heads, or both.

When war takes our men, it is tragic. But at least they gave their lives for a holy and heroic cause. They are protected, by training and equipment, as strongly as possible. To lose hundreds of lives through fires which have no reason is tragedy beyond all measure. Why must these things happen?

THE IDLE EDITOR

Editor Carl Broome of the Brantley Enterprise, weekly newspaper, had to fill out a questionnaire for his draft board. His Uncle Sam wanted to know what he did for a living. Readers of "See Here, Private Hargrove," got one of their best laughs out of his gripe about his newspaper job. But Not-Yet-Private Carl Broome does more. Here is his tale.

"I write news, editorials, advertisements, keep books, pay bills, read proof, clean type, set headlines, set advertisements, set news and editorials, pay bills, set jobs, feed press, cut paper, wrap bundles, solicit advertisements, solicit subscriptions, pay bills, repair presses and linotype, splice belts, saw metal cuts, pay bills, chisel cuts, make up newpaper, order supplies, tell people where the local draft board is, tell others where the town's lawyers might be, tell still others that silly rumor they were excited about was only a silly rumor, pay bills, wash forms, distribute type, solicit job printing, pacify irate subscribers whose paper failed to arrive, pay bills, edit bungled copy, collect bills, sort mail, scan the exchanges and maybe clip an item. Then in my spare time I hunt and fish and play checkers."

See here, Private Hargrove, you were only the assistant editor. What were you griping about? You didn't have to pay the bills.

HELL-BENT

The higher they go, the farther they fall; and the bigger they are, the harder they hit. It is so with Hitler and his gang, who aimed to subject all the world to their brutal will.

Hitler is not disposed of yet, but the handwriting is on the wall so clear that he who runs may read.

The Superman is weighed in the balance and found wanting. He and his whole cruel gang, with their barbarous system of murder, pillage, greed and cruelty, are about to be shunted, in Milton's contemptuous phrase, "over the backside of the world far off." Or as Carlyle would put it, swept into the dustbin of history.

It is worth while occasionally to jump ahead in imagination, and think what a sweet world it can be when such trash is swept away. Then back to the big job again, to make the cleansing sure.

BETTER CAR DESIGN

Among the automobile improvements promised after the war is that the driver's seat will be up front, with the motor tucked away in the rear. There will be no hood in front. Presumably the driver will have, for the first time in many years, a clear view of the road immediately ahead.

This obviously will be a great gain. One of the hardest things about driving has been the frontal obstruction of the roadway. That has made it necessary even for a tall driver to do a good deal of guessing about the whereabouts of his front wheels and his nearness to any obstacle. There should be fewer accidents with the new windshield vision, and more accurate maneuvering. It would also help greatly if the huge, bulbous front fenders now in vogue were lowered and narrowed to help frontal vision. Why should such obstructions ever have been allowed to develop?

It will be strange, though, at first, and a little scary, for the driver to find everything clearly visible ahead, and to feel so close to whatever is coming at him. Invisibility has so long given him a false sense of security.

WILD NEIGHBORS

The population of this country is immensely greater than anybody would suppose, offhand. That is, if you consider all the residents, and if you are generous enough to include the furred and feathered people.

In the state of Ohio, for example, which is rather thickly populated with human beings, there was so much trapping last season that furs taken were valued at $2,000,000. The furs came from a million and a half of wild animals — mainly muskrats, 'possums, skunks, raccoons, minks, weasels and foxes. Who would imagine, in driving along the road in any such state, that there were scattered around in the woods hundreds of thousands of 'possums, and along the streams millions of valuable muskrats?

It would be impressive to have figures, or good guesses, on the extent of the wild life in general scattered throughout the country, of which most human residents are oblivious. There would be countless billions of animals and birds all going about their business as actively, and almost as intelligently, as their human neighbors do.

Don't start organizing that Perfect World just yet. There's still some fighting to be done.

Now the Japs are said to be "turning toward Asia," but nobody wants 'em there, either.

In spite of those aerial gliders, most of our gliding will still be done on ballroom floors.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

NERVOUS OR EMOTIONAL RECRUIT

One of the ailments which was "discovered" during and after the last war is what is now called neurocirculatory asthenia, which means body and nerve weakness.

As a matter of fact, this ailment was present in many individuals long before the last war. It is really a group of symptoms that occur in some individuals owing to their general make-up, particularly their nervous and emotional make-up. While the stress and strain of war brought these symptoms to the surface, the roots or foundation of these symptoms were a part of the individual when he was born.

Today medical officers are watching closely during the examination of a recruit trying to find if the recruit or registrant shows any signs or symptoms of neurocirculatory asthenia.

In Annals of Internal Medicine, Dr. J. T. King states that it is necessary for the medical examiner to have the help of a psychiatrist if these individuals are to be kept out of the army. They may be strong enough physically and may be normal mentally but they are not steady or stable emotionally.

The psychiatrist can recognize these cases by their manner during the examination, their answers to certain questions, their response to discipline, any sense of inferiority shown.

From the physical standpoint the medical officer should reject men with very small hearts or who are oversensitive to coffee, alcohol and tobacco as this usually is one evidence of nervous instability.

As in the last war, the exercise test is given to show how the heart reacts to work or effort, as the hearts of these individuals do not usually return to the normal rate within the normal time.

In some cases another test as to the nervous stability of the heart is called the epinephrine or adrenalin test. About seven drops of the usual solution of epinephrine injected into these individuals causes a rise of 10 or more points in the blood pressure, a rise of 10 or more beats in thte pulse rate, with trembling, nervousness, palpitation of the heart and sweating. Men in whom these symptoms occur following this injection are unfit for duty and should be rejected.

This careful examination of recruits or registrants will prevent these men leaving useful work at home and so not become army pensioners.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Sergeant James P. Martin and Motorcycle Officer Elbert Soper of the Kingston police department this week observed the 25th anniversary of becoming members of the police department. They first assumed their duties on December 1, 1917.

Both men have proven efficient members of the department. It is also interesting to recall that Chief of Police Charles Phinney was appointed an ordinance officer by the police board on May 14, 1908, and since then he has served continuously as a member of the department.

Chief Phinney succeeded J. Allan Wood as head of the department when Chief Wood resigned.

During the early years of the first World War, Joseph F. McGreenery, Jr., came to Kingston from Boston, Mass., and opened a cigar factory on lower Broadway. He continued operating the factory until May 13, 1918, when he sold the business to Simon Batt & Co., of New York.

During the years that Mr. McGreenery operated the factory he made his home in Ponckhockie.

And speaking of the first World War, I recall that on May 8, 1918, the Common Council unanimously adopted a resolution requesting the city's newsdealers to refrain from handling any newspapers printed in the language of the countries with which we were at war.

One of the most active members of the Kingston post office department in the years at the turn of the century was Assistant Postmaster Edgar E. Ougheltree, who on May 9, 1918, filed his resignation with the postal authorities in Washington, D. C., after completing 24 years of service with the local post office department.

One of the best known department stores in Kingston in the early years was the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, which in May, 1928, was celebrating its 59th anniversary. The business was established in 1869. Older readers will recall that the business was first established on East Strand where it remained for many years until it was decided to close the downtown store and open the business on Wall street.

The business was continued on Wall street for a number of years until it finally closed its doors.

L. B. Van Wagenen, head of the business for years, was one of the outstanding business men of the city. I recall that for many years he was an active member of the Rondout Presbyterian Church.

Congress Used to Write Laws, Hearings Were Held; Now Decrees Are Prepared in Secret

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 3—Congress used to make the tax laws and the public used to have a chance to express its views at public hearings, after which the measures were debated in the open and public opinion had a chance to criticize particular provisions.

This seems to have been changed. Behind closed doors for several days now the Treasury and the Bureau of Internal Revenue have been trying to write a decree reducing the salaries of businessmen. There has been much backing and filling, much debate and much discussion, but all of it has been secret.

At last the "regulations" have been issued. They have the force of law and persons can be put in jail for violations thereof. Congress refused to put a top limit on salaries, but Mr. Roosevelt disregarded the will of Congress and permitted his bureaucrats to twist the anti-inflation law into alleged power to reduce pre-war salaries on the ground that this prevents inflation.

The new regulations are ambiguous. They do not clearly say that a citizen shall have a maximum of $67,200. They say that his maximum salary shall be reduced by taxes without taking into account the deductions written into the revenue laws. But the unofficial word is that actually the Bureau of Internal Revenue has been instructed to construe the new regulations so that $67,200 is the gross salary, and that if a man has deductions he will be allowed to keep more than a net of $25,000.

It may be asked why, if this is the case, the regulations don't frankly say so. The answer is that it is very necessary to make the C.I.O. believe that its demand for a limit of $25,000 on salaries has really been granted. When the experts in the Bureau of Internal Revenue tried to work out the original executive order and subsequent regulations, they found it couldn't be done without violating existing tax laws which provide for deductions. So secret instructions apparently have been issued to use $67,200 as the basic amount and to permit allowances for deductions, so that conceivably if a man has $67,200 of deductions due to losses and other credits, he could retain as much as $67,200 and pay no tax at all. The revenue laws permit such a result, but the regulations as issued today do not. Doubtless the C.I.O. will be assured that out of the 3,000 persons affected very few, indeed, will have such deductions and that certainly it may not happen in more than one year, so that ultimately the persons with $67,200 will have somewhere around $25,000 left anyway.

It is important that the C.I.O. be placated, for ever since John Lewis left that organization the report has been heard that everything must be done to build up the prestige of the C.I.O., so that Lewis will not be able to undermine his brethren in the organization he founded.

Also Mrs. Roosevelt, who is credited with the idea of limiting salaries to $25,000, must be vindicated, and that's important, too, to those who are given the difficult task of writing regulations. So what has been written and made public would appear literally to prevent anybody from having any more than $25,000 left after taxes are paid, and deductions to be ignored, whereas actually the Bureau of Internal Revenue understands that, in practical application of the regulations, the deductions still stand.

This technique of facing both ways is possible only because the administration does not want to appear today to have reversed its original position. It wouldn't like to announce that it has agreed to a salary of $67,200. It sounds better politically to talk of a "$25,000 net income." But anybody with any sort of deductions—often running for legitimate reasons to 10 or even 20 per cent of a gross salary—will in a number of instances be permitted to retain sums in excess of $25,000, according to the latest word from inside sources. But it seems the regulations mustn't say so. It must remain a secret, and doubtless, since individual income tax returns are not made public, there is no way of disproving the claim of the administration that $25,000 net is the top limit.

Another thing which the regulations do that seems at variance with the act of Congress is in reference to the wage and hour law known as the fair labor standard act. The anti-inflation law specifically says that nothing in the measure is in any way to suspend or affect the wage and hour law. But in the "regulations" just issued will be found this amazing paragraph:

"Payment for overtime will constitute an increase in salary rate, and thus will require the approval of the commissioner, unless the customary practice of the employer has been to pay for overtime and the rate has not been changed."

The rate specified in the law is time-and-a-half, and if an employer has not paid for overtime in the past he has violated the law. Under the new regulations, he must continue to violate the law. Thus are the star chamber regulations proclaimed without opportunity for the public to be represented to challenge those regulations before their adoption.

The Logan-Walter bill provides for just such a check. The President vetoed it last year, but it will be revived after January when the people's Congress comes into power.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"ALL NIGHT LONG," by Erskine Caldwell.

Second product of Erskine Caldwell's Russian journey last year is a novel called "All Night Long." The publishers are correct in calling it Caldwell's most exciting novel, and probably they are wrong when they say it is his best. It is, however, more than good enough. And it was safely sold to the movies long before publication, so it does not much matter in a sense what anybody says, myself included.

It is the comparatively simple story of a young Russian guerrilla and his still younger wife from the day the Germans ride into their village over a road paved with dead Russian civilians to another and more frightening day when Sergei, having rescued his young wife from what they used to call a fate worse than death in a German brothel, must leave her again to carry on his bloody job. What lies between is an intelligent exposition of Russian guerrilla methods centered around a group of characters that seem typical of Russia and her effort. At least to me, who never has been in Russia.

There is Pavlenko, who has no feet and the Germans to thank for the fact. Pavlenko is the man in charge of Sergei's detail. There is the boy Vladimir, who is too young for a guerrilla and is hanged by the Germans because he insisted on trying. Fyodor is the half-crazed one who has watched the Germans rape and then bayonet his wife and daughter; who is glad to die, if only he can kill a sufficient number of Germans first. There is also a German diversionist of the feminine gender, a very well realized Russian agent who lives helpfully in a captured Russian town, learning what can be done to harass the Germans, and leading guerrilla detachments in the doing.

There are a good many others of smaller importance, each with his share in Mr. Caldwell's design. The design is most effective—he wants you to know that no matter what happens to Russian military power, there will be no end to Russian resistance until the Germans are liquidated. Perhaps liquidated one by one, over many years. But killed in the end.

The Russians, Mr. Caldwell seems to say, have what we lack up to now; a motivated, justified implacable hatred just as sustaining as rare beef roast on a cold day.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The Capitol in Wartime:

After almost a year of war and nearly twice that of military preparedness, Washington's "week-end beds" have caught up with the visiting soldiers. The other day manufacturers heretofore hamstrung by priorities dumped a load of cots on the Capital's doorstep, making it possible for the city to take care of 2,500 visiting service men. The average of visiting service men here on a week-end is 2,000—but that doesn't include officers and, of course, doesn't include the thousands of uniformed men stationed here. From Friday to Monday morning, uniforms seem to outnumber civvies. The rest of the week, it's about half and half.

During that Senate filibuster on the poll tax, the gallery was generously sprinkled (as always these days) with service men. According to the men who walk the corridors outside, what some of those boys had to say about the business should cause a lot of senatorial ears to burn for weeks. One lad walked out of the gallery, turned to a startled gray-haired guard and said: "What I'd like to say about those guys down there, I wouldn't even say about the sergeant behind his back."

There's talk that the Civil Aeronautics Administration may soon go into uniform. I don't blame them. With the WOWs, Wafs, Waacs, Waves, Spars, CAP, Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, nurses, Red Cross, and half a dozen civilian defense outfits already in uniform, I don't see why we don't make it unanimous.

In the last few years, I have received any number of letters giving me the ripe red raspberry for writing about the high cost of living in Washington. I probably will get more, but from now on I have one statistical out: the figures released recently by the Labor Department. The department dipped its test tube into 33 cities and found that the "maintenance level" (a shade higher than the "minimum of subsistence") for a family of four is higher here than anywhere else in the land—to be exact, $1,731.88.

Many Washington observers will say positively that the next tax bill will include that old tax that the New Deal has fought so hard these many years—the sales tax.

When the 1943 tax bill is in the making, Economic Stabilization Director "Jimmy Byrnes may have as much to say about it as Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Which probably will be all right with Mr. Morgenthau. He has had trouble enough getting Congress to ride along with his ideas. They may listen to Ex-Senator, Ex-Supreme Court Justice Byrnes, whose tent in the New Deal camp, don't forget, has never been very far away from the commander-in-chief's.

Blind Author Sees the World: It Spins Around His Fingers

By JOHN SELBY

KARSTEN OHNSTAD
. . . Still A Capable Person . . .

New York—The hotel room is small, high up with a good view of East Side back yards and alley cat hangouts. You sit at the window facing the door. Next to the door is a closet, next to that the bed. On your right is a writing table, on your left a chest of drawers.

It is Karsten Ohnstad's room and you are waiting for him. In a moment the key is inserted in the lock, the door opens, and Ohnstad says, "Hello."

He takes off his top coat and hangs it quickly in the closet. "How are you?" he asks, walking easily down the room. He shakes hands briskly, takes out a pack of cigarettes, and says "Have one?" You do, and he seats himself in the chair by the window.

It happens so naturally you forget that it's almost a miracle. For Ohnstad has been blind since he was seventeen, and he has been in the hotel only a few hours.

Author of Bright Book

Ohnstad's book, "The World at My Fingertips," made quite a stir. It's a bright book, gay in spots, in which he tells just what happened to him and why, and how he has managed to overcome one handicap after another, and even to find a few advantages in his sightless state.

For example, a friend taught him to tell from echoes the size and shape of things along the sidewalk—a hedge six inches high makes a difference.

He can mark cards inconspicuously, and play good bridge, and skating is one of his favorite sports. He skates alone, and knows by the sounds he hears when other skaters approach. He admits that he avoids crowded ice rinks—but so do sighted people.

Went Through College

He can locate curbs, partly by hearing and partly by the contour of the paving, and quite often he has been asked directions by people who saw him striding along and thought he could see. He went through a "sighted" college, made a fraternity, earned much of his own keep and had a good time out of it.

Oddly, he accepts all these things and a great many more as perfectly natural. He asks no quarter from anyone.

"The difficulty with too many sightless people," he says, "is that they have given themselves an inferiority complex. You can sit on your rear end in a room for a lifetime, worrying about crossing that wide street downstairs.

"If you can once realize your own capabilities, the rest isn't difficult. You may have lost your sight—but you are still a capable person. Useful too, if you want."

Ohnstad lives now in Northfield, Minn. He's going home by way of Indianapolis and Louisville. More, he's going alone and he expects to have a good time.

As good a time as he had when he saw "Uncle Harry" and went to the Music Hall.

$13,000,000 Sold Each Payday, Is Report

Although no quotas have ever been set and there is no pressure upon them to do so, nearly 2,000,000 soldiers, from privates to generals, now are buying approximately $13,000,000 in war bonds every payday, the War Department reported today.

Rear Admiral Charles Conard, chairman of the Interdepartmental War Bond Committee, who received the report of soldier war bond purchases as part of an over-all accounting by the War Department of both civilian and military payroll savings, said he was so impressed that he immediately forwarded the statistics to the secretary of the treasury.

"There were reports," the Admiral said, "that remarkable success had been achieved by the soldiers in handling War Bond Payroll Savings campaigns, particularly in the Australian theatre. The fact that every phase of the army's war bond program is voluntary is a striking tribute to soldier morale."

Both abroad and in home camps and forts, the soldiers themselves have spurred war bond purchases and have set a mark for civilians to shoot at. In some regiments, every man has subscribed to a payroll reservation plan.

On the basis of the September reports, the War Department Finance Office estimated that, as of November 1, 1942, the number of military subscribers to the pay reservation plan had mounted to 1,910,621, with total deductions of $13,145,072. Civilian participants for the same date were set at 543,230, with their deductions totalling $5,839,722.

Admiral Conard said the war bond record of soldiers is an inspiration not only to civilian War Department employes but to the nation as a whole.

'Electric Eye' Checks Speeders

Richmond, Va. (AP) — Governor Darden is planning to use "electric eyes" to aid the state police, whose ranks have been depleted by volunteers for the Army and Navy, in a check up on speeders on state highways. Between 25 and 50 mechanical and portable speed checkers will be purchased if the equipment is available.

On August 31 the Board of Managers received the resignation of Christopher Snyder as business manager owing to illness, and in accepting it the board expressed its great appreciation of his faithful service rendered since the opening of the hospital. The board unanimously nominated to the State Civil Service Department the name of Mrs. Mary Richards Weber for appointment as institutional manager, and the appointment has been officially approved by that department. In this connection the board feels itself very fortunate to have Mrs. Weber as institutional manager. She has been with the hospital since its opening; is entirely familiar with every detail of its operation, and has most unusual knowledge and skill in its direction.

The board has welcomed to its membership the Rev. John P. McCaffrey, whom your board appointed in the place of the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen. Father McCaffrey has brought to us a fine mind, spirit and great interest in the work.

In the maintenance of the physical property, the exterior of the hospital and nurses' home has been painted at a cost of $2,125, and the water tower at a cost of $558. New refrigeration became imperative, and we were very fortunate in being able to install entirely new refrigeration at a cost of $426. New window shades have been installed throughout the building at a cost of $200. Our employes have painted practically the entire interior of the hospital. The interior of the Nurses' Home has not been painted since 1937, and this work must be done this year. The cost five years ago for the work was over $500, and of course will be more this coming year.

We report 19,708 hospital days at a net per capita of $3.43, which is 27 cents more than last year. This increase is divided between repairs — approximately $1,500; food—approximately $2,900; salaries—approximately $1,800; and fuel and light $400.

I desire to call your attention to the fund to provide moving pictures for the patients. Through the generosity of individuals a fund was provided that enabled us to give the patients every month the best pictures at a cost of $25 per month. This fund became exhausted in September, but the board felt it of such great value to the patients that it authorized the continuance of this entertainment at a cost of $25 per month. Cannot we hope for private contributions to meet this expense?

I wish to express again my appreciation of the gracious co-operation of the members of the Board of Managers and their devoted interest in the conduct of our hospital.

The board is very grateful to the Ladies' Auxiliary for their tireless and efficient service to the patients under the leadership of Mrs. Frederic W. Holcomb.

The confidence of the Board of Supervisors in the management is most deeply appreciated and your interest and co-operation mean much to the board.

We have a united desire to so conduct the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital that it will continue to be a source of pride on the part of all the citizens of Ulster county.

Respectfully submitted,
F. B. SEELEY
President, Board of Managers.

REPORT OF THE ULSTER COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL

FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING OCTOBER 31, 1942

To: Dr. Frank B. Seeley, President, and to the Board of Managers of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital:

Recently the New York State Health Department published the death rate from Tuberculosis in Ulster County for 1941. We find that this has reached the lowest point in the history of our county. As we compare it to the figures of only fifteen years ago, which were 103 per hundred thousand population, we are gratified to learn that the latest statistics show a rate of 31 per hundred thousand. To those who have contributed to this remarkable decrease in this mortality and morbidity we feel that a tribute should be paid. To accomplish this result no single person or any single group of persons can claim the full credit. The combined efforts of the educational work which has been done over a period of years by the members of the Ulster County Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health; by the members of the medical profession of the county of Ulster; by the personnel of the district state health office and the public health nurses of the county; by the staff of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital; and to a great degree by the intelligent co-operation of the people of the county, this most satisfactory figure must be credited. It has been a splendid bit of team-work, and we all are grateful to our County Board of Supervisors for their financial assistance in the way of sufficient appropriations, without which this work would never have been done. It is a well known fact that when a country is at war the tuberculosis death rate in any community usually rises. This has been due to many factors—long hours of work, over-crowding in homes, the consequent nervous strain which prevails among the people of a community. The tendency to neglect periodic health examinations—all have contributed to this usual increase in the prevalence of tuberculosis cases. Fortunately, the lessons of the last war have not been altogether forgotten during this second world war. It has been estimated that undiscovered cases of Tuberculosis cost the United States Government over $100,000,000 following the first world war during the past twenty-five years. Due to the routine X-raying of inducted men it is hoped that a tremendous saving of lives and money will be effected during our present world wide struggle. For several months when more complete examinations were done at the local medical boards and before men were sent to induction centers without complete examinations, we X-rayed over 1400 Ulster County boys prior to induction. Many cases of tuberculosis were discovered, as well as other heart and lung abnormalities. These X-rays will remain at the Ulster County Hospital and will be of great value in the care of these men when they return to civil life. At the present time we are X-raying large numbers of workers in industrial plants, and we are encouraging the X-raying and examining of applicants for war-time jobs. We still are carrying on as many examinations of school children as the time will allow. Last year nearly 4000 X-ray films were taken of persons in the county who were referred to the hospital for examination.

It must still be remembered that despite all our efforts Tuberculosis is the commonest cause of death between the ages of 15 and 25, and despite a most satisfactory mortality rate in Ulster County this is no time to relax our vigilance.

Many workers in war industries in this vicinity are patients who have been cured and who are now contributing to the war effort, as well as healthy individuals who have never contracted tuberculosis. There are still 599 reported cases of tuberculosis on our list, and with an average of four family contacts per case the group who must be examined and X-rayed periodically is well over 2000 persons. Various types of X-ray film, together with many laboratory procedures, such as examination, culture and inoculation of guinea pigs for the detection of tuberculosis, are now available in our modern and well equipped laboratory system. Without all these aids in tuberculosis control, satisfactory results could never be obtained.

During the past year our hospital has operated to a practically full capacity, and while we have lost some employes who have either entered the armed forces or have taken up positions in war industries at much higher wages than we could pay, I feel that our standards of medical and nursing care in the institution, as well as the various other departments which carry on the necessary work in the operation of a hospital, have not been lowered appreciably. Many of our employes have had to assume extra duties, but have done so in a way that reflects great credit on their loyalty to the hospital. At this time I feel we all owe them a debt of gratitude for working longer hours and performing their duties efficiently and in a cheerful manner.

In summarizing the clinical work which was done in our hospital during the past year the following figures are presented:

Hospital days service rendered to patients, 19,708.

Net cost per day per patient, $3.43.

Total clinic cases examined and treated, 2,579.

New positive cases of tuberculosis discovered in clinic, 108.

Patients admitted to hospital, 85.

Patients discharged from hospital, 83.

Comparing the status of the cases admitted in the year 1932, which numbered 90, with those of this year, we note a most interesting fact. Forty-seven of the 90 cases admitted ten years ago were in the far advanced stage of tuberculosis. Last year of the 85 cases admitted, 24 were far advanced, or 28 per cent. This would prove that the earlier diagnosis that is being made has contributed greatly to the fall in the death rate in the county from 85 to 31 last year.

It has been, of course, impossible to operate the hospital at as low a figure as was done last year. The following table of hospital expenditures will show greatly why some rise in operating costs have been and will be unavoidable.

Salaries and wages	$36,585.54
Food, ice, water	16,951.90
Fuel, light, power	6,604.58
Repairs, maintenance, new equipment, replacements	7,423.29
Medical and surgical supplies	2,123.40
X-ray & clinic supplies	1,876.87
Cleaning supplies	1,270.25
Household supplies	1,190.68
Laundry supplies	712.22
Telephone	569.69
Car expense	324.72
Office supplies	333.51
Insurance	172.81
Sundry expenses	923.05
	$77,062.51
Less amount received from patients	9,408.86
Net amount of operation	$67,653.65

Our food costs have advanced $2,978 over last year, or 21 per cent. Our salaries have only advanced from $34,752.36 to $36,585.54, or 5 per cent over last year. You will note that the item of repairs, maintenance, new equipment and replacements has increased $1,473.37 over last year, or 25 per cent. The painting of the entire buildings, including the hospital, nurses' home and water tower cost $2,683.

An inspection of the hospital will show that the property is at a high level of maintenance at this time. The board of managers has followed its previous policy of making necessary repairs and replacements when needed. I believe that this is a business like method in not allowing the property to become depreciated so that large expenditures would be required in any one year.

We have made every effort to collect as much as possible from patients who are treated in the institution. This has always been done with due consideration for the financial status of all patients admitted to the hospital. Our receipts from hospital and clinic patients have increased during the

House Gives Kramer $3,000 for Son's Death

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP) — The House has passed a bill (HR6489) authorizing payment of $4,500 to Dr. I. Arthur Kramer for injuries to himself and for the death of his three-year-old child, Georgene, as the result of the crash of an Army plane at Hempstead, L. I., September 2, 1941.

Dr. Kramer, who suffered severe burns on the hands while trying to put out the resulting fire, would receive $1,500 for his own injuries and $3,000 for the death of his child.

The motor of the Army plane failed after it took off from Mitchel Field and headed toward Whitestone Bridge. It caught fire, crashed and burned. The pilot bailed out and landed in a tree. Georgene Kramer, Jasper Cuccio, 5, and Pauline Cuccio, 8, who were playing near the scene of the crash, were sprayed with flaming gasoline and fatally burned.

Dr. and Mrs. Kramer suffered burns attempting to smother flames on the children's clothing.

The noblest kind of a dog is the hot dog, for it not only doesn't bite the hand that feeds it; it feeds the hand that bites it.

Hubby—Darling, did you take a dollar bill out of my right-hand pants pocket last night?

Wifey—Certainly not! Maybe you don't know it, but there's a hole in that pocket.

Definitions

Education — That which you learn yourself.

Knowledge—That which others teach you.

Spooning—Necking without the nectar.

Profanity — The language of top sergeants.

Committe—A body that keeps minutes and wastes hours.

Work—What a business executive does between conferences, board meetings, civic luncheons, phone calls, visitors and sickness.

Memory—That wonderful mental training which always recalls what you want to forget and is certain to forget the thing you should remember.

Young Girl—How did you know I was going to wear my hair curled this evening.

Boy Friend—I saw it in the papers this morning.

Making Hay . . .We are told that it is advisable "to make hay while the sun shines" . . . The successful man goes ever farther than this . . . He makes hay from grass that other people let grow under their feet . . . Such men are able to recognize opportunity.

Tramp—But, ma'am, I don't know where my next meal is coming from.

Woman—Do you think I'm an information booth?

Recently a group of women gave one of their friends a stork shower all of which was very interesting to the little 3-year-old girl of the family. She ran out to greet her father, upon his arrival, exclaiming: "Daddy, they gave mother a shower today—and they brought everything but the baby."

She—Now, I want you to look me in the face and say whether or not you haven't married me for my money!

He (after looking at her face) —Yes, I married you for your money.

Read It Or Not

James Madison was only five feet four inches tall. He was the shortest President. The tallest was Abraham Lincoln, who was six feet four inches. President Franklin D. Roosevelt is six foot two inches.

Warden (to murderer in electric chair)—Is there anything you would like to do before I push the fatal button?

Thoughtful Murderer—Yes, I would like to give my seat to a lady.

The nose-print of a dog is as distinctive and individual as the finger-prints of human beings.

Man—My wife is a very hard woman to please.

Friend—But she wasn't always that way.

Man—How do you know?

Friend—Why, she married you, didn't she?

Pat was one day employed by an old lady in the country. At noon, when serving Pat's lunch, she gave him a very small amount of honey to sweeten his coffee. "Begorra, ma'am," said Pat, "I see you keep a bee."

Mountaineer—Doctor, I want you to look at my son-in-law. I shot at him yesterday, and took a piece out of his ear.

Doctor—Shame on you, shooting your son-in-law.

Mountaineer—Huh! He wasn't my son-in-law when I shot him.

Amended Regulations for Unemployment Insurance

Albany, N. Y. — In accordance with an amendment to the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law, effective November 30, unemployment will be measured in days instead of complete weeks of seven consecutive days, as in the past. Milton O. Loysen, executive director of the division of placement and unemployment insurance, today announced amended regulations covering this change in the law.

The amended regulations require employers to respond promptly to queries from the division as to why an employe was separated from the payroll, the date he was separated, and whether or not the employer has work available for him.

If a worker is filing his first claim in the benefit year, employers must return all pertinent information to the division within six business days. If a worker is filing an additional claim — his second, third or fourth, etc., in the benefit year — his last employer will be asked to furnish the following information: the days the claimant worked in designated weeks, his earnings in those weeks, the date he was separated from the payroll, the reason for the separation, whether the claimant was available for work in designated weeks, and whether the employer has work available for the claimant. For the purposes of the amended law, a "week" is the seven-day period beginning with Monday and ending with Sunday. This information must be returned to the division within three business days.

In the past, employers were required to return information relevant to payroll separations only when the worker quit voluntarily, was discharged because of misconduct, or was involved in an industrial controversy. Under the amended regulations, however, the information requested must be returned in all instances.

A worker must file a claim and register for employment whenever he seeks benefits for the first time in any benefit year and after each spell of employment with an employer other than his last registered employer. By "his last registered employer" is meant the employer on record in the insurance office as his last employer.

If a worker who has filed a claim has two successive spells of unemployment occasioned by separation from the same employer, he can reinstate his claim by merely reporting to the insurance office on his regular reporting day —the day originally assigned him when he can certify to four or more days of unemployment in the preceding week. If there was an intervening spell of employment with a different employer, he must, as mentioned before, report to the insurance office on his first day of unemployment.

Customs Are Old And Odd but Are All Very Merry

AP Features

Along the sandy backroads of Alabama the tots and the hoary-haired are setting off strings of staccato firecrackers in the still night . . . in a tiny fishing hamlet at Hatteras the folks still have two weeks to wait for their real celebration . . . up in New England the lights are dimmer than usual but the spirit is bright . . . down in the southwest corner of North Carolina devout pilgrims are climbing to the tip of Burger mountain for re-enactment of the Nativity. . . .

This is Christmas, United States of America, 1942 A. D.

Every town has a celebration, but here are some of the unusual, the strange, the old fashioned. . .

Grimy-faced coal miners high in the Ortiz mountains of New Mexico have been saving and preparing for months to make their town of Madrid (pop. 430) a mecca for thousands. Madrid's celebration, in the heart of the fiesta-country, is a tradition. In early December every man, woman and child in town helps string electrical lines, install sound systems, trim 350 outdoor trees, construct mechanized displays and a dozen Biblical scenes. For a month the lights shine on in magnificent spectacle. Built on the mountainside is a miniature Bethlehem, while above it in tableaux frightened shepherds gaze upward at the Christmas Star. . . .

Across the nation, in Pennsylvania's Moravian district, another Bethlehem carries on a traditional candlelight ceremony that was begun in 1756. The church service is known as the "love feast," which signifies the bringing together of all classes. Afterwards, in Moravian homes, children hurry to find the "putz," a miniature landscape that is another age old tradition.

Another Pennsylvania group carrying on as of old are the Swedes in Philadelphia. For them the Christmas season begins with a pageant on December 13, Santa Lucia Day, in the parish hall of historic Gloria Dei (Old Swedes) church, built in 1700.

Down at Winston-Salem, N. C., Moravians hold the "love feast" too, and the Christmas "putz" is displayed. But highlight of Winston-Salem's holiday activity is the community party in which 50,000 persons take part.

Another North Carolina city, Wilmington, claims the "world's largest Christmas tree," a 300-year-old live oak that is the center of festivity.

Out on stormy Hatteras island, the fisherfolk of tiny Rodanthe, N. C., observe "Old Christmas" or Twelfth Night on January 5, keeping up a custom that dates back to the founding of the community. (This Twelfth Night celebration is a day early for some unknown reason.) Santa Claus comes on Christmas Eve, but when he returns for "Old Christmas" he brings with him "Old Buck," a menacing ogre who takes care of naughty children while Santa administers to the good.

At Murphy, N. C., the Churches of God prepare a replica of ancient Bethlehem at the eastern end of a natural amphitheatre between Ten Commandants and Sermon on the Mount peaks. On the afternoon before Christmas at the hour coinciding with midnight in Palestine, the Nativity pageant is enacted. . . .

Boston is planning its annual Christmas tree on Boston Common, but minus lights. Carolers, a tradition on fashionable Beacon Hill, will tour the district as usual, but their candles will be blacked out.

Newburyport, Mass., has undertaken the job of raising enough money to send every man and woman from the city in the armed services a $10 Christmas check.

Up in New Hampshire, Episcopal Bishop John T. Dallas, has called upon the public to discontinue this Christmas the giving of "habit gifts."

"Habit giving," the Rt. Rev. Dallas says, "is but an expression of hurried friendship. Forget the gifts and do the harder thing, write a personal note as a taken of good will."

Citrus Fruit New Victory Food Special

Today, all over the nation, grapefruit and tangerines become Victory Food Specials, to be featured through December 12 under the Agricultural Marketing Administration's program of wise wartime food use.

This year's bumper crop of grapefruit — 45 million boxes — comes into the market at the usual opportune time, when its vitamin C can help ward off winter colds. There is also a lot of vitamin B in that many cases of grapefruit.

This year consumption of fresh grapefruit will be even more desirable since little or no tin is available for canning either the whole fruit segments or juice. Bernard J. Miller of the A. M. A., in announcing the new Victory Food Special locally, pointed out that "here is another opportunity for homemakers and menu-planners to use an abundant fresh product more extensively, both in place of canned and processed foods of the same type and as substitutes for other scarcer foods."

The 3½ million boxes of tangerines in this year's crop are also an important part of the current Victory Food Special.

In January, when a second seasonal peak is reached in citrus harvesting, grapefruit, oranges and tangerines will be featured on the Victory Food Calendar.

Seventeen different foods have already been featured as Victory Food Specials. Many more will follow. Mr. Miller urged housewives to watch for the Victory Foods regularly and to use them often in planning their wartime meals. "These are the foods to do with while we are doing without other foods," Mr. Miller declared.

Something New to Drink!

By BEULAH V. GILLASPIE

AND, whether you're "under the sun" or not, it isn't difficult to serve those guests (or family) "something new." Delightfully soothing beverages can be concocted as far as your imagination will stretch. We suggest a trio here; but you can extemporize as you desire.

STRAWBERRY PUNCH

2 cups strawberries	1 pint strawberry ice cream
¾ to 1 cup light corn syrup	2 cups carbonated water
1 cup milk

Reserve a few of the berries for garnish. Slice the remaining berries, add to the hot corn syrup and mix well. Chill and pour into a punch bowl. Add the milk and one half of the ice cream and stir until the ice cream is partially melted. Pour in the carbonated water. Top with the remaining ice cream and garnish with the strawberries cut in half. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and additional ice cream. Ten to twelve servings. Increase the recipe to serve large numbers.

MOCHA FROST

1 pint chocolate ice cream	4½ cups cold coffee

Put the ice cream in 6 glasses, fill with the coffee and mix well. Six servings.

PINEAPPLE FREEZE

1 pint vanilla ice cream	2 cups crushed sweetened pineapple
Carbonated water

Put the ice cream in 6 glasses. Add the pineapple and stir until well mixed. Fill the glasses with carbonated water. Six servings.

Beans Are Nutritious

Dinner For 3 Or 4

Chili Beans Buttered Beets
Brown Bread and Butter
Tossed Fruit Salad
Harvest Dessert Milk or Coffee

Chili Limas

- 1 pound dried limas
- 4 tablespoons bacon fat
- ¼ cup chopped celery
- 1/3 cup chopped onions
- 1/3 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 1/3 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- 3 cups tomatoes
- 2/3 cup sliced or grated cheese
- 1 tablespoon minced parsley

Wash beans and cover with water. Let soak two hours or longer. Simmer in covered pan until tender. Drain and reserve the bean stock for soup. Heat fat in frying pan, simmer 5 minutes celery, onions, seasonings. Add beans, tomatoes and cheese. Boil gently 5 minutes. Bake 40 minutes in buttered dish in moderate oven.

Harvest Dessert

- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- ¼ cup cold water
- 2 egg yolks
- ½ cup honey or 2/3 cup corn sirup
- 1 1/3 cups cooked mashed pumpkin
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon cloves
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
- 1 tablespoon butter, melted
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 teaspoon grated orange rind
- ¾ cup milk
- 2 beaten egg whites

Soak gelatin 5 minutes in water. Beat yolks and add honey, pumpkin, spices, salt, butter, rind and milk. Cook in double boiler uuntil steaming. Stir frequently to make the blend creamy. Add gelatin and cook until dissolved. Cool and lightly mix in rest of ingredients. Pour into crumb crust.

Crumb Crust

- 1 cup rolled bread crumbs
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ⅛ teaspoon salt

Sprinkle crumbs on shallow pan and bake or place under broiler until well browned. Add rest of ingredients and pour into buttered, shallow dish. Add the filling and chill. Serve plain or topped with whipped cream.

PURE. Even the best cooks approve the quality of Flako; it contains the same good ingredients they use. And everybody welcomes Flako's convenience—nothing to do but just add water, roll and bake. Best of all, ingredients are precision-mixed assuring delicious results at every baking.

Wife Takes Husband's Job As Erie Dairy Tester

Ithaca—Mrs. Leo Crittenden, of Springville, a graduate of the November dairy herd improvement testers' school at the New York State College of Agriculture, this week took her husband's place as dairy tester for the No. 2 Dairy Herd Improvement Association of Erie county.

Mrs. Crittenden finished the dairy testing school on Friday, November 20, the day her husband was called into the army. She is the 15th woman in New York state to take a man's place in this work essential to the improvement of dairy herds and vital to assure a steady supply of milk to the nation. She prepared for the job, before taking the refresher course, by helping her husband in his work during the past three months. She will test 19 herds of 441 cows in the towns of East Aurora, Boston, and Springville. Two of the three associations in Erie county are now operated by women, as Miss Lorraine Lesling, who took a dairy testing course at the college in September, has been testing the Northern Erie Association of 22 herds and 377 cows, since October 1.

Miss Phyllis Engelson of Marion, also a graduate of the November school, makes the 16th woman dairy tester in the state, as she starts work for two Wayne county dairy herd improvement associations this month.

Others who completed the two-week course in dairy testing and keeping of records are: May Bannister, Ithaca, Tompkins county; Margaret Lynch, Andover, Allegany county; Evelyn McAllister, Truxton, Cortland; Delos Campbell, New Woodstock, Madison; Laverne Crost, Strykersville, Wyoming; Mike Popovich and Gilbert Wyand, Spencerport, Monroe; Roy Sheen, Burke, Franklin; and Charles Reed, Berkshire, Tioga.

In January of this year, only two of the 115-odd dairy testers of New York state were women. In the past two testers' schools at the college, about half of the students enrolled have been women preparing to take the places of men.

Dairy testing is tough, hard work in the winter, with much of the work done in barns, or in milkhouses in which the temperature in winter usually runs 20 to 30 degrees below the 65 degrees suggested for homes. According to G. W. Tailby of the Dairy Records Office of the New York State College of Agriculture, all associations with women testers report that they are doing an excellent job.

Next in the series of dairy testers schools will be scheduled at Ithaca January 4 to 16, 1943.

FLYER BECOMES ALBUM

When the pilot of a Sunderland flying boat received a spinal injury landing in rough water on the West Coast of Africa he was placed in a plaster cast that was soon transformed into an autograph album. His fellow officers contributed autographs, comic sketches, designs in lipstick, a bridge score, and epigrams. On the voyage home to London the ship's nurses added their names. When the plaster was removed the flyer said he felt as if he had lost many old friends.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

IT'S UP TO YOU, MR. and MRS. CONSUMER

TO MAKE THE VOLUNTARY 2½ lb. PER WEEK MEAT RATION PLAN WORK!

America's production of meat this year is the largest in our history. The Armed Forces and Lend-Lease will take slightly more than one-quarter of it, which still leaves almost a NORMAL supply of meat for civilians. However, civilian demands are HIGHER than normal—longer hours of hard work make more people want more meat than usual. Therefore it is necessary that we be patriotic citizens preferring to follow the American Way and CHOOSE to share the supply of beef, pork, lamb and veal.

The "Share the Meat" program is a voluntary one. Uncle Sam asks that you limit yourself fairly and conscientiously to 2½ pounds of meat each week in order that others do not have to go without. That limit should be easy because it is the AVERAGE adult consumption and you don't have to include Poultry, Fish, Liver, Hearts, Kidneys and a variety of ready-prepared meats in the 2½ pounds. Eat all you want of those items.

Meat markets for some months have been restricted in their purchases, so you can't always get the particular cut of meat you desire. However, you can always get SOME kind of meat. Don't attempt to do without the tasty, healthful food values that meat provides. Plan your meals ahead, learn all you can about meat, use every bit of it and make it stretch.

America has meat. Americans can eat plenty of it — but only if we all share! It's up to you.

WARS AND FIRES

Wars occur only occasionally in the life of a nation. The United States has averaged about four a century since it started with the Revolution. But fires and accidents go on all the time. Hardly a week passes without persons losing their life by fire. No week goes by without deaths by accident.

Whether wars can be prevented in a question not yet settled—certainly all nations have had wars. But most accidents are preventable by simple habits of caution, and such a devastating fire as that in the Boston night club has no excuse. The boy who used a match to put a bulb in should have had a flashlight. More basic still, there should have been no flimsy decorations in a hall where there were many people, especially in these days when nearly every patron of a restaurant smokes.

There were other foolish things about that fire. Out of nearly 500 patrons, a dozen, perhaps, kept their heads or knew what to do. The rest didn't know, or lost their heads, or both.

When war takes our men, it is tragic. But at least they gave their lives for a holy and heroic cause. They are protected, by training and equipment, as strongly as possible. To lose hundreds of lives through fires which have no reason is tragedy beyond all measure. Why must these things happen?

THE IDLE EDITOR

Editor Carl Broome of the Brantley Enterprise, weekly newspaper, had to fill out a questionnaire for his draft board. His Uncle Sam wanted to know what he did for a living. Readers of "See Here, Private Hargrove," got one of their best laughs out of his gripe about his newspaper job. But Not-Yet-Private Carl Broome does more. Here is his tale.

"I write news, editorials, advertisements, keep books, pay bills, read proof, clean type, set headlines, set advertisements, set news and editorials, pay bills, set jobs, feed press, cut paper, wrap bundles, solicit advertisements, solicit subscriptions, pay bills, repair presses and linotype, splice belts, saw metal cuts, pay bills, chisel cuts, make up newpaper, order supplies, tell people where the local draft board is, tell others where the town's lawyers might be, tell still others that silly rumor they were excited about was only a silly rumor, pay bills, wash forms, distribute type, solicit job printing, pacify irate subscribers whose paper failed to arrive, pay bills, edit bungled copy, collect bills, sort mail, scan the exchanges and maybe clip an item. Then in my spare time I hunt and fish and play checkers."

See here, Private Hargrove, you were only the assistant editor. What were you griping about? You didn't have to pay the bills.

HELL-BENT

The higher they go, the farther they fall; and the bigger they are, the harder they hit. It is so with Hitler and his gang, who aimed to subject all the world to their brutal will.

Hitler is not disposed of yet, but the handwriting is on the wall so clear that he who runs may read.

The Superman is weighed in the balance and found wanting. He and his whole cruel gang, with their barbarous system of murder, pillage, greed and cruelty, are about to be shunted, in Milton's contemptuous phrase, "over the backside of the world far off." Or as Carlyle would put it, swept into the dustbin of history.

It is worth while occasionally to jump ahead in imagination, and think what a sweet world it can be when such trash is swept away. Then back to the big job again, to make the cleansing sure.

BETTER CAR DESIGN

Among the automobile improvements promised after the war is that the driver's seat will be up front, with the motor tucked away in the rear. There will be no hood in front. Presumably the driver will have, for the first time in many years, a clear view of the road immediately ahead.

This obviously will be a great gain. One of the hardest things about driving has been the frontal obstruction of the roadway. That has made it necessary even for a tall driver to do a good deal of guessing about the whereabouts of his front wheels and his nearness to any obstacle. There should be fewer accidents with the new windshield vision, and more accurate maneuvering. It would also help greatly if the huge, bulbous front fenders now in vogue were lowered and narrowed to help frontal vision. Why should such obstructions ever have been allowed to develop?

It will be strange, though, at first, and a little scary, for the driver to find everything clearly visible ahead, and to feel so close to whatever is coming at him. Invisibility has so long given him a false sense of security.

WILD NEIGHBORS

The population of this country is immensely greater than anybody would suppose, offhand. That is, if you consider all the residents, and if you are generous enough to include the furred and feathered people.

In the state of Ohio, for example, which is rather thickly populated with human beings, there was so much trapping last season that furs taken were valued at $2,000,000. The furs came from a million and a half of wild animals — mainly muskrats, 'possums, skunks, raccoons, minks, weasels and foxes. Who would imagine, in driving along the road in any such state, that there were scattered around in the woods hundreds of thousands of 'possums, and along the streams millions of valuable muskrats?

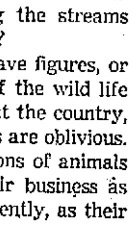
It would be impressive to have figures, or good guesses, on the extent of the wild life in general scattered throughout the country, of which most human residents are oblivious. There would be countless billions of animals and birds all going about their business as actively, and almost as intelligently, as their human neighbors do.

Don't start organizing that Perfect World just yet. There's still some fighting to be done.

Now the Japs are said to be "turning toward Asia," but nobody wants 'em there, either.

In spite of those aerial gliders, most of our gliding will still be done on ballroom floors.

THAT BODY OF YOURS



By James W. Barton, M.D.

NERVOUS OR EMOTIONAL RECRUIT

One of the ailments which was "discovered" during and after the last war is what is now called neurocirculatory asthenia, which means body and nerve weakness.

As a matter of fact, this ailment was present in many individuals long before the last war. It is really a group of symptoms that occur in some individuals owing to their general make-up, particularly their nervous and emotional make-up. While the stress and strain of war brought these symptoms to the surface, the roots or foundation of these symptoms were a part of the individual when he was born.

Today medical officers are watching closely during the examination of a recruit trying to find if the recruit or registrant shows any signs or symptoms of neurocirculatory asthenia.

In Annals of Internal Medicine, Dr. J. T. King states that it is necessary for the medical examiner to have the help of a psychiatrist if these individuals are to be kept out of the army. They may be strong enough physically and may be normal mentally but they are not steady or stable emotionally.

The psychiatrist can recognize these cases by their manner during the examination, their answers to certain questions, their response to discipline, any sense of inferiority shown.

From the physical standpoint the medical officer should reject men with very small hearts or who are oversensitive to coffee, alcohol and tobacco as this usually is one evidence of nervous instability.

As in the last war, the exercise test is given to show how the heart reacts to work or effort, as the hearts of these individuals do not usually return to the normal rate within the normal time.

In some cases another test as to the nervous stability of the heart is called the epinephrine or adrenalin test. About seven drops of the usual solution of epinephrine injected into these individuals causes a rise of 10 or more points in the blood pressure, a rise of 10 or more beats in thte pulse rate, with trembling, nervousness, palpitation of the heart and sweating. Men in whom these symptoms occur following this injection are unfit for duty and should be rejected.

This careful examination of recruits or registrants will prevent these men leaving useful work at home and so not become army pensioners.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

Sergeant James P. Martin and Motorcycle Officer Elbert Soper of the Kingston police department this week observed the 25th anniversary of becoming members of the police department. They first assumed their duties on December 1, 1917.

Both men have proven efficient members of the department. It is also interesting to recall that Chief of Police Charles Phinney was appointed an ordinance officer by the police board on May 14, 1908, and since then he has served continuously as a member of the department.

Chief Phinney succeeded J. Allan Wood as head of the department when Chief Wood resigned.

During the early years of the first World War, Joseph F. McGreenery, Jr., came to Kingston from Boston, Mass., and opened a cigar factory on lower Broadway. He continued operating the factory until May 13, 1918, when he sold the business to Simon Batt & Co., of New York.

During the years that Mr. McGreenery operated the factory he made his home in Ponckhockie.

And speaking of the first World War, I recall that on May 8, 1918, the Common Council unanimously adopted a resolution requesting the city's newsdealers to refrain from handling any newspapers printed in the language of the countries with which we were at war.

One of the most active members of the Kingston post office department in the years at the turn of the century was Assistant Postmaster Edgar E. Ougheltree, who on May 9, 1918, filed his resignation with the postal authorities in Washington, D. C., after completing 24 years of service with the local post office department.

One of the best known department stores in Kingston in the early years was the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, which in May, 1928, was celebrating its 59th anniversary. The business was established in 1869. Older readers will recall that the business was first established on East Strand where it remained for many years until it was decided to close the downtown store and open the business on Wall street.

The business was continued on Wall street for a number of years until it finally closed its doors.

L. B. Van Wagenen, head of the business for years, was one of the outstanding business men of the city. I recall that for many years he was an active member of the Rondout Presbyterian Church.

In 1932 only 13 states levied taxes on tobacco; now the number has increased to 28.

Cottekill, Dec. 2 — Sunday School will be at 1:30 o'clock and worship service with the Rev. Ivan Dykstra at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold the regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Oscar Beach. All members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Henry Pape and son, Henry, of Staten Island, spent the holiday vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Prall.

Mrs. Mary Barringer is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Tillie Sutton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Depuy and son, Arthur, were dinner guests of her sister, Mrs. John McGrane of Kingston Thanksgiving Day.

Miss Nettie Meyerhuber of Brooklyn and a friend, Miss Matt Hutson of New York, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Beach for the Thanksgiving holidays.

James Beatty of Kingston spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. James Pine and Mr. and Mrs. S. Wilson.

Mrs. Grant Addis spent Thanksgiving Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Miller in Kerhonkson.

Mrs. Robert Hicks and son, Robert, spent Tuesday with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barringer received word from their son, Richard, who entered the armed forces November 23, that he has arrived in Florida.

BLUE MOUNTAIN

Blue Mountain, Dec. 2—The Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Duryee were Thanksgiving day guests of Mrs. Clara Wolven and son, Edson.

Miss Anna Short was the guest Thanksgiving day of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Short at Mt. Marion.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freligh attended the funeral of their aunt, Mrs. Samuel Freligh at Ravena on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Hommell and daughter, Joyce, of Saugerties, spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. Hommell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hommell.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sameth and Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield of Infield Acres called on Mrs. Frank Schoonmaker recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Freligh were dinner guests of Mrs. Freligh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Myer of Kingston recently.

HE'S SOLDIER AT LAST

After 1,000 days of trying to enter the Army, Douglas Hay of Batlow, Australia, is now in uniform. Hay made 27 attempts to enlist, trying all of the services in turn. When he finally succeeded in getting a medical examination he passed A1.

Congress Used to Write Laws, Hearings Were Held; Now Decrees Are Prepared in Secret

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 3—Congress used to make the tax laws and the public used to have a chance to express its views at public hearings, after which the measures were debated in the open and public opinion had a chance to criticize particular provisions.

This seems to have been changed. Behind closed doors for several days now the Treasury and the Bureau of Internal Revenue have been trying to write a decree reducing the salaries of businessmen. There has been much backing and filling, much debate and much discussion, but all of it has been secret.

At last the "regulations" have been issued. They have the force of law and persons can be put in jail for violations thereof. Congress refused to put a top limit on salaries, but Mr. Roosevelt disregarded the will of Congress and permitted his bureaucrats to twist the anti-inflation law into alleged power to reduce pre-war salaries on the ground that this prevents inflation.

The new regulations are ambiguous. They do not clearly say that a citizen shall have a maximum of $67,200. They say that his maximum salary shall be reduced by taxes without taking into account the deductions written into the revenue laws. But the unofficial word is that actually the Bureau of Internal Revenue has been instructed to construe the new regulations so that $67,200 is the gross salary, and that if a man has deductions he will be allowed to keep more than a net of $25,000.

It may be asked why, if this is the case, the regulations don't frankly say so. The answer is that it is very necessary to make the C.I.O. believe that its demand for a limit of $25,000 on salaries has really been granted. When the experts in the Bureau of Internal Revenue tried to work out the original executive order and subsequent regulations, they found it couldn't be done without violating existing tax laws which provide for deductions. So secret instructions apparently have been issued to use $67,200 as the basic amount and to permit allowances for deductions, so that conceivably if a man has $67,200 of deductions due to losses and other credits, he could retain as much as $67,200 and pay no tax at all. The revenue laws permit such a result, but the regulations as issued today do not. Doubtless the C.I.O. will be assured that out of the 3,000 persons affected very few, indeed, will have such deductions and that certainly it may not happen in more than one year, so that ultimately the persons with $67,200 will have somewhere around $25,000 left anyway.

It is important that the C.I.O. be placated, for ever since John Lewis left that organization the report has been heard that everything must be done to build up the prestige of the C.I.O., so that Lewis will not be able to undermine his brethren in the organization he founded.

Also Mrs. Roosevelt, who is credited with the idea of limiting salaries to $25,000, must be vindicated, and that's important, too, to those who are given the difficult task of writing regulations. So what has been written and made public would appear literally to prevent anybody from having any more than $25,000 left after taxes are paid, and deductions to be ignored, whereas actually the Bureau of Internal Revenue understands that, in practical application of the regulations, the deductions still stand.

This technique of facing both ways is possible only because the administration does not want to appear today to have reversed its original position. It wouldn't like to announce that it has agreed to a salary of $67,200. It sounds better politically to talk of a "$25,000 net income." But anybody with any sort of deductions—often running for legitimate reasons to 10 or even 20 per cent of a gross salary—will in a number of instances be permitted to retain sums in excess of $25,000, according to the latest word from inside sources. But it seems the regulations mustn't say so. It must remain a secret, and doubtless, since individual income tax returns are not made public, there is no way of disproving the claim of the administration that $25,000 net is the top limit.

Another thing which the regulations do that seems at variance with the act of Congress is in reference to the wage and hour law known as the fair labor standard act. The anti-inflation law specifically says that nothing in the measure is in any way to suspend or affect the wage and hour law. But in the "regulations" just issued will be found this amazing paragraph:

"Payment for overtime will constitute an increase in salary rate, and thus will require the approvel of the commissioner, unless the customary practice of the employer has been to pay for overtime and the rate has not been changed."

The rate specified in the law is time-and-a-half, and if an employer has not paid for overtime in the past he has violated the law. Under the new regulations, he must continue to violate the law. Thus are the star chamber regulations proclaimed without opportunity for the public to be represented to challenge those regulations before their adoption.

The Logan-Walter bill provides for just such a check. The President vetoed it last year, but it will be revived after January when the people's Congress comes into power.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"ALL NIGHT LONG," by Erskine Caldwell.

Second product of Erskine Caldwell's Russian journey last year is a novel called "All Night Long." The publishers are correct in calling it Caldwell's most exciting novel, and probably they are wrong when they say it is his best. It is, however, more than good enough. And it was safely sold to the movies long before publication, so it does not much matter in a sense what anybody says, myself included.

It is the comparatively simple story of a young Russian guerrilla and his still younger wife from the day the Germans ride into their village over a road paved with dead Russian civilians to another and more frightening day when Sergei, having rescued his young wife from what they used to call a fate worse than death in a German brothel, must leave her again to carry on his bloody job. What lies between is an intelligent exposition of Russian guerrilla methods centered around a group of characters that seem typical of Russia and her effort. At least to me, who never has been in Russia.

There is Pavlenko, who has no feet and the Germans to thank for the fact. Pavlenko is the man in charge of Sergei's detail. There is the boy Vladimir, who is too young for a guerrilla and is hanged by the Germans because he insisted on trying. Fyodor is the half-crazed one who has watched the Germans rape and then bayonet his wife and daughter; who is glad to die, if only he can kill a sufficient number of Germans first. There is also a German diversionist of the feminine gender, a very well realized Russian agent who lives helpfully in a captured Russian town, learning what can be done to harass the Germans, and leading guerrilla detachments in the doing.

There are a good many others of smaller importance, each with his share in Mr. Caldwell's design. The design is most effective—he wants you to know that no matter what happens to Russian military power, there will be no end to Russian resistance until the Germans are liquidated. Perhaps liquidated one by one, over many years. But killed in the end.

The Russians, Mr. Caldwell seems to say, have what we lack up to now; a motivated, justified implacable hatred just as sustaining as rare beef roast on a cold day.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The Capitol in Wartime:

After almost a year of war and nearly twice that of military preparedness, Washington's "week-end beds" have caught up with the visiting soldiers. The other day manufacturers heretofore hamstrung by priorities dumped a load of cots on the Capital's doorstep, making it possible for the city to take care of 2500 visiting service men. The average of visiting service men here on a week-end is 2,000—but that doesn't include officers and, of course, doesn't include the thousands of uniformed men stationed here. From Friday to Monday morning, uniforms seem to outnumber civvies. The rest of the week, it's about half and half.

During that Senate filibuster on the poll tax, the gallery was generously sprinkled (as always these days) with service men. According to the men who walk the corridors outside, what some of those boys had to say about the business should cause a lot of senatorial ears to burn for weeks. One lad walked out of the gallery, turned to a startled gray-haired guard and said: "What I'd like to say about these guys down there, I wouldn't even say about the sergeant behind his back."

There's talk that the Civil Aeronautics Administration may soon go into uniform. I don't blame them. With the WOWs, Waacs, Waves, Spars, CAP, Army, Navy, Marines, Coast Guard, nurses, Red Cross, and half a dozen civilian defense outfits already in uniform, I don't see why we don't make it unanimous.

In the last few years, I have received any number of letters giving me the ripe red raspberry for writing about the high cost of living in Washington. I probably will get more, but from now on I have one statistical out: the figures released recently by the Labor Department. The department dipped its test tube into 33 cities and found that the "maintenance level" (a shade higher than the "minimum of subsistence") for a family of four is higher here than anywhere else in the land—to be exact, $1,731.88.

Many Washington observers will say positively that the next tax bill will include that old tax that the New Deal has fought so hard these many years—the sales tax.

When the 1943 tax bill is in the making, Economic Stabilization Director "Jimmy" Byrnes may have as much to say about it as Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. Which probably will be all right with Mr. Morgenthau. He has had trouble enough getting Congress to ride along with his ideas. They may listen to Ex-Senator, Ex-Supreme Court Justice Byrnes, whose tent in the New Deal camp, don't forget, has never been very far away from the commander-in-chief's.

Girl Scouts Get Grateful Letter

Soldier Appreciates Gift Sent by Kingston Girls

Girl Scouts of Troop No. 5, St. John's Episcopal Church, have been sending packages of personal items to relatives of the girls now serving in the armed forces. At each meeting one of these packages is sent. Mrs. Emanuel Manos of 12 Presidents place is one of the leaders of this troop and she received the following letter from Corp. Byron S. Shoemaker whose home is on Tremper avenue. "I was very pleased and surprised today to receive the most welcome and useful gift from the Girl Scouts. All soldiers eagerly receive mail of any sort, but a package of American cigarettes, soap, razor blades, chewing gum, etc., is a prize indeed. Such articles are especially welcome because in some isolated locations they are very difficult to obtain. I appreciate your effort and thank you very much.

"I'm assuming you obtained my name from my niece, Dorothy Kurdt, and I hope you will extend my thanks to her and the rest of the girls in your troop.

"My organization is an anti-aircraft unit located "somewhere in Australia" so you can see that little package certainly had a long trip.

"I'm unable to say anything about the war except that we're doing our best and hoping to return home as soon as possible."

Sincerely,
BYRON S. SHOEMAKER

Rhinecliff Man Legatee

Dairy Cooperative Wants New York Price Change

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—An agency claiming to represent 58 dairy cooperatives, anticipating a "grievous surplus problem" next spring, urges restoration of diversion payments on milk to the federal-state order governing the New York milkshed.

In a resolution passed at the sixth annual meeting yesterday, the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Inc., asserting it represents 28,000 dairymen, foresaw "the certainty of a market breakdown which will arise as the flush season approaches." Meanwhile, the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association announced in Syracuse last night it had been informed the Office of Price Administration had ruled its recent price regulations on wholesale sales of milk and cream do not supersede the New York city marketing order. Leon A. Chapin, league treasurer, said this permitted the association to "continue deliveries of milk to metropolitan distributors today." Recently Fred H. Sexauer, president, said the league might be forced to cease furnishing milk dealers to avoid violating O.P.A. price regulations described as conflicting with the order.

St. Ann's Sawkill Hall Closes for Duration

St. Ann's Hall at Sawkill, after six years of recreation activities for the residents of that locality, has been closed for the duration of the war. The last frolic and dance was held Saturday night in the hall.

St. Ann's Recreation Hall for the past six years has been the scene of many forms of entertainment such as dinners, plays, dances, children's parties and meetings of all kinds. All of the parish activities have been held in the hall, as well as any meeting that was in the interest of the community. At the dances there were always two bands to furnish the music, one a "hill billy" band, and the other a band playing modern dance music.

The 9 Billion Dollar Victory Loan Drive Is On!

This week the United States Government begins the task of borrowing nine billion dollars within the next several weeks as an essential part of winning the war more quickly and more completely.

During these critical weeks you probably will be visited by a representative of one of the securities firms or banks which are contributing their time and effort — without compensation of any kind — to the Victory Fund Committee. He will explain to you, for instance, the benefits that you can obtain from the new Victory 2½'s —available for the first time. Welcome him as a war worker when he calls. If you miss him, ask your banker or securities dealer for full particulars. There is no limit to the amount that you can purchase.

Today many American families are torn apart. Millions have left their homes or their jobs; thousands have given their lives and many more are prepared to do so.

But the government, your government, is not asking you to give anything to this Nine Billion Dollar Drive. It is asking you to lend it all of the money you can possibly invest in what is the safest investment in the world—at a good rate of interest.

When the victory Fund representative calls, please remember this: it is in your own interest, as well as that of your country, to listen to him—and to invest.

BUY THESE VICTORY 2½'s NOW

Twenty-six year 2½ per cent bonds due December 15, 1968, callable December 15, 1963. Issued in coupon or registered form at the option of the buyer. Commercial banks will not be permitted to hold these bonds until ten years after the date of issue. There is no limit on the amount any eligible investor may purchase. Interest is paid semi-annually, June 15 and Dec. 15. The bonds will be sold in denominations from $500 to $100,000. In the event of the death of a holder, the bonds may be redeemed at 100% and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying federal estate taxes.

Two series of shorter term obligations: (a) 1¾ per cent bonds due June 15, 1948, and (b) ⅞ per cent certificates of indebtedness due one year after issuance. These securities are open for subscription by banks, and also by all other classes of investors, whether private, corporate or institutional.

Other Treasury Securities offered to investors through the Victory Fund Committee are Treasury Tax Savings Notes A and C, and U. S. Savings Bonds, Series F and G.

Spotlight of War Seems to Be Swinging to Pacific Area

Effect Upon Farm Prices Is Seen in Present Situation

In Last War Cry From Europe Was for Grain, This Time It's for Food in Edible Form

By FRANKLIN MULLIN

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Agricultural price rises during the first full year of American participation in the war are reminiscent of what happened a quarter century ago but, at the same time, mute evidence of the different effect of two wars upon the farm.

The first anniversary of Pearl Harbor will find market prices of major farm commodities, which usually soar in wartime because of the immense needs, approximately 20 per cent above a year ago. Some prices have risen only slightly; others sharply. Efforts to bridle wartime inflation have been partly responsible for the fact that prices are not higher.

Market observers studying price trends during the two wars say the significant thing is not the general rise, which was to be expected, but which commodities were mostly directly affected.

In the last war the price of grains responded most quickly. Wheat soared above $3 a bushel, corn above $2, rye almost to $3. Prices of meat animals and other livestock produce such as dairy products and eggs followed but more slowly.

In the past year the situation has been the reverse. Grains, the bulk of which are used to fatten and nourish livestock, have lagged while meat animals and livestock products have soared.

The reason, market men said, lies in the basic differences between the effects of the two wars upon the nation's agricultural economy. It also lies in the fact that Government Price Stabilization Control has had a very important market effect, with Federal agencies both supporting prices and attempting to check their rise beyond certain limits. There was much less of this during the last war.

Bread and Grains

A quarter century ago the cry from an allied Europe still intact and fighting on its own soil was for bread and grains with which to maintain its own agriculture. Now, with enemy occupation of the bulk of Europe, finished foods such as meat and processed dairy and poultry products are in most demand. As a result, vast surpluses of grain have been piled up in this country, at present burdening on prices but nevertheless vital if livestock output is to be expanded and Europe fed after the war.

Market improvement in methods of preparing and transporting the more processed foods has helped to shift demand to them. Also, most important, they require less shipping space.

Market experts believe that if controls to combat inflation hold, the bulk of the price rise in farm products engendered by this war has occurred. Already most major commodities are at or near top limits which direct or indirect ceilings on processed foods will permit at present. However, they said, there may be forces which the government cannot control. Highest prices for some commodities during the last war period were paid after the Armistice.

Wheat sold around $1.17 a bushel here the day before Japanese bombs fell at Pearl Harbor. A month or so later the price was up about 20 cents but since then almost half of the gain has been lost. In 1917, wheat soared to $3.45 and when the government stopped trading in futures, the price was pegged at $2.17.

Corn prices rose from 75 cents to almost $1 in the weeks following Pearl Harbor but most of this gain has since been lost. A quarter century ago corn soared from $1.31 to $2.86 but by the end of the first year of American participation all the gain had been erased. Oats have lost all of a 10 cents upturn following Pearl Harbor.

On the other hand, hog prices rose almost $6 per hundredweight the past year to a 22-year peak of $15.70 and still show a 37 per cent advance over last December 7. Cattle have risen more than $3 to above $17 for choice beef, or slightly higher than prices prevailing in April, 1918. Twenty-five years ago hogs rose from $16 to almost $20 but lost more than half this advance in the first war year.

In the past year butter prices have advanced 32 per cent to near 46 cents a pound for best grade in the Chicago Wholesale Market. Eggs have risen 18 per cent to near 40 cents a dozen. These are ceilings.

At the end of the first year of American involvement in the last war butter was quoted around 42 cents and eggs around 35 cents, with butter two cents lower than in April, 1917, and eggs only about three cents higher.

Cotton prices have advanced more than a cent a pound from levels that prevailed a year ago. This compares with more than 11 cents 25 years ago.

Questionnaires Are 'Designed' to Turn Nation Republican

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP) — The authors of some of the government's more complicated questionnaires were accused by Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the Senate finance committee today of "sitting up nights trying to find some new way of making the country go Republican."

George said in an interview he was confident Congress would take drastic steps to stem the tide of questionnaires and reports which have been issued by government bureaus, probably by limiting appropriations or repealing authority under which such activities are carried out.

Harold D. Smith, director of the budget bureau, through which all government questionnaires are cleared, appointed five officers of business and industry associations to help solve the problem. His action was termed a "step in the right direction" by Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who told a joint investigating committee today in a prepared speech that the situation had become so serious "as actually to interfere with activities essential to the efficient conduct of the war."

Senator George told reporters that government agencies are "employing literally thousands of persons to prepare questionnaires and examine the answers—if they actually are examined—all to no purpose." He expressed belief that 90 per cent of them could be eliminated.

The joint committee on reduction of non-essential expenditures is headed by W. J. Donald of the American Trade Association executives. Other members are F. Stuart Fitzpatrick of the United States Chamber of Commerce, David R. Craig of the American Retail Federation, J. F. D. Rohrbach of the National Association of Manufacturers, and H. P. Thornton of the Controllers Institute of America.

Red and White Candy Canes Have Disappeared

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — Sugar plums will be most visions in youngsters' heads this Christmas.

The red and white striped candy canes, which used to provide all-Christmas-Day sucking for boys and girls, have practically disappeared.

"I guess they'll have to settle for lollipops," said one confectioner who quit making the traditional sugar sticks.

Chocolate Santa Clauses, reindeer and other toothsome figures likewise have approached the memory-only status.

"They're solid chocolate and we just can't do them," a manufacturer said.

He pointed out that chocolate quotas were 60 per cent of former years and said probably not more than 35 per cent of the cocoa product would reach civilian mouths.

New X-Ray Machine Wins Praise for Finding Shrapnel

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—A newly developed X-ray machine, used for quickly locating bullets or shrapnel pieces in the bodies of wounded soldiers, has won praise for its front-line service in the North African campaign.

The machine, on display at the convention of the Radiological Society of North America, was developed by Lieut. Col. Alfred A. De Lorimer of the army medical school, Washington, working in cooperation with officials of the Picker X-ray Corporation.

Representatives of the manufacturers yesterday said that Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had telegraphed from North Africa to commend the machine's usefulness on the firing line in North Africa.

The machine can be set up in the field in a few minutes after being transported by airplane in three small cases to any fighting front, the radiologists were told. When used on a stretcher-borne casualty, it can locate bullets or shrapnel in 40 seconds. An iodine mark on the soldier's body, plus a record of the depth of the missile, later guides the surgeon when he probes.

A larger field unit, which requires three trunks for transportation and a tent darkroom, was developed more than a year ago and more than 3,000 of these have been delivered to the army. The more compact units, however, were described as serving the need of X-ray still closed to the actual fighting line.

Army medical officers at the convention said X-ray machines of a crude type were used to a limited extent in the first world war. In this war, however, they said that the lives of many soldiers would be saved by the accurate and early information given as to the location of bullets and shrapnel by the X-ray.

Temple Emanuel to Hold Special Celebration

Services will be held in Temple Emanuel on Friday evening, December 4, at 7:45 o'clock. A Chanukah lighting ceremony will take place. Representatives of the various classes of the religious school will participate. Rabbi Bloom will preach on the theme, "They That Dwell in Darkness Shall See a Great Light."

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the children of the religious school of Temple Emanuel will hold a Chanukah entertainment and skit. Luncheon will be provided for all those who wish to remain after the morning session at a nominal charge.

Tonight the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel is running a card party in the social hall. On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, the Sisterhood will hold a meeting in the social hall at which the officers will be installed. Both men and women are welcome.

Conservation Officials Give 20,000 Trees

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—The State Conservation Department comes to the aid of Santa Claus this season by making available 20,000 Christmas trees, three times more than last year.

These trees, from reforestation areas, plus others from nearby states, principally Vermont and Pennsylvania, and reduced shipments from Canada are expected to supply the demand in New York, said Arthur H. Hopkins, assistant director of the department's lands and forests division.

New York city tree dealers expressed belief the supply would be adequate, explaining that last year there were more trees than needed. The demand is expected to be less this year.

Tree prices are expected to be higher this year, market authorities predicting six footers would bring about $1.75 on the metropolitan market, 50 cents more than in 1941.

SNAKE PANICS CAMP

Natives cutting bush near their camp at Chakari, Rhodesia, were thrown into a panic by a medicine man carrying a deadly black mamba round his neck. He placed it on the ground where it remained still. A native poked it with a stick, and fled madly when it was galvanized into life. The work crew rushed the reptile and beat it to death. The medicine man explained to a European that he had made a pact of friendship with all mambas by cutting his forearm and rubbing in a magic potion.

Five Sailors Die, Others Missing as Craft Is Capsized

Newport, R. I., Dec. 3 (AP) — Five sailors were known dead, 10 others were missing and two were safe today after their 28-foot liberty boat capsized in rough water in Narragansett Bay early yesterday while returning the men from shore leave.

Firemen found five victims strewn along the shore of Conanicut Island near rocks where the liberty craft, of whaleboat design, was discovered with both ends stove in.

Known to have survived were J. B. Kelly and L. J. Hinsen, both second class seamen.

Naval officesr said 17 men were aboard the small craft, but one of the survivors was quoted as saying he thought there were 23 aboard.

The Navy public relations office said a roster would be checked in an effort to establish the number by a process of elimination.

'Get Ready' Signal To Be Put in Use

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—A "get ready" signal, to give people time to prepare for air raid drills, will be employed throughout New York.

Lieut. Gen. William N. Haskell, state civilian protection director, has ordered the extra audible signal, which will occur five minutes before the actual blackout notice, to be included in drill warning procedure.

In the event of an actual raid, however, the warning period will be reduced to two minutes.

Wickard Says He Has No Wish for Perpetual Control

Secretary of Agriculture Is of Opinion Sound Public - Interest Policy Needed

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Secretary Wickard declared today "I for one have no intention and no wish to fasten government controls in perpetuity upon the food industry."

"On the other hand, those who have the responsibility for the government's wartime food program should be prepared to take prompt action whenever action is necessary," the secretary of agriculture declared in an address prepared for a regional meeting on 1943 food goals.

"Already in this war I have seen the consequences of delay and wishful thinking too many times," he continued. "If reservation orders or rationing are necessary for food commodities, these orders should be put into effect without delay.

"The history of this war is that the situations grow worse instead of better and that every day of delay is extremely costly to all concerned."

Wickard said extreme care should be taken that the government's food policies are sound and in the public interest. Wartime, he asserted, "is not the time to carry out the pet theories of any group or class, or to institute reforms for reform's sake."

There is some fear, he continued, that government power over food would mean radical changes in distribution and marketing. He added:

"By and large I think the food industry is well organized and efficient and, for these reasons, it would be interfered with as little as possible in the execution of a wartime food program."

There should be no hesitancy in taking whatever steps are necessary to see that as much good food is produced as is possible, Wickard declared; to see that as much of it is processed as possible; to see that it is economically packaged; to see that it goes in the needed amounts to lend-lease and the armed services, and finally that the civilian supplies are fairly distributed to each locality and each family.

Wickard estimated at least 25 per cent of the total 1943 American food output would go to meet military and lend-lease needs. War needs took about 13 per cent of the 1942 yield.

Wickard characterized as "superb" the farmers' 1942 performance in which "they smashed all previous records for total production" but said "an even tougher job" confronted them in 1943.

"We just can't produce too much of the needed farm products next year. We can't produce enough of some. For example, our fighting forces, our allies, and our own people would like to have 18 billion pounds more milk than we have scheduled in the 1943 goals. But it can't be produced. There are not enough cows on hand, even though the nation's dairy cow population is the largest on record."

The secretary said farmers had done so well that there was a general impression that America was a bottomless well of food from which any needed amount could be drawn. "The farm people and the government workers in agriculture know different," he asserted.

Sinkers Sold Short

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 3 (AP)—Doughnut dunkers, their coffee already cut to one cup or less, got another rude shock when Little Rock bakers announced that "sinkers"—that great American delicacy—were going off the market.

One of the city's largest bakeries announced it had been forced to remove doughnuts from its list, another said the last doughnuts were sold over the week-end and some of the smaller shops said "it won't be long, now" before doughnuts are just a memory.

The bakers blamed a shortage of shortening for the situation.

No State Shortage Of Milk Expected

Noyes Says Dairymen Have 5 Per Cent More Milk Than in 1941

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP) — "There is no shortage" of milk in New York and "I find in our production figures to warrant the belief there will be a shortage," the state agricultural commissioner declares.

Spiking what he described as "alarmist reports" about the state's milk supply, Holton V. Noyes pointed out in a statement yesterday New York dairymen have "produced approximately five per cent more milk than in the same period of 1941, which was a record production year."

The commissioner's report contradicted spokesmen in and out of the dairy industry, who declined to be identified, and who several weeks ago said the state was facing a shortage of dairy products.

Noyes reported some of the state's surplus milk was going to domestic military camps and part of it into processed products for shipment to other of the United Nations.

Teaneck Will Ponder Romance for Teachers

Teaneck, N. J., Dec. 3 (AP)—Johnny and Jane student are left holding the bag when romance comes to their school teacher, a member of the Teaneck Board of Education complained yesterday.

The point was raised by Dr. William J. Conway, chemistry teacher at Fordham University and only member of a four-man board committee to disapprove of a plan to ration romance among Teaneck teachers. The board had been faced with an increasing number of requests for honeymoon leaves.

Conway said in New York that the committee would recommend at a full board meeting next Wednesday night that two weeks' leave be granted smitten teachers who want to marry—provided the groom wears a military uniform.

Mrs. Turner Challenges Any Woman Welder

Pascagoula, Miss., Dec. 3 (AP)—Attention, women welders.

Mrs. Jennie Mae Turner, who holds an assortment of welding records at the Ingalls shipyards here, today challenged any woman welder in the United States to a welding duel.

Mrs. Turner claims she can do more welding in a day than any other woman.

On the record, she has already: Finished a 200-hour tack welding course in 23 hours.

Often completed a nine-hour welding quota in five hours.

Blonde Mrs. Turner won't tell her exact age (which, confidentially, is under 35) but she says she is the "youngest grandmother employed in any shipyard."

(Figures Corrected Through Nov. 30)

This is the battle score, based on U. S. Navy and Army communiques of 12 months of sea war for the United States and Japanese navies. At the outbreak of the war there were no exact figures announced on the comparative strength of the fleets, and reports of replacements since have been fragmentary. Significantly, however, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox recently pointed out that in this battle of naval attrition the U. S. held the advantage not only because far fewer ships have been sunk but because we can replace far quicker than the Japanese. The "miscellaneous sunk" figures in the totals include submarines, auxiliary and naval supply ships.

New Guinea Fight Seems to Be Near Brilliant Finish

Japs Appear to Have Been Pushed Back Into Narrow Area Few Miles Long

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly).

The spotlight of the war may be shifting back to the southwest Pacific. Today's dispatches indicate that we probably will get our next news of major victory from the bloody beaches of New Guinea. And there seems to be new trouble brewing in the solomons; at least Tokyo is on the air today with an unsubstantiated report of a successful Japanese naval raid on our forces there.

For the past month, except for the brilliant mid-November interlude of the naval battle off Guadalcanal, attention has been focussed on North Africa and Russia. But the allied successes there apparently have led into new, less exhilarating and spectacular phases of the two major campaigns, with the enemy reformed for battle and ready to slug it out .

General Montgomery apparently is almost ready to assault Rommel's new line at El Agheila, but the German is reported to have gathered together some 60,000 men and 200 or 300 tanks to defend that narrow gateway into Tripolitania. Montgomery may be confronted with a problem similar to that he solved so brilliantly at El Alamein, the cracking of a thoroughly prepared position by frontal attack, and this time his supply line is some 800 miles long instead of 80. Generals Eisenhower and Anderson likewise are up against a wily, stubborn defense at the other flank of the Axis' contracting African foothold. In Tunisia the Germans evidently have concentrated not merely stubborn holding strength but some striking power for the defense of the Tunis-Bizerte beachhead; they have counter-attacked strongly in the Tebourba region and have made generally very heavy going for the British first army and its American supporting units. The allied command there is up against extremely difficult problems of transport and supply and it may be several days before there is any major change in the battle lines.

The first impetus of the Russian offensives before Stalingrad and west of Moscow has largely spent itself. The Germans continue to yield ground west of the Volga city but more slowly, and while their position there remains one of extreme peril they may be able to hang on for weeks of exhausting, costly fighting for both sides.

But down on New Guinea General MacArthur's Australian-American jungle fighters seem to have brought their surge back from Port Moresby close to its triumphant end. Today's communique indicates that the Japanese have been thrust back into a narrow costal area only a few miles long in which they face extermination. MacArthur's men have rolled them back from Gona, at the northern end of the 20-mile beach that curves away to the southeast to Buna. The allied drive from the north is approaching Sananada, about halfway between Gona and Buna, while the southern wing is infiltrating into Buna. A naval convoy which may have represented the last hopes of the Japanese for escape, reinforcement or supply has just been driven off. The few thousands left on the beach, still fighting fanatically, probably no longer have a choice between a Dunkerque or a Corregidor.

It is too early to say what may happen in the channel between Guadancanal and Tulagi in the Solomons on Monday night. The Japanese have rushed to the microphone to broadcast their version; these are tactics made familiar after the Coral Sea, Midway, Santa Cruz and November Solomons naval battles. The Japanese broadcast their claims in the hope of having them accepted by their own people and their allies before the American version is published. In those previous instances what Tokyo presented as Japanese victories turned out for the most part to be disastrous defeats. Against that background we can read without alarm the Tokyo story of a raid by a "torpedo attack flotilla off Lunga," on Guadalcanal's north shore, in which American losses included a battleship, a cruiser and two destroyers sunk. There probably has been a brush of some kind but we can withhold any attempt to assess the reesults until the American announcement is available.

WASN'T HUNTING FOR A JOB

Denver (AP)—Gov.-elect John C. Vivian of Colorado returned to his suburban home and found a man with both arms buried in the contents of a dresser drawer. "I heard the fellow who owned this house had gone away to take a new job so I just thought I'd look around," said the intruder.

Blind Author Sees the World: It Spins Around His Fingers

By JOHN SELBY
(AP) Arts Editor

New York—The hotel room is small, high up with a good view of East Side back yards and alley cat hangouts. You sit at the window facing the door. Next to the door is a closet, next to that the bed. On your right is a writing table, on your left a chest of drawers.

It is Karsten Ohnstad's room and you are waiting for him. In a moment the key is inserted in the lock, the door opens, and Ohnstad says, "Hello."

He takes off his top coat and hangs it quickly in the closet. "How are you?" he asks, walking easily down the room. He shakes hands briskly, takes out a pack of cigarettes, and says "Have one?" You do, and he seats himself in the chair by the window.

It happens so naturally you forget that it's almost a miracle. For Ohnstad has been blind since he was seventeen, and he has been in the hotel only a few hours.

Author of Bright Book

Ohnstad's book, "The World at My Fingertips," made quite a stir. It's a bright book, gay in spots, in which he tells just what happened to him and why, and how he has managed to overcome one handicap after another, and even to find a few advantages in his sightless state.

For example, a friend taught him to tell from echoes the size and shape of things along the sidewalk—a hedge six inches high makes a difference.

He can mark cards inconspicuously, and play good bridge, and skating is one of his favorite sports. He skates alone, and knows by the sounds he hears when other skaters approach. He admits that he avoids crowded ice rinks—but so do sighted people.

Went Through College

He can locate curbs, partly by hearing and partly by the contour of the paving, and quite often he has been asked directions by people who saw him striding along and thought he could see. He went through a "sighted" college, made a fraternity, earned much of his own keep and had a good time out of it.

KARSTEN OHNSTAD
. . . Still A Capable Person . . .

Oddly, he accepts all these things and a great many more as perfectly natural. He asks no quarter from anyone.

"The difficulty with too many sightless people," he says, "is that they have given themselves an inferiority complex. You can sit on your rear end in a room for a lifetime, worrying about crossing that wide street downstairs.

"If you can once realize your own capabilities, the rest isn't difficult. You may have lost your sight—but you are still a capable person. Useful too, if you want."

Ohnstad lives now in Northfield, Minn. He's going home by way of Indianapolis and Louisville. More, he's going alone and he expects to have a good time.

As good a time as he had when he saw "Uncle Harry" and went to the Music Hall.

$13,000,000 Sold Each Payday, Is Report

Although no quotas have ever been set and there is no pressure upon them to do so, nearly 2,000,000 soldiers, from privates to generals, now are buying approximately $13,000,000 in war bonds every payday, the War Department reported today.

Rear Admiral Charles Conard, chairman of the Interdepartmental War Bond Committee, who received the report of soldier war bond purchases as part of an overall accounting by the War Department of both civilian and military payroll savings, said he was so impressed that he immediately forwarded the statistics to the secretary of the treasury.

"There were reports," the Admiral said, "that remarkable success had been achieved by the soldiers in handling War Bond Payroll Savings campaigns, particularly in the Australian theatre. The fact that every phase of the army's war bond program is voluntary is a striking tribute to soldier morale."

Both abroad and in home camps and forts, the soldiers themselves have spurred war bond purchases and have set a mark for civilians to shoot at. In some regiments, every man has subscribed to a payroll reservation plan.

On the basis of the September reports, the War Department Finance Office estimated that, as of November 1, 1942, the number of military subscribers to the pay reservation plan had mounted to 1,910,621, with total deductions of $13,145,072. Civilian participants for the same date were set at 543,230, with their deductions totalling $5,839,722.

Admiral Conard said the war bond record of soldiers is an inspiration not only to civilian War Department employes but to the nation as a whole.

'Electric Eye' Checks Speeders

Richmond, Va. Radio Industry Joins in Bonds

Stations Will Complete Two Jobs in One

New York — Radio has joined the "Top That 10 Per Cent by New Year's" victory parade.

The industry's personnel, numbering more than 20,000, is in the midst of a campaign to set aside better than 10 per cent of pay every payday.

Thus the industry will be doing War Bond triple duty. Hundreds of stations are telling the War Bond story to millions of listeners and acting as an issuing agent.

The National Association of Broadcasters, in a resolution adopted here, pledged the wholehearted support of the industry of the current Treasury Department campaign to enroll every wage earner in a payroll savings plan by New Year's.

Advice to Women On Care of Shoes

Valuable Possessions Will Be Given Best of Care

It takes a lot of shoe leather to keep an army on the march, so the rest of us will have to walk on something else. And with walking almost literally the order of the day, our shoes are valuable possessions to be given the best of care. Mrs. Helen Buttrick of the Ulster County Home Bureau advises women as follows: "Wear rubbers, if you have them, on rainy days. If your shoes get wet, put them on shoe trees or stuff them with paper, and dry them slowly at room temperature, turning them on their sides from side to side so that the soles have plenty of chance to be dried by the air. When they are almost dry, rub a little vaseline or mineral oil into the leather to soften it. Put the grease on a soft cloth and be sure to work as much as you can into the leather where the upper joins the sole.

"When the sole begins to wear then, take it to be re-soled. Don't wait until there is a hole clear through, because the repair man can do a much better job if there is no hole.

"Keep the heels straightened; run-over heels throw the foot out of balance. This throws the whole body off balance and causes fatigue and foot troubles. Never wear shoes that have lost their shape and balance, especially for hard work, but keep your work shoes in good condition or they may destroy your own good condition.

"Have several pairs of shoes and wear them in rotation; they will last longer, and changing from one pair to another rests the feet. And keeping them polished and in good repair preserves the leather and contributes to good morale."

Army Will Take Married Nurses for Duration

Policy governing appointment and military service of married nurses: For the duration of the war and six months subsequent thereto, married nurses who meet all other requirements for military service will be accepted for appointment in the Army Nurse Corps.

In carrying out this provision, the following policy will govern:

Nurses will not be retained or assigned at the same post, camp, or station where husbands are stationed. In the event of such an incident, the commanding officer will be responsible for requesting her transfer to another service command.

Only those nurses who are willing to accept assignment unreservedly will be accepted.

Nurses with minor children will be accepted only when adequate provision has been made for the care of such children outside military reservations.

Commutation of quarters is not authorized for members of the Army Nurse Corps except where public quarters are not available.

Army nurses retained in service under the provisions of paragraph 4, Circular No. 317, War Department, 1942, will have the same status relative to assignment and commutation of quarters as single nurses.

The maiden name of Army nurses married while in service will be retained on official records unless change to married name is specifically requested.

KIDS HIT SCRAP JACKPOT

Washington (AP) — Two public school children in St. Louis unearthed a long-unused slot machine in a neighbor's attic and persuaded him to donate it to the scrap drive. When the machine was deposited in the school scrap pile it yielded a jackpot of $5.80, according to salvage drive officials.

Railroad Movie At Rotary Club

Progress of Railroads in Meeting Demands of U.S.

A graphic illustration that mass distribution is as essential as mass production, the picture was revealing and entertaining. The progress of the railroads in meeting the growing needs of a growing nation brought out many interesting scenes from pioneer days up to the present war effort. The mass transportation of troops and the necessary equipment for the armed forces evidenced how vital railway transportation is to the conduct of war. That American railroads operating with history-making efficiency are proving themselves our lifeblood in the war was demonstrated in the movie.

Luxurious accommodations for travelers to all parts of the country in all climates and the scenic wonders en route rounded out a cinema of educational value.

SWEDEN REPAIRS SHOES

Shoe repairing has received a new impetus in Sweden now that the Stockholm authorities have enlarged allotments of sole leather to dealers. The step was taken when restrictions were placed on the sale of new leather shoes. Allocation of sole leather to shoe factories is unchanged.

Woodstock Fair Has Great Variety

Craftsmen Exhibit Many Interesting Features

Craftsmen of Woodstock and Saugerties have cooperated to produce a colorful pre-Christmas event. The fourth annual Holiday Fair, sponsored by the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen reveals that the group is fulfilling its promise of quality craft work of artistic value.

The exhibit and sale shows a full selection of all types of crafts; prints, quilts, and wearing apparel, all hand-made. Every effort has been made to present to the public an educational and interesting show. Every type of craft is made in Woodstock and the surrounding territory. Mrs. Judson Smith, chairman of the fair, promises that your visit will be worth while.

The crafts of this country are gaining rapidly in quality and are receiving the recognition that they deserve. The handiwork of a community is a reflection of its creative expression and Woodstock may be proud of its showing. The people of Kingston and neighboring communities are invited especially to attend the sale. The exhibit will continue through December 12.

Shoppers to Search Out Real Values

War Creates Realization of Need to End Frivolity

With the family income this year in millions of American homes larger than it has been in over a decade, the Christmas season looms as an opportunity for joyous giving in the traditional manner. But with a war to win, there'll be little frivolous spending for non-essentials. In the sober consciousness of a people united in an all-out war effort is the conviction that something of durable value should mark the holiday gift . . something that will give comfort and convenience and beauty in the months ahead.

To most of these Americans, dressing up their homes with furnishings of new beauty and practicality is the answer. They're going to be making home their headquarters in an increasing measure particularly during the holiday season, and "open house" will again be the rule rather than the exception, as Yuletide festivities get into full swing.

Plan for Hospitality Period

As your guests come through you open portals in the hospitality period of the year—from Thanksgiving through New Year's—will they note that your home is charming, colorful, cozily arranged? Now is the time to take stock, and plan for replacement of furniture that has served its time, for the renovation of curtains, draperies, and accessories that look worn and wan.

These are not foolish expenditures but long-range investments that pay you daily dividends in boosting morale on the home front, where it is quite as important as on the battle front. Our way of life—which we Americans know is the finest in the world—includes the privilege of homes whose standards should be maintained.

The furniture and appliances available in your community's stores have served already to provide war taxes through the manufacturer and merchant. Most of the furniture is made of materials not needed for war industries, while what appliances are still available were made before the need for their materials was apparent.

Purchases Are Patriotic

Your purchase of stocks already manufactured means that more money than can be translated into items of use in the war. While relieving your household work by more convenient and serviceable furnishings you will release time and energy that may well be devoted to vital tasks at the Red Cross or other voluntary services.

If you've been promising yourself a new bedroom set for Christmas, complete with soft yet firm new mattress and springs for the beds, it's really a patriotic plan to make this investment. As you are each morning refreshed with extra restfulness which proper bedding equipment gives, you'll carry the holiday feeling a long way beyond Christmas!

Perhaps the "gift of the family" this year should be a new living room rug. There still are plenty of attractive patterns in floor coverings available, and you'll be surprised how completely a modern fresh-appearing rug will change your room. It's good economy to get a rug that covers an ample area of your floor space, as this tends to enlarge the room's apparent size, and proves more restful than crossing bare wood sections on frequent trips from room to room.

SOUGHT TO DO JOB

Bluefield, W. Va. (AP)—The Bluefield chamber of commerce is looking for a safecracker. The chamber salvage drive turned up an old rusty steel safe calculated to weigh about 50 tons. But the owners are reluctant to turn it in unless it's open to learn if any old records are in it.

The combination was lost years ago, hence the need for someone who "understands safes."

Makes Good On Vow, Feeds All On Xmas

Pierre, S. D., (AP).—Nick Jackus will open his larder and treat the town again Christmas Day.

Nick is a Greek immigrant who started life in this country as a $1-a-day section hand and now owns a restaurant and considerable property. He vowed in leaner years that if he ever made a stake no one in Pierre or vicinity would go hungry on the Nativity Day.

Since 1930 he has made good that vow. Rich and poor alike he feeds gratis. The only money allowed to change hands is tips which financially able persons may leave for the volunteer waiters at Nick's party.

Along with 2,000 free meals of buffalo, turkey and chicken, this year he will award four $25 War Savings Bonds to guests.

House Gives Kramer $3,000 for Son's Death

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP) — The House has passed a bill (HR6489) authorizing payment of $4,500 to Dr. I. Arthur Kramer for injuries to himself and for the death of his three-year-old child, Georgene, as the result of the crash of an Army plane at Hempstead, L. I., September 2, 1941.

Dr. Kramer, who suffered severe burns on the hands while trying to put out the resulting fire, would receive $1,500 for his own injuries and $3,000 for the death of his child.

The motor of the Army plane failed after it took off from Mitchel Field and headed toward Whitestone Bridge. It caught fire, crashed and burned. The pilot bailed out and landed in a tree. Georgene Kramer, Jasper Cuccio, 5, and Pauline Cuccio, 8, who were playing near the scene of the crash, were sprayed with flaming gasoline and fatally burned.

Dr. and Mrs. Kramer suffered burns attempting to smother flames on the children's clothing.

TRADE MARK REG.

By Junius

The noblest kind of a dog is the hot dog, for it not only doesn't bite the hand that feeds it; it feeds the hand that bites it.

Hubby—Darling, did you take a dollar bill out of my right-hand pants pocket last night?

Wifey—Certainly not! Maybe you don't know it, but there's a hole in that pocket.

Definitions

Education — That which you learn yourself.

Knowledge—That which others teach you.

Spooning—Necking without the nectar.

Profanity — The language of top sergeants.

Committe—A body that keeps minutes and wastes hours.

Work—What a business executive does between conferences, board meetings, civic luncheons, phone calls, visitors and sickness.

Memory—That wonderful mental training which always recalls what you want to forget and is certain to forget the thing you should remember.

Young Girl—How did you know I was going to wear my hair curled this evening.

Boy Friend—I saw it in the papers this morning.

Making Hay . . . We are told that it is advisable "to make hay while the sun shines" . . . The successful man goes ever farther than this . . . He makes hay from grass that other people let grow under their feet . . . Such men are able to recognize opportunity.

Tramp—But, ma'am, I don't know where my next meal is coming from.

Woman—Do you think I'm an information booth?

Recently a group of women gave one of their friends a stork shower all of which was very interesting to the little 3-year-old girl of the family. She ran out to greet her father, upon his arrival, exclaiming: "Daddy, they gave mother a shower today—and they brought everything but the baby."

She—Now, I want you to look me in the face and say whether or not you haven't married me for my money!

He (after looking at her face) —Yes, I married you for your money.

Read It Or Not

James Madison was only five feet four inches tall. He was the shortest President. The tallest was Abraham Lincoln, who was six feet four inches. President Franklin D. Roosevelt is six foot two inches.

Warder (to murderer in electric chair)—Is there anything you would like to do before I push the fatal button?

Thoughtful Murderer—Yes, I would like to give my seat to a lady.

The nose-print of a dog is as distinctive and individual as the finger-prints of human beings.

Man—My wife is a very hard woman to please.

Friend—But she wasn't always that way.

Man—How do you know?

Friend—Why, she married you, didn't she?

Pat was one day employed by an old lady in the country. At noon, when serving Pat's lunch, she gave him a very small amount of honey to sweeten his coffee. "Begorra, ma'am," said Pat, "I see you keep a bee."

Mountaineer—Doctor, I want you to look at my son-in-law. I shot at him yesterday, and took a piece out of his ear.

Doctor—Shame on you, shooting your son-in-law.

Mountaineer—Huh! He wasn't my son-in-law when I shot him.

Amended Regulations for Unemployment Insurance

Albany, N. Y. — In accordance with an amendment to the New York State Unemployment Insurance Law, effective November 30, unemployment will be measured in days instead of complete weeks of seven consecutive days, as in the past. Milton O. Loysen, executive director of the division of placement and unemployment insurance, today announced amended regulations covering this change in the law.

The amended regulations require employers to respond promptly to queries from the division as to why an employe was separated from the payroll, the date he was separated, and whether or not the employer has work available for him.

If a worker is filing his first claim in the benefit year, employers must return all pertinent information to the division within six business days. If a worker is filing an additional claim — his second, third or fourth, etc., in the benefit year — his last employer will be asked to furnish the following information: the days the claimant worked in designated weeks, his earnings in those weeks, the date he was separated from the payroll, the reason for the separation, whether the claimant was available for work in designated weeks, and whether the employer has work available for the claimant. For the purposes of the amended law, a "week" is the seven-day period beginning with Monday and ending with Sunday. This information must be returned to the division within three business days.

In the past, employers were required to return information relevant to payroll separations only when the worker quit voluntarily, was discharged because of misconduct, or was involved in an industrial controversy. Under the amended regulations, however, the information requested must be returned in all instances.

A worker must file a claim and register for employment whenever he seeks benefits for the first time in any benefit year and after each spell of employment with an employer other than his last registered employer. By "his last registered employer" is meant the employer on record in the insurance office as his last employer.

If a worker who has filed a claim has two successive spells of unemployment occasioned by separation from the same employer, he can reinstate his claim by merely reporting to the insurance office on his regular reporting day —the day originally assigned him when he can certify to four or more days of unemployment in the preceding week. If there was an intervening spell of employment with a different employer, he must, as mentioned before, report to the insurance office on his first day of unemployment.

Polish Pianist Has Career of Success

The distinguished Polish pianist, Witold Malcuzynski, will give the second concert in this season's Co-operative Concert series, Monday evening, December 7, at the High School Auditorium. He made his debut in America in April.

Malcuzynski was born in Warsaw in August, 1914. A student of law and philosophy in two Polish universities, Witold Malcuzynski began to study music through an attraction to this art. At the Polish Conservatory in 1936, he was awarded first prize for piano in Professor Turczynski's class. Paderewski heard of this new and outstanding Polish talent and invited the young man to play for him. Highly enthusiastic over the young pianist, Paderewski urged Malcuzynski to make music his career, and offered to become his teacher. Completing his studies with the master, Malcuzynski entered and won in the International Chopin Competition in Warsaw. He gave concerts in most of the European capitals, winning a series of triumphs in Warsaw, Vienna, Budapest, with the Philharmonic Orchestra at the Royal Opera, Brussels, Riga and London. He played throughout France and in Paris, where he made his sensational debut with the Pasdeloup Orchestra conducted by Albert Wolff, his success was so great that he was re-engaged to play with this orchestra two months later. During this time he met and married Colette Gaveau, brilliant French pianist.

After war broke out in Europe, Mr. Malcuzynski was given the opportunity to come to South America. He gave 12 concerts in Buenos Aires, achieving a spectacular success which launched him on a tour of seven concerts in the important cities of South America, including Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo and Santiago.

Yehudi Menuhin was so enthusiastic over the art of the Polish pianist that he urged him to come to the United States. On Menuhin's return to New York he described Molcuzynski's playing and Columbia Concerts, Inc., cabled an invitation for Malcuzynski to come to to New York, where his triumphant debut took place in Carnegie Hall.

The concert begins at 8:30, and as usual no one will be seated during the first group, once the concert has begun.

Miss Relyea Heads Business Girls Club

At the regular weekly meeting of the Business Girls' Club of the Y.W.C.A. last evening, officers were elected. They are: Miss Sylvia Relyea, president; Miss Elise Fielder, vice president; Miss Dorothy DuMond, recording secretary; Miss Frances Osterhoudt, treasurer; and Miss Dorothy Elston, corresponding secretary.

The speaker for the evening was Miss Louise Van Wagenen, who had lived many years in Hawaii. She gave an interesting talk about the people of the island and brought pictures and novelty articles for illustration.

Next week the club will hear Mayor William F. Edelmuth speak on the program of Kingston and National Defense. Plans were also made for the Christmas service work. The club will pack candy for the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee. They will also buy Christmas seals and donate to the Day Nursery of the Volunteers of America.

Auxiliary Elects Officers at Tea

The annual reception and tea of the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon at the Nurses Home. During the business meeting officers for the coming year were elected. Those chosen were Mrs. John Olivet, president; Mrs. Raymond E. Craft, first vice president; Mrs. George W. Moore, second vice president; Mrs. Edward B. Loughran, third vice president; Mrs. Sam Mann, fourth vice president; Mrs. Philip Foster, fifth vice president; Mrs. Charles Davis, treasurer; Mrs. J. Schuyler Schonger, recording secretary, and Mrs. James Higley, corresponding secretary. The annual reports of the officers and committees were also given.

Mrs. James Higley presented the newly elected president to the group, and Mrs. George Moore presented the retiring president, Mrs. Raymond Craft, with a gift of gold vases on behalf of the auxiliary members. Mrs. Craft had served as president for the past two years.

Mrs. Olivet announced that the usual Christmas decorating would be done this year and appointed Miss Anne Campbell as chairman of the committee. She also spoke of the annual tea sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary on New Year's Day.

The speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Michael Curley of Port Ewen, who had spent some time as a member of the clergy in Puerto Rico. The Rev. Father Curley spoke of his experiences with the lack of medical and health facilities and how he became deeply appreciative of the work that hospitals can do.

He made a survey of the natives whom he had known and found that after five years one in every three children born on the island had died before the age of seven. There were no facilities in the country regions and the people were not informed as to proper care of the sick. It was difficult to find treatment especially for mental cases. Leprosy was found and most of the people died from tuberculosis. He also told of the poor drinking water and of the concoctions which the natives had made.

Bringing his topic up-to-date, the Rev. Father Curley reviewed the importance of health in the time of war. He related several stories of the Civil War and World War days illustrating his point for good health, both on the home and battle fronts. In closing he praised the work of the hospital auxiliaries who assist in maintaining the health of the communities.

A short musical program was given by Mrs. Ralph Halbert, soprano soloist, with Mrs. Raoul Racette accompanying. She sang "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon, and "Because" by Guy D'Hardelot.

Following the meeting tea was served with the members of the Junior Auxiliary, the Misses Jetta Egan, Gertrude Beichert, Rose Mary Netter, Maureen Troy, Margaret Whalen and Helen Larkin, assisting. Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. James Higley presided at the tea table which was arranged with a centerpiece of bronze and yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums, silver candlesticks with yellow candles and two tea services. The room was also decorated with sprays and bouquets of the chrysanthemums.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. Schuyler Schonger, Mrs. Raymond Craft and Mrs. Paul Purcell. Mrs. Vincent Connelly and Mrs. J. Edwin Phelan were co-chairmen of the afternoon's program and they were assisted by the committee of Mrs. James Mathers, Mrs. Cornelius Cahalien and Mrs. Frederick Fahnrich.

Good Taste Today

MAY ADOPTED SON BE JUNIOR?

Strangely enough a question which must concern many is one that I have never heard before. This is the question: "When a young baby is adopted legally, before he has been christened is it wrong to name him for his newly acquired father and call him junior? Some of our relatives insist that only a real son can be a junior. I contend that a legally adopted son must be considered a real son or there would be no meaning to the procedure of adopting him legally?"

In answer to this you are right. A legally adopted son is considered a real son and therefore may properly be called junior. At least I have just been informed that this is the law in New York state and I imagine it is the same in others. However, perhaps those who are interested and live elsewhere would be wise to get a legal opinion as I did.

How Long a Train on a Bride's Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married in late November and will wear a white bride's dress and veil. I have always wanted to have a train on my wedding dress but it is now decided that due to the brief furlough which my fiance will have and the war situation in general, we are going to have a small wedding in the chapel and are inviting only our nearest relatives and friends. I suppose it will not be impossible for me to have my train? Also, tell me what color my sister—my only attendant—should wear?

Answer: Of course you may have a train, unless it is a question of economy of material. From the point of view of suitability you should not choose one that is to trail two or three yards down the aisle if there isn't any length of aisle, but one of moderate length on a very simple dress should be lovely. The color of your sister's dress depends upon what color you like, or think best against the background of the church and that will also be most becoming to her. If all colors are becoming to both, then a decision may be made by the flowers she is to carry.

A New Daughter-in-law to Be Introduced

Dear Mrs. Post: My son's wife has just come to pay us a long visit. My son has gone off to the war. They have been married several years but it was only announced in her home-town before my son went away. No one here knows about it. I am wondering whether it would be a good plan for me to entertain and announce it too, or whether that would be out of place for the groom's family to do.

Answer: But of course you will have to explain who she is. By this I mean she should be called Mrs. Your-Son's-Name, and people should be asked to meet her. Beyond inviting them to meet Arthur's wife I see no need for explaining how long ago they were married, or why they did not tell everyone. So many war marriages are taking place, why not let it be supposed this is also one. Or perhaps it may be best to tell the story as it is. Not that there is any reason for not giving the facts as they are except that most people of good taste dislike being gossiped about, and every deviation from conventional pattern is that much food for gossip.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 3—The Intermediate Girl Scouts will meet at the Methodist Church hall Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and the senior group will meet at 7:30 o'clock.

The Girl Scouts of Troop 19 who have been collecting fats and grease during the month of November wish to thank all those who have cooperated with them in this work. Anyone who was not at home when the scouts called is asked to leave any grease they may have at Jump's store. Ninety-one pounds was collected and the money received, $3.64, was turned over to the Service Center for use in the canteen. Another collection will be made in December. The girls who worked on the project are Dorothy Hornbeck, Anna Winchell, Janice Fowler, Ruth Webster, Gertrude Beichert, Elnora Houghtaling, Dolores O'Donnel, Anne McConnell, Annette Beaver, Dorothy Ellsworth and Ruth Buddenhagen.

The Reformed Church choir will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Floyd Beesmer.

The junior choir of the Methodist Church will meet at 6:30 and the senior choir at 7:30 Friday evening.

The Dorcas Society will hold its annual Christmas party at the Reformed Church hall Tuesday evening, December 15. Those who wish to attend please notify Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth or Mrs. Adolph Munson or Mrs. John Groves by December 9.

The Ever Ready Club will have its annual holiday dinner at the Kirkland Hotel Tuesday night, December 8. The members will meet at Card's drug store to take the 6:30 bus.

Customs Are Old And Odd but Are All Very Merry

AP Features

Along the sandy backroads of Alabama the tots and the hoary-haired are setting off strings of staccato firecrackers in the still night . . . in a tiny fishing hamlet at Hatteras the folks still have two weeks to wait for their real celebration . . . up in New England the lights are dimmer than usual but the spirit is bright . . . down in the southwest corner of North Carolina devout pilgrims are climbing to the tip of Burger mountain for re-enactment of the Nativity. . . .

This is Christmas, United States of America, 1942 A. D.

Every town has a celebration, but here are some of the unusual, the strange, the old fashioned. . .

Grimy-faced coal miners high in the Ortiz mountains of New Mexico have been saving and preparing for months to make their town of Madrid (pop. 430) a mecca for thousands. Madrid's celebration, in the heart of the fiesta-country, is a tradition. In early December every man, woman and child in town helps string electrical lines, install sound systems, trim 350 outdoor trees, construct mechanized displays and a dozen Biblical scenes. For a month the lights shine on in magnificent spectacle. Built on the mountainside is a miniature Bethlehem, while above it in tableaux frightened shepherds gaze upward at the Christmas Star. . . .

Across the nation, in Pennsylvania's Moravian district, another Bethlehem carries on a traditional candlelight ceremony that was begun in 1756. The church service is known as the "love feast," which signifies the bringing together of all classes. Afterwards, in Moravian homes, children hurry to find the "putz," a miniature landscape that is another age old tradition.

Another Pennsylvania group carrying on as of old are the Swedes in Philadelphia. For them the Christmas season begins with a pageant on December 13, Santa Lucia Day, in the parish hall of historic Gloria Dei (Old Swedes) church, built in 1700.

Down at Winston-Salem, N. C., Moravians hold the "love feast" too, and the Christmas "putz" is displayed. But highlight of Winston-Salem's holiday activity is the community party in which 50,000 persons take part.

Another North Carolina city, Wilmington, claims the "world's largest Christmas tree," a 300-year-old live oak that is the center of festivity.

Out on stormy Hatteras island, the fisherfolk of tiny Rodanthe, N. C., observe "Old Christmas" or Twelfth Night on January 5, keeping up a custom that dates back to the founding of the community. (This Twelfth Night celebration is a day early for some unknown reason.) Santa Claus comes on Christmas Eve, but when he returns for "Old Christmas" he brings with him "Old Buck," a menacing ogre who takes care of naughty children while Santa administers to the good.

At Murphy, N. C., the Churches of God prepare a replica of ancient Bethlehem at the eastern end of a natural amphitheatre between Ten Commandants and Sermon on the Mount peaks. On the afternoon before Christmas at the hour coinciding with midnight in Palestine, the Nativity pageant is enacted. . . .

Boston is planning its annual Christmas tree on Boston Common, but minus lights. Carolers, a tradition on fashionable Beacon Hill, will tour the district as usual, but their candles will be blacked out.

Newburyport, Mass., has undertaken the job of raising enough money to send every man and woman from the city in the armed services a $10 Christmas check.

Up in New Hampshire, Episcopal Bishop John T. Dallas, has called upon the public to discontinue this Christmas the giving of "habit gifts."

"Habit giving," the Rt. Rev. Dallas says, "is but an expression of hurried friendship. Forget the gifts and do the harder thing, write a personal note as a taken of good will."

Citrus Fruit New Victory Food Special

Today, all over the nation, grapefruit and tangerines become Victory Food Specials, to be featured through December 12 under the Agricultural Marketing Administration's program of wise wartime food use.

This year's bumper crop of grapefruit — 45 million boxes — comes into the market at the usual opportune time, when its vitamin C can help ward off winter colds. There is also a lot of vitamin B in that many cases of grapefruit.

This year consumption of fresh grapefruit will be even more desirable since little or no tin is available for canning either the whole fruit segments or juice. Bernard J. Miller of the A. M. A., in announcing the new Victory Food Special locally, pointed out that "here is another opportunity for homemakers and menu-planners to use an abundant fresh product more extensively, both in place of canned and processed foods of the same type and as substitutes for other scarcer foods."

"The 3½ million boxes of tangerines in this year's crop are also an important part of the current Victory Food Special.

"In January, when a second seasonal peak is reached in citrus harvesting, grapefruit, oranges and tangerines will be featured on the Victory Food Calendar.

"Seventeen different foods have already been featured as Victory Food Specials. Many more will follow. Mr. Miller urged housewives to watch for the Victory Foods regularly and to use them often in planning their wartime meals. "These are the foods to do with while we are doing without other foods," Mr. Miller declared.

Something New to Drink!

By BEULAH V. GILLASPIE

AND, whether you're "under the sun" or not, it isn't difficult to serve those guests (or family) "something new." Delightfully soothing beverages can be concocted as far as your imagination will stretch. We suggest a trio here; but you can extemporize as you desire.

STRAWBERRY PUNCH

2 cups strawberries	1 pint strawberry ice cream
¾ to 1 cup light corn syrup	2 cups carbonated water
1 cup milk

Reserve a few of the berries for garnish. Slice the remaining berries, add to the hot corn syrup and mix well. Chill and pour into a punch bowl. Add the milk and one half of the ice cream and stir until the ice cream is partially melted. Pour in the carbonated water. Top with the remaining ice cream and garnish with the strawberries cut in half. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and additional ice cream. Ten to twelve servings. Increase the recipe to serve large numbers.

MOCHA FROST

1 pint chocolate ice cream	4½ cups cold coffee

PINEAPPLE FREEZE

1 pint vanilla ice cream	2 cups crushed sweetened pineapple

Dinner For 3 Or 4

Chili Beans Buttered Beets
Brown Bread and Butter
Tossed Fruit Salad
Harvest Dessert Milk or Coffee

Chili Limas

1 pound dried limas
4 tablespoons bacon fat
¼ cup chopped celery
1/3 cup chopped onions
1/3 teaspoon chili powder
1 1/3 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
3 cups tomatoes
2/3 cup sliced or grated cheese
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Wash beans and cover with water. Let soak two hours or longer. Simmer in covered pan until tender. Drain and reserve the bean stock for soup. Heat fat in frying pan, simmer 5 minutes celery, onions, seasonings. Add beans, tomatoes and cheese. Boil gently 5 minutes. Bake 40 minutes in buttered dish in moderate oven.

Harvest Dessert

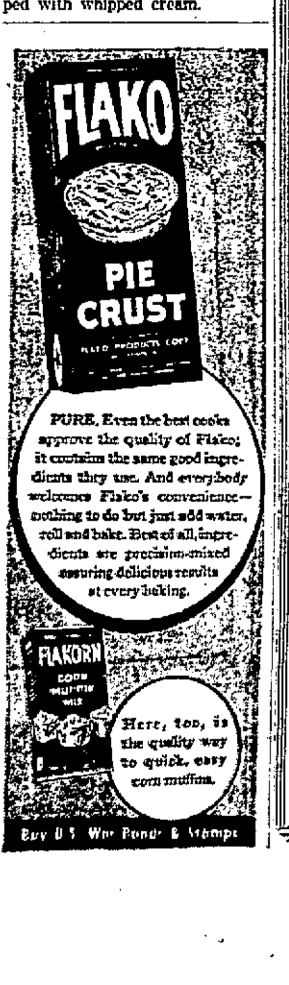
1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup cold water
2 egg yolks
½ cup honey or 2/3 cup corn sirup
1 1/3 cups cooked mashed pumpkin
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mace or nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter, melted
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¾ cup milk
2 beaten egg whites

Soak gelatin 5 minutes in water. Beat yolks and add honey, pumpkin, spices, salt, butter, rind and milk. Cook in double boiler uuntil steaming. Stir frequently to make the blend creamy. Add gelatin and cook until dissolved. Cool and lightly mix in rest of ingredients. Pour into crumb crust.

Crumb Crust

1 cup rolled bread crumbs
4 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon salt

Sprinkle crumbs on shallow pan and bake or place under broiler until well browned. Add rest of ingredients and pour into buttered, shallow dish. Add the filling and chill. Serve plain or topped with whipped cream.



PURE. Even the best cooks approve the quality of Flako; it contains the same good ingredients they use. And everybody welcomes Flako's convenience—nothing to do but just add water, roll and bake. Best of all, ingredients are precision-mixed assuring delicious results at every baking.

Here, too, is the quality way to quick, easy corn muffins.

Wife Takes Husband's Job As Eric Dairy Tester

Ithaca—Mrs. Leo Crittenden, of Springville, a graduate of the November dairy herd improvement testers' school at the New York State College of Agriculture, this week took her husband's place as dairy tester for the No. 2 Dairy Herd Improvement Association of Erie county.

Mrs. Crittenden finished the dairy testing school on Friday, November 20, the day her husband was called into the army. She is the 15th woman in New York state to take a man's place in this work essential to the improvement of dairy herds and vital to assure a steady supply of milk to the nation. She prepared for the job, before taking the refresher course, by helping her husband in his work during the past three months. She will test 19 herds of 441 cows in the towns of East Aurora, Boston, and Springville. Two of the three associations in Erie county are now operated by women, as Miss Lorraine Lesling, who took a dairy testing course at the college in September, has been testing the Northern Erie Association of 22 herds and 377 cows, since October 1.

Miss Phyllis Engelson of Marion, also a graduate of the November school, makes the 16th woman dairy tester in the state, as she starts work for two Wayne county dairy herd improvement associations this month.

Others who completed the two-week course in dairy testing and keeping of records are: May Bannister, Ithaca, Tompkins county; Margaret Lynch, Andover, Allegany county; Evelyn McAllister, Truxton, Cortland; Delos Campbell, New Woodstock, Madison; Laverne Crost, Strykersville, Wyoming; Mike Popovich and Gilbert Wynand, Spencerport, Monroe; Roy Sheen, Burke, Franklin; and Charles Reed, Berkshire, Tioga.

In January of this year, only two of the 115-odd dairy testers of New York state were women. In the past two testers' schools at the college, about half of the students enrolled have been women preparing to take the places of men.

Dairy testing is tough, hard work in the winter, with much of the work done in barns, or in milkhouses in which the temperature in winter usually runs 20 to 30 degrees below the 65 degrees suggested for homes. According to G. W. Tailby of the Dairy Records Office of the New York State College of Agriculture, all associations with women testers report that they are doing an excellent job.

Next in the series of dairy testers schools will be scheduled at Ithaca January 4 to 16, 1943.

FLYER BECOMES ALBUM

When the pilot of a Sunderland flying boat received a spinal injury landing in rough water on the West Coast of Africa he was placed in a plaster cast that was soon transformed into an autograph album. His fellow officers contributed autographs, comic sketches, designs in lipstick, a bridge score, and epigrams. On the voyage home to London the ship's nurses added their names. When the plaster was removed the flyer said he felt as if he had lost many old friends.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

IT'S UP TO YOU, MR. and MRS. CONSUMER

TO MAKE THE VOLUNTARY 2½ lb. PER WEEK MEAT RATION PLAN WORK!

America's production of meat this year is the largest in our history. The Armed Forces and Lend-Lease will take slightly more than one-quarter of it, which still leaves almost a NORMAL supply of meat for civilians. However, civilian demands are HIGHER than normal—longer hours of hard work make more people want more meat than usual. Therefore it is necessary that we be patriotic citizens preferring to follow the American Way and CHOOSE to share the supply of beef, pork, lamb and veal.

The "Share the Meat" program is a voluntary one. Uncle Sam asks that you limit yourself fairly and conscientiously to 2½ pounds of meat each week in order that others do not have to go without. That limit should be easy because it is the AVERAGE adult consumption and you don't have to include Poultry, Fish, Liver, Hearts, Kidneys and a variety of ready-prepared meats in the 2½ pounds. Eat all you want of those items.

Meat markets for some months have been restricted in their purchases, so you can't always get the particular cut of meat you desire. However, you can always get SOME kind of meat. Don't attempt to do without the tasty, healthful food values that meat provides. Plan your meals ahead, learn all you can about meat, use every bit of it and make it stretch.

America has meat. Americans can eat plenty of it — but only if we all share! It's up to you.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Fool's Paradise

South Bend, Ind. — At least one middle westerner was happy about gasoline rationing—temporarily.

A truck driver showed his coupon book at a Mishawaka station and asked for his quota, which the attendant pumped into his tank. Then the driver asked:

"Is oil free too?"

Skeptic

Seattle, Wash. — "This is a holdup," said a man entering a women's clothing store.

"I don't believe it," replied Mrs. Arthur H. Bewell, an employe.

She calmly walked to the telephone and called police.

Loser

Kansas City — Drivers of two automobiles which collided in front of his cafe came out swinging, Manager Gus Triantos told police.

One hurled a wrench at the other. The second driver ducked. Then both climbed back into their cars and drove away.

Triantos was the only loser. The cheap wrench sailed through his expensive plate glass window.

Deflated

Cullison, Kas. — Cullison, a town of 256 population, knows there's a war.

The town's only grocery store has closed. Its only milk route will cease operation January 1. And now its bank has been moved to Pratt, 10 miles away.—All because the help's gone to war.

Wartime Slump

Chicago — Jailer Sam Bass of the Desplaines police lockup says that in a recent severe cold snap he had only 20 guests for the night. In pre-war days, the usual number of drifters lacking the price of a flophouse, who patronized his station was nearly 200, he said.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Dec. 2—The Woodstock American Legion and Auxiliary want to thank the public for the generous contributions in the recent old rag drive. Proceeds from the sale of rags and old junk amounted to more than $100, which will be used to carry on the Legion rehabilitation and welfare program. Christmas packages are being made up for the hospitalized men of both the last war and those of the present war. The annual Christmas visit to Castle Point will be made on December 13. Cars will meet in front of the Post office as in other years and will leave there at 1 p. m. Cigarettes, candy, books and magazine donations for this cause may be left at the Legion rooms in the Little Art Shop Building.

A Long Trip

Navy Needs Special Officers With Stevedore Experience

Recent actions of the United States Navy in amphibious attacks in the Solomons and upon Algiers, Oran and Casablanca have shown a need for officers to lead a new type of sea-fighter—hard-hitting, hard-working men who are members of the Navy's "Seabee Special Battalions."

The Navy needs commissioned and warrant officers with stevedoring experience for these positions and all applicants may write or apply in person at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 33 Pine street, New York, or in Buffalo at the Liberty Bank Building.

Candidates for rankings from warrant officer to lieutenant commander will be considered. College education is not required, but applicants must have active and practical experience in over-all stevedoring of general cargo between ships and docks, lighters and barges. In other words, they must be able to load and unload vessels through hatches rather than through side-ports.

Those eligible for commissions include men who have worked as superintendents, hatch bosses, supervisors, etc. A limited number of applicants with bulk cargo, terminal or warehouse experience will also be considered.

Munitions Output Schedule Is Settled After Siege

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP) — The final word on scheduling of munitions output apparently rested today with civilian officials—reputed victors in a backroom verbal slugging match with the armed services.

With President Roosevelt in the dual role of matchmaker and referee, the long pending controversy was declared settled yesterday with Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson of the War Production Board, the new boss of aircraft production.

The President, himself, announced the problem was solved—just as he previously said it would be—by getting the participants together in a room and keeping them there until an agreement was reached.

A government official, who asked not to be identified, said W. P. B. Chief Donald M. Nelson who appointed Wilson head of a little W. P. B. for the aviation industry, emerged victor of the contest. Production scheduling of all other munitions would be managed by the armed services, he added, but under a delegation of authority from Wilson.

Santa May Feel New Stabilization of Salaries

New York, Dec. 2 (AP) — Even Santa Claus may be hit by the salary stabilization order.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association reported that a member had asked if it was all right to raise by $5 a week the wages of its Santa this year.

The organization referred the matter to the War Labor Board, saying, "this is a question which involves many jobs in retail stores which are unique in that the incumbent is employed only once a year or that only one person is employed in a certain capacity."

"Perhaps," the association added, "the officials of the board no longer believe in Santa Claus."

NEW HURLEY

New Hurley, Dec. 2—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dylewski were given a serenade on Monday evening by a number of their friends. They were then taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerow Schoonmaker, where refreshments were served.

The Rev. John W. Tysse and Elder Clifford Hotaling attended a special meeting of the Classis of Orange at Grahamsville on Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Tysse was elected to succeed the Rev. George W. Turner as Stated Clerk of the Classis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Monell of Coldenham Road and Mrs. Caroline Vail of New Paltz were holiday and week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hanmer.

Miss Reta Dolan spent a few days last week at the home of her mother and grandmother, Mrs. Myra Dolan and Mrs. Iva Low.

The Rev. and Mrs. John W. Tysse and children, John Paul and Lucille, were Thanksgiving Day guests at the home of Mrs. Tysse's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Simpson at Accord.

Mrs. Myron Anderson is quite ill at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Germain Smith of Castile have been visiting at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerow Schoonmaker.

Miss Bertha Sutton entertained the following guests at her home on Thanksgiving Day: Mrs. Martha Whitmore of Plattekill, Mr. and Mrs. Hallock Sutton and grandson, Matthew Gummeson of Walden and Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Powell and William Leghorn of Modena.

Mrs. Hazel Everts spent the Thanksgiving vacation with her mother, Mrs. Frank Evens, and family, at Skaneateles.

The Rev. John W. Tysse preached in the Wurtsboro Reformed Church Sunday afternoon.

The New Hurley School opened on Monday after the Thanksgiving vacation with Mrs. Frank Dylewski as teacher.

Junior choir rehearsal will be held on Thursday afternoon at the New Hurley School. Senior choir rehearsal on Thursday evening, at the Memorial Chapel.

There will be regular preaching services in the New Hurley Church next Sunday at 11 a. m., and Sunday school at 10:15 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

The children of the New Hurley Sunday school will meet at the church on Saturday afternoon at 1:30, to practice for the Christmas entertainment, which will be held in the church on Monday evening, December 21. Committee in charge of the program is Mrs. Edward Humphrys, Mrs. Frances Garrison and Mrs. Elmer Fries.

The Young Women's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Roy Denniston on Sunday afternoon, December 5. Miss Bertha Sutton will be the assistant hostess.

The Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Gerow Schoonmaker on Thursday afternoon, December 10. The topic will be "The Road to Bethlehem," the Bible word is "Star." Mrs. Burton Ward will lead.

Lower Barriers Planned

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—The United States and Canada intend to promote mutually advantageous economic relations in the post war world by lowering trade barriers and enlarging production, exchange and consumption of goods.

The State Department announced last night that the two nations have been agreed to begin conversations soon among themselves and other representatives of other United Nations toward reaching post war settlements that will better world-wide economic relations.

Gifts for a Soldier's Sock

By GLADYS DEGNER
AP Feature Writer

Chances are there'll be some extra men on your Christmas list this year. If you haven't a son, brother or husband in the service, you'll want to remember other friends to whom you might not have given presents were they safely home in civvies. Here are some gift tips any service man would like:

If he's just going into the service, a chain with two clips to hold his identification tags would be a timely remembrance. Sells for $1. More amusing would be a gay little book entitled "A Soldier's Diary," which has room for snapshots, favorite jokes and things he'll want to remember. A good laugh for only $1 of your money. Other inexpensive gifts are: Playing cards for his free hours in the barracks; a couple of man-sized bath towels tough enough to take hard wear; or a six months' supply of razor blades, boxed and ready to send for 50c plus a 3c stamp.

Now for a few higher-priced items. There are several useful kits, compactly made up in both Army and Navy twill. One is as neat as a button—a sewing roll with scissors, thimble, thread and needles. Remember Mom isn't around to do the mending. Another is a first aid kit. Handier still is an apron-like "jeep kit" which ties around his middle and holds all of his toilet equipment. More than likely there's not much space to "park" his supplies in the barracks washroom while he's shaving.

Other suggestions, high on the list of what soldiers and sailors want are cigarettes, regulation shirts and socks, wallets with insignia, and polarized sun glasses.

Largest Office Building

The War Department's new Pentagon Building in Washington—biggest office building in the world—is so large that four bus stops are needed on a road that encircles an inner court.

WANTED! 1000 WOMEN WITH POOR COMPLEXION
... to try this remarkable skin aid for JUST 10 DAYS!

If your skin is rough, dry, unattractive-looking, or marred by ugly externally-caused pimples and blemishes, read this carefully!

Thousands of women have already made wonderful improvement in their complexions with a medicated formula which nurses were among the first to discover as an aid to skin beauty ... a formula which scores of doctors themselves use in the care of their skin, and often recommend to their patients.

This formula is Noxzema Medicated Skin Cream. In the next few days we want 1000 women to try it on the Special Offer outlined below. Use it for just 10 days. Then feel your skin; let your fingertips and your mirror prove how effective it is. That's because Noxzema is not just a cosmetic cream. It's a MEDICATED FORMULA that does two important things: 1—it helps smooth and soften rough, dry skin. 2—it helps heal externally-caused pimples and blemishes. And, in addition, it has a mildly astringent action.

Literally thousands of women have made this trial and have been overjoyed to see the wonderful improvement in their skin. Miss Norma L. Lodes, of Minneapolis, writes: "I work in a drug store and was most unhappy because of externally-caused blemishes on my face. Now Noxzema has helped change everything . . . people tell me I have a beautiful complexion, and I frequently suggest Noxzema to our customers." Miss Dee Chapman, Los Angeles, says: "I like off-the-face hats but was embarrassed by ugly externally-caused blemishes on my forehead. Then a friend recommended Noxzema and not only did it help heal the blemishes, but my skin became softer and smoother, too."

Try Noxzema for just 10 days. Use it as a night cream and as a powder base. See for yourself how much it can do to help make your skin softer, smoother, lovelier!

SPECIAL OFFER! For a limited time only, you can get the big 75¢ jar of Noxzema for only 49¢ (plus tax). Take advantage of this Special Yearly Offer. Get a jar at any drug or cosmetic counter—and start this new complexion care today!

Girl Scouts Get Grateful Letter

Soldier Appreciates Gift Sent by Kingston Girls

Girl Scouts of Troop No. 5, St. John's Episcopal Church, have been sending packages of personal items to relatives of the girls now serving in the armed forces. At each meeting one of these packages is sent. Mrs. Emanuel Manos of 12 Presidents place is one of the leaders of this troop and she received the following letter from Corp. Byron S. Shoemaker whose home is on Tremper avenue. "I was very pleased and surprised today to receive the most welcome and useful gift from the Girl Scouts. All soldiers eagerly receive mail of any sort, but a package of American cigarettes, soap, razor blades, chewing gum, etc., is a prize indeed. Such articles are especially welcome because in some isolated locations they are very difficult to obtain. I appreciate your effort and thank you very much.

"I'm assuming you obtained my name from my niece, Dorothy Kurdt, and I hope you will extend my thanks to her and the rest of the girls in your troop.

"My organization is an anti-aircraft unit located "somewhere in Australia" so you can see that little package certainly had a long trip.

"I'm unable to say anything about the war except that we're doing our best and hoping to return home as soon as possible."

Sincerely,
BYRON S. SHOEMAKER

Rhinecliff Man Legatee

Dairy Cooperative Wants New York Price Change

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—An agency claiming to represent 58 dairy cooperatives, anticipating a "grievous surplus problem" next spring, urges restoration of diversion payments on milk to the federal-state order governing the New York milkshed.

In a resolution passed at the sixth annual meeting yesterday, the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, Inc., asserting it represents 28,000 dairymen, foresaw "the certainty of a market breakdown which will arise as the flush season approaches." Meanwhile, the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association announced in Syracuse last night it had been informed the Office of Price Administration had ruled its recent price regulations on wholesale sales of milk and cream do not supersede the New York city marketing order. Leon A. Chapin, league treasurer, said this permitted the association to "continue deliveries of milk to metropolitan distributors today." Recently Fred H. Sexauer, president, said the league might be forced to cease furnishing milk dealers to avoid violating O.P.A. price regulations described as conflicting with the order.

St. Ann's Sawkill Hall Closes for Duration

St. Ann's Hall at Sawkill, after six years of recreation activities for the residents of that locality, has been closed for the duration of the war. The last frolic and dance was held Saturday night in the hall.

St. Ann's Recreation Hall for the past six years has been the scene of many forms of entertainment such as dinners, plays, dances, children's parties and meetings of all kinds. All of the parish activities have been held in the hall, as well as any meeting that was in the interest of the community. At the dances there were always two bands to furnish the music, one a "hill billy" band and the other a band playing modern dance music.

THE MOST IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT
EVER MADE BY THE U. S. TREASURY DEPARTMENT
The 9 Billion Dollar Victory Loan Drive Is On!
This week the United States Government begins the task of borrowing nine billion dollars within the next several weeks as an essential part of winning the war more quickly and more completely.
During these critical weeks you probably will be visited by a representative of one of the securities firms or banks which are contributing their time and effort — without compensation of any kind — to the Victory Fund Committee. He will explain to you, for instance, the benefits that you can obtain from the new Victory 2½'s —available for the first time. Welcome him as a war worker when he calls. If you miss him, ask your banker or securities dealer for full particulars. There is no limit to the amount that you can purchase.
Today many American families are torn apart. Millions have left their homes or their jobs; thousands have given their lives and many more are prepared to do so.
But the government, your government, is not asking you to give anything to this Nine Billion Dollar Drive. It is asking you to lend it all of the money you can possibly invest in what is the safest investment in the world—at a good rate of interest.
When the victory Fund representative calls, please remember this: it is in your own interest, as well as that of your country, to listen to him—and to invest.
BUY THESE VICTORY 2½'s NOW
Twenty-six year 2½ per cent bonds due December 15, 1968, callable December 15, 1963. Issued in coupon or registered form at the option of the buyer. Commercial banks will not be permitted to hold these bonds until ten years after the date of issue. There is no limit on the amount any eligible investor may purchase. Interest is paid semi-annually, June 15 and Dec. 15. The bonds will be sold in denominations from $500 to $100,000. In the event of the death of a holder, the bonds may be redeemed at 100% and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying federal estate taxes.
Two series of shorter term obligations: (a) 1¾ per cent bonds due June 15, 1948, and (b) ⅞ per cent certificates of indebtedness due one year after issuance. These securities are open for subscription by banks, and also by all other classes of investors, whether private, corporate or institutional.
Other Treasury Securities offered to investors through the Victory Fund Committee are Treasury Tax Savings Notes A and C, and U. S. Savings Bonds, Series F and G.

Grand Jury Makes Public Testimony

Members Report Courteous Treatment, Cooperation

The following resolution of commendation was filed with the report of the November Grand Jury, Wednesday when that body made its report to Justice Francis Bergan:

December 2, 1942

In presenting our report to the Supreme Court at this time, we, the members of the Ulster County Grand Jury attending the November term, desire to publicly testify to the very courteous treatment tendered us as members of the Grand Jury.

From the Court, the District Attorney and his entire staff we have enjoyed the fullest cooperation. On presenting the cases to come before us, District Attorney Haver and Assistant District Attorney Frederick Stang have very clearly presented all matters. They have produced witnesses with necessary examinations and in every way it has made our work easy.

To Fred W. Bruhn as Grand Jury Stenographer we also extend our hearty thanks for his able services.

Also to all other Court Officers who have come in contact with our body we extend our thanks.

We have made an inspection of the Ulster County Jail and Court House. The jail was found in good condition, very clean and neat. The jail kitchen also was clean and orderly. We wish to commend Sheriff Anderson and his staff for the very excellent manner in which he is caring for our county's property.

Signed,
WILLIAM C. DUTTON

On Friday evening, December 5, Kingston Chapter, No. 155, O. E. S., will hold a reception in honor of R. W. Pearl H. Carey, associate grand sentinel of the Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, staate of New York, at the Masonic Temple, Albany avenue. The meeting will start at 8 p. m., and all Eastern Star members and Master Masons are invited to attend.

Ward's Restrained

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Montgomery Ward and Company, huge mail order house, was restrained from further violations of price ceilings today in a preliminary injunction issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. The court ruled the company had violated the price control act by listing in its 1943 fall and winter catalogue 434 items at prices higher than the ceilings established by the company. Overcharges were from one cent to $1.02 an item, the Office of Price Administration alleged in its suit for injunction, and goods involved house furnishings, wearing apparel, sporting goods, musical instruments and notions.

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—A shade more recovery confidence was displayed by today's stock market as rails and industrial favorites added fractions to a point or so to Wednesday's comeback.

Lightening of tax selling, expectations of the usual year-end rally and the brighter earnings outlook for many companies brought in some buyers, brokers said. Scant inspiration was found in the war news.

Irregular upward tendencies were in evidence at the opening. While assorted losers were seen here and there, plus marks were well distributed near the fourth hour. Dealings picked up at intervals.

Commodities were mixed and bonds generally improved.

International Harvester and J. I. Case were among the few stocks to post new year's peaks. Tilting forward were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Texas Co., Loew's, United Aircraft, J. C. Penney, Anaconda, Allied Chemical and Union Carbide.

Poisonous Gases Blamed For Night Club Deaths

Boston, Dec. 3 (AP).—Medical authorities indicated today that poisonous gases developing from the Cocoanut Grove night club fire Saturday night contributed heavily to the death toll, now officially placed at 490.

"There is no question that there was something poisonous in that smoke beside carbon monoxide and flame," Dr. Timothy Leary, Suffolk county medical examiner, told reporters.

"People died too quickly to fight for their lives," added Dr. William H. Watters, associate medical examiner.

He said he had viewed hundreds of the bodies and that there were scarcely any broken bones to indicate crush or panic.

It is human nature to fight for your life," he continued. "They undoubtedly died too quickly to have a chance to fight.

A number of witnesses at the inquest have testified that the smoke during the holocaust had a peculiarly acrid odor such as they never had smelled before.

Nazi reinforcements were said to have been hurried into action in the sectors of Velikie Luki, Rzhev and the Don-Volga corridor before Stalingrad.

Conflicting reports obscured the situation in Tunisia, with the Germans asserting they had recaptured a key rail town 20 miles west of Tunis, destroying 22 American tanks, while pro-Allied French troops were said to have crushed a Nazi counterattack at Pont De Fahs, 30 miles below Tunis.

Frontline dispatches said a decisive battle for the two key Axis strongholds in Tunisia was apparently under way.

Allied siege columns were attacking less than a dozen miles from the Axis-held citadels, with one force striking southward toward Tunis from Medjez-el-Bab and another driving toward the big Bizerte naval base from the Mateur sector, 12 miles below Bizerte.

Heavy fighting was reported at Mateur.

Allied headquarters gave no details on supporting operations by the British fleet, announcing merely:

"The Royal Navy is assisting in the provision of cover for the advance of our forces."

This could mean either that the fleet was unlimbering its big guns to rain destruction on the Axis defenders or sending carrier-based planes into the assault.

Meanwhile, the Navy in Washington announced the loss of five U. S. naval transports during the occupation of North Africa by American expeditionary forces.

Three other transports, a destroyer and a tanker were damaged during the operation, the Navy said, in its first communique on the North African coup.

No mention was made of the number of men lost.

"The next of kin of personnel killed, wounded or missing are being notified by telegram as soon as information is received," the Navy said.

While the Allied land offensive flamed toward a climax, the London admiralty announced that light British naval forces pounced on a Tunisia-bound Axis convoy in the Mediterranean and destroyed six of the enemy ships.

"On being attacked, the convoy scattered and made smoke," the admiralty said.

"During the spirited engagement which followed, four enemy ships and two of the escorting destroyers were sunk or left burning wrecks."

British Lose Carrier

At the same time, it was officially disclosed that the British aircraft carrier Avenger, three destroyers and five lighter ships were among Allied naval losses incident to the landings in North Africa.

Frontline correspondents reported that the Germans dropped 50 parachute troops disguised as Arabs in an attempt to delay the Allied capture of Tebourba, vital rail junction 20 miles west of Tunis, where American troops played a major role in smashing a big Nazi counterattack.

Allied troops quickly mopped up the masquerading enemy, however, and occupied the town at daybreak Saturday.

Allied headquarters said the Nazis suffered heavy losses in their unsuccessful counter blow at Tebourba, aimed at cutting off the Allied wedge now firmly driven between Bizerte and Tunis. The Berlin radio claimed the Germans recaptured Tebourba and destroyed 22 American tanks in the attack.

On the Libyan flank of the Allied vise, British headquarters again reported patrol clashes as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army probed Axis defenses at El Agheila, where Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has entrenched in a narrow corridor between salt marshes and the sea.

Bombers Attack Bases

A British communique said Allied heavy bombers rained new blows on Axis bases in Libya and Tunisia, attacking Tripoli, Bizerte and Gabes, and also sank a large south-bound tanker off Sicily.

On the Soviet front, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red Armies captured another strategic height in the Stalingrad sector—the second announced within 24 hours—and the southern arm of the Russian offensive reached out to within a few miles of Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Kotelnikovski is a main German base on the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway.

After two full weeks of tempestuous attack, the Red Army's great winter drive was slowing somewhat in pace, but Soviet dispatches said the Russians were steadily closing the jaws of a trap around upwards of 300,000 Nazis in the Don-Volga corridor.

Local Death Record

William F. Russell, formerly of Brooklyn, died Tuesday evening, December 1, after a long illness, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William H. MacReady in Woodstock. He is survived by his daughter, and one brother, Joseph F. Russell of Brooklyn. Funeral and burial will be private.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Marie Skoog, who died suddenly Monday evening at Poughkeepsie, were held today at the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue, with the Rev. Russell Damstra, of Church of the Comforter, officiating. Burial took place in the family plot in Montrepose cemetery.

Frank M. Scherger, formerly of this city, died at the N. Y. State Volunteer Firemen's Home, at Hudson, on Wednesday. Mr. Scherger had been at Hudson for the past 14 years. A former member of Weber Hose Company here, Mr. Scherger was active in the formation of that company many years ago. He is survived by several nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with a requiem Mass at St. Peter's Church at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Martin H. Nilan, for the last 10 years a well known and highly respected resident of Port Ewen died last night following a long illness. He was born in New Paltz and had lived in Poughkeepsie and West Park where he had been employed as caretaker of estates. He was a man of sterling christian character and was held in high esteem by a very large circle of friends. He was a faithful member of the Church of the Presentation, the Holy Name Society and Kingston Council No. 275 K. of C. Besides his wife who was Mary Mack, he leaves one son, Martin P. Nilan of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Peter L. Germiller of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. William Corbett of Tampa, Florida, also six grandchildren. The funeral will be held from his late home on Main street, Port Ewen Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and 9:30 o'clock ot the Church of the Presentation where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery at Poughkeepsie.

The funeral of Lester Finley was held at the Trinity Methodist Church at 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon with the Revs. Strivings and Weyant conducting the service. Before going to the church a brief prayer service was held at the home. The Rev. Peter C. Weyant, a former pastor at Trinity and a personal friend of Mr. Finley, recalled the years of his pastorate at Trinity and the fact that the two Finley boys, Donald and Lester, Jr., were baptized by him. Now both sons are in the Methodist ministry. Trinity Church, Dr. Weyant said, has sustained a great loss in the death of this loyal and capable member. The church was filled with Mr. Finley's many friends and relatives and numerous floral designs were placed around the altar. While his remains reposed at his home a host of friends came to pay their last tribute of affection and respect to a friend. Bearers were: Monroe Burger, George Bode, George Lowe, Edward Hillis, M. Lee Osterhoudt and Charles Shultis. Burial was in the family plot in Montrepose cemetery, where the Revs. Strivings and Weyant conducted the committal service.

Poletti Takes Over

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—New York's 46th Governor, Charles Poletti, plunged into the complex duties of his new office today, pledged to keep the state's war effort in high gear and its administrative wheels "at full speed." The 39-year-old governor, although slated to serve one of the shortest "terms" on record, voiced that promise solemnly and emphatically yesterday after taking the oath of office from Irving Lehman, chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Charges Are Filed

Buenos Aires, Dec. 3 (AP)—The federal prosecutor filed charges today against 38 persons—all Germans or of German origin—rounded up in a sweeping investigation based on evidence supplied by the United States. The penal code provides sentences of one to six years for hostile acts tending to affect friendly relations between Argentina and other countries. The prosecutor demanded the maximum penalty.

Jury Is Completed In Nuzzo Tri

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—Trial of Samuel Nuzzo, 46, former labor union business agent, charged with grand larceny and forgery, was to begin today with Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill outlining the case.

A jury of 10 men and two women was completed yesterday from a special panel of 56 petit jurors. Fifty-four were examined.

Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath is presiding.

Effect Upon Farm Prices Is Seen in Present Situation

In Last War Cry From Europe Was for Grain, This Time It's for Food in Edible Form

By FRANKLIN MULLIN

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Agricultural price rises during the first full year of American participation in the war are reminiscent of what happened a quarter century ago but, at the same time, mute evidence of the different effect of two wars upon the farm.

The first anniversary of Pearl Harbor will find market prices of major farm commodities, which usually soar in wartime because of the immense needs, approximately 20 per cent above a year ago. Some prices have risen only slightly; others sharply. Efforts to bridle wartime inflation have been partly responsible for the fact that prices are not higher.

Market observers studying price trends during the two wars say the significant thing is not the general rise, which was to be expected, but which commodities were mostly directly affected.

In the last war the price of grains responded most quickly. Wheat soared above $3 a bushel, corn above $2, rye almost to $3. Prices of meat animals and other livestock produce such as dairy products and eggs followed but more slowly.

In the past year the situation has been the reverse. Grains, the bulk of which are used to fatten and nourish livestock, have lagged while meat animals and livestock products have soared.

The reason, market men said, lies in the basic differences between the effects of the two wars upon the nation's agricultural economy. It also lies in the fact that Government Price Stabilization Control has had a very important market effect, with Federal agencies both supporting prices and attempting to check their rise beyond certain limits. There was much less of this during the last war.

Bread and Grains

A quarter century ago the cry from an allied Europe still intact and fighting on its own soil was for bread and grains with which to maintain its own agriculture. Now, with enemy occupation of the bulk of Europe, finished foods such as meat and processed dairy and poultry products are in most demand. As a result, vast surpluses of grain have been piled up in this country, at present burdening on prices but nevertheless vital if livestock output is to be expanded and Europe fed after the war.

Market improvement in methods of preparing and transporting the more processed foods has helped to shift demand to them. Also, most important, they require less shipping space.

Market experts believe that if controls to combat inflation hold, the bulk of the price rise in farm products engendered by this war has occurred. Already most major commodities are at or near top limits which direct or indirect ceilings on processed foods will permit at present. However, they said, there may be forces which the government cannot control. Highest prices for some commodities during the last war period were paid after the Armistice.

Wheat sold around $1.17 a bushel here the day before Japanese bombs fell at Pearl Harbor. A month or so later the price was up about 20 cents but since then almost half of the gain has been lost. In 1917, wheat soared to $3.45 and when the government stopped trading in futures, the price was pegged at $2.17.

Corn prices rose from 75 cents to almost $1 in the weeks following Pearl Harbor but most of this gain has since been lost. A quarter century ago corn soared from $1.31 to $2.36 but by the end of the first year of American participation all the gain had been erased. Oats have lost all of a 10 cents upturn following Pearl Harbor.

On the other hand, hog prices rose almost $6 per hundredweight the past year to a 22-year peak of $15.70 and still show a 37 per cent advance over last December 7. Cattle have risen more than $3 to above $17 for choice beef, or slightly higher than prices prevailing in April, 1918. Twenty-five years ago hogs rose from $16 to almost $20 but lost more than half this advance in the first war year.

In the past year butter prices have advanced 32 per cent to near 46 cents a pound for best grade in the Chicago Wholesale Market. Eggs have risen 18 per cent to near 40 cents a dozen. These are ceilings.

At the end of the first year of American involvement in the last war butter was quoted around 42 cents and eggs around 35 cents, with butter two cents lower than in April, 1917, and eggs only about three cents higher.

Cotton prices have advanced more than a cent a pound from levels that prevailed a year ago. This compares with more than 11 cents 25 years ago.

Questionnaires Are 'Designed' to Turn Nation Republican

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP) — The authors of some of the government's more complicated questionnaires were accused by Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the Senate finance committee today of "sitting up nights trying to find some new way of making the country go Republican."

George said in an interview he was confident Congress would take drastic steps to stem the tide of questionnaires and reports which have been issued by government bureaus, probably by limiting appropriations or repealing authority under which such activities are carried out.

Harold D. Smith, director of the budget bureau, through which all government questionnaires are cleared, appointed five officers of business and industry associations to help solve the problem. His action was termed a "step in the right direction" by Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who told a joint investigating committee today in a prepared speech that the situation had become so serious "as actually to interfere with activities essential to the efficient conduct of the war."

Senator George told reporters that government agencies are "employing literally thousands of persons to prepare questionnaires and examine the answers—if they actually are examined—all to no purpose." He expressed belief that 90 per cent of them could be eliminated.

The joint committee on reduction of non-essential expenditures is headed by W. J. Donald of the American Trade Association executives. Other members are F. Stuart Fitzpatrick of the United States Chamber of Commerce, David R. Craig of the American Retail Federation, J. F. D. Rohrbach of the National Association of Manufacturers, and H. P. Thornton of the Controllers Institute of America.

Red and White Candy Canes Have Disappeared

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Sugar plums will be most visions in youngsters' heads this Christmas.

The red and white striped candy canes, which used to provide all-Christmas-Day sucking for boys and girls, have practically disappeared.

"I guess they'll have to settle for lollipops," said one confectioner who quit making the traditional sugar sticks.

Chocolate Santa Clauses, reindeer and other toothsome figures likewise have approached the memory-only status.

"They're solid chocolate and we just can't do them," a manufacturer said.

He pointed out that chocolate quotas were 60 per cent of former years and said probably not more than 35 per cent of the cocoa product would reach civilian mouths.

New X-Ray Machine Wins Praise for Finding Shrapnel

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—A newly developed X-ray machine, used for quickly locating bullets or shrapnel pieces in the bodies of wounded soldiers, has won praise for its front-line service in the North African campaign.

The machine, on display at the convention of the Radiological Society of North America, was developed by Lieut. Col. Alfred A. De Lorimer of the army medical school, Washington, working in cooperation with officials of the Picker X-ray Corporation.

Representatives of the manufacturers yesterday said that Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had telegraphed from North Africa to commend the machine's usefulness on the firing line in North Africa.

The machine can be set up in the field in a few minutes after being transported by airplane in three small cases to any fighting front, the radiologists were told. When used on a stretcher-borne casualty, it can locate bullets or shrapnel in 40 seconds. An iodine mark on the soldier's body, plus a record of the depth of the missile, later guides the surgeon when he probes.

A larger field unit, which requires three trunks for transportation and a tent darkroom, was developed more than a year ago and more than 3,000 of these have been delivered to the army. The more compact units, however, were described as serving the need of X-ray still closed to the actual fighting line.

Army medical officers at the convention said X-ray machines of a crude type were used to a limited extent in the first world war. In this war, however, they said that the lives of many soldiers would be saved by the accurate and early information given as to the location of bullets and shrapnel by the X-ray.

Temple Emanuel to Hold Special Celebration

Services will be held in Temple Emanuel on Friday evening, December 4, at 7:45 o'clock. A Chanukah lighting ceremony will take place. Representatives of the various classes of the religious school will participate. Rabbi Bloom will preach on the theme, "They That Dwell in Darkness Shall See a Great Light."

On Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the children of the religious school of Temple Emanuel will hold a Chanukah entertainment and skit. Luncheon will be provided for all those who wish to remain after the morning session at a nominal charge.

Tonight the Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel is running a card party in the social hall. On Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, the Sisterhood will hold a meeting in the social hall at which the officers will be installed. Both men and women are welcome.

Conservation Officials Give 20,000 Trees

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—The State Conservation Department comes to the aid of Santa Claus this season by making available 20,000 Christmas trees, three times more than last year.

These trees, from reforestation areas, plus others from nearby states, principally Vermont and Pennsylvania, and reduced shipments from Canada are expected to supply the demand in New York, said Arthur H. Hopkins, assistant director of the department's lands and forests division.

New York city tree dealers expressed belief the supply would be adequate, explaining that last year there were more trees than needed. The demand is expected to be less this year.

Tree prices are expected to be higher this year, market authorities predicting six footers would bring about $1.75 on the metropolitan market, 50 cents more than in 1941.

SNAKE PANICS CAMP

Natives cutting bush near their camp at Chakari, Rhodesia, were thrown into a panic by a medicine man carrying a deadly black mamba round his neck. He placed it on the ground where it remained still. A native poked it with a stick, and fled madly when it was galvanized into life. The work crew rushed the reptile and beat it to death. The medicine man explained to a European that he had made a pact of friendship with all mambas by cutting his forearm and rubbing in a magic potion.

Five Sailors Die, Others Missing as Craft Is Capsized

Newport, R. I., Dec. 3 (AP) — Five sailors were known dead, 10 others were missing and two were safe today after their 28-foot liberty boat capsized in rough water in Narragansett Bay early yesterday while returning the men from shore leave.

Firemen found five victims strewn along the shore of Conanicut Island near rocks where the liberty craft, of whaleboat design, was discovered with both ends stove in.

Known to have survived were J. B. Kelly and L. J. Hinsen, both second class seamen.

Naval officesr said 17 men were aboard the small craft, but one of the survivors was quoted as saying he thought there were 23 aboard.

The Navy public relations office said a roster would be checked in an effort to establish the number by a process of elimination.

'Get Ready' Signal To Be Put in Use

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—A "get ready" signal, to give people time to prepare for air raid drills, will be employed throughout New York.

Lieut. Gen. William N. Haskell, state civilian protection director, has ordered the extra audible signal, which will occur five minutes before the actual blackout notice, to be included in drill warning procedure.

In the event of an actual raid, however, the warning period will be reduced to two minutes.

Wickard Says He Has No Wish for Perpetual Control

Secretary of Agriculture Is of Opinion Sound Public - Interest Policy Needed

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Secretary Wickard declared today "I for one have no intention and no wish to fasten government controls in perpetuity upon the food industry."

"On the other hand, those who have the responsibility for the government's wartime food program should be prepared to take prompt action whenever action is necessary," the secretary of agriculture declared in an address prepared for a regional meeting on 1943 food goals.

"Already in this war I have seen the consequences of delay and wishful thinking too many times," he continued. "If reservation orders or rationing are necessary for food commodities, these orders should be put into effect without delay.

"The history of this war is that the situations grow worse instead of better and that every day of delay is extremely costly to all concerned."

Wickard said extreme care should be taken that the government's food policies are sound and in the public interest. Wartime, he asserted, "is not the time to carry out the pet theories of any group or class, or to institute reforms for reform's sake."

There is some fear, he continued, that government power over food would mean radical changes in distribution and marketing. He added:

"By and large I think the food industry is well organized and efficient and, for these reasons, it would be interfered with as little as possible in the execution of a wartime food program."

There should be no hesitancy in taking whatever steps are necessary to see that as much good food is produced as is possible, Wickard declared; to see that as much of it is processed as possible; to see that it is economically packaged; to see that it goes in the needed amounts to lend-lease and the armed services, and finally that the civilian supplies are fairly distributed to each locality and each family.

Wickard estimated at least 25 per cent of the total 1943 American food output would go to meet military and lend-lease needs. War needs took about 13 per cent of the 1942 yield.

Wickard characterized as "superb" the farmers' 1942 performance in which "they smashed all previous records for total production" but said "an even tougher job" confronted them in 1943.

"We just can't produce too much of the needed farm products next year. We can't produce enough of some. For example, our fighting forces, our allies, and our own people would like to have 18 billion pounds more milk than we have scheduled in the 1943 goals. But it can't be produced. There are not enough cows on hand, even though the nation's dairy cow population is the largest on record."

The secretary said farmers had done so well that there was a general impression that America was a bottomless well of food from which any needed amount could be drawn. "The farm people and the government workers in agriculture know different," he asserted.

Dunking Dirge

Sinkers Sold Short

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 3 (AP)—Doughnut dunkers, their coffee already cut to one cup or less, got another rude shock when Little Rock bakers announced that "sinkers"—that great American delicacy—were going off the market.

One of the city's largest bakeries announced it had been forced to remove doughnuts from its list, another said the last doughnuts were sold over the week-end and some of the smaller shops said "It won't be long, now" before doughnuts are just a memory.

The bakers blamed a shortage of shortening for the situation.

No State Shortage Of Milk Expected

Noyes Says Dairymen Have 5 Per Cent More Milk Than in 1941

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP) — "There is no shortage" of milk in New York and "I find in our production figures to warrant the belief there will be a shortage," the state agricultural commissioner declares.

Spiking what he described as "alarmist reports" about the state's milk supply, Holton V. Noyes pointed out in a statement yesterday New York dairymen have "produced approximately five per cent more milk than in the same period of 1941, which was a record production year."

The commissioner's report contradicted spokesmen in and out of the dairy industry, who declined to be identified, and who several weeks ago said the state was facing a shortage of dairy products.

Noyes reported some of the state's surplus milk was going to domestic military camps and part of it into processed products for shipment to other of the United Nations.

Teaneck Will Ponder Romance for Teachers

Teaneck, N. J., Dec. 3 (AP)—Johnny and Jane student are left holding the bag when romance comes to their school teacher, a member of the Teaneck Board of Education complained yesterday.

The point was raised by Dr. William J. Conway, chemistry teacher at Fordham University and only member of a four-man board committee to disapprove of a plan to ration romance among Teaneck teachers. The board had been faced with an increasing number of requests for honeymoon leaves.

Conway said in New York that the committee would recommend at a full board meeting next Wednesday night that two weeks' leave be granted smitten teachers who want to marry—provided the groom wears a military uniform.

Mrs. Turner Challenges Any Woman Welder

Pascagoula, Miss., Dec. 3 (AP)—Attention, women welders.

Mrs. Jennie Mae Turner, who holds an assortment of welding records at the Ingalls shipyards here, today challenged any woman welder in the United States to a welding duel.

Mrs. Turner claims she can do more welding in a day than any other woman.

On the record, she has already: Finished a 200-hour tack welding course in 23 hours.

Often completed a nine-hour welding quota in five hours.

Blonde Mrs. Turner won't tell her exact age (which, confidentially, is under 35) but she says she is the "youngest grandmother employed in any shipyard."

(Figures Corrected Through Nov. 30)

This is the battle score, based on U. S. Navy and Army communiques of 12 months of sea war for the United States and Japanese navies. At the outbreak of the war there were no exact figures announced on the comparative strength of the fleets, and reports of engagements since have been fragmentary. Significantly, however, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox recently pointed out that in this battle of naval attrition the U. S. held the advantage not only because far fewer ships have been sunk but because we can replace far quicker than the Japanese. The "miscellaneous sunk" figures in the totals include submarines, auxiliary and naval supply ships.

New Guinea Fight Seems to Be Near Brilliant Finish

Japs Appear to Have Been Pushed Back Into Narrow Area Few Miles Long

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly).

The spotlight of the war may be shifting back to the southwest Pacific. Today's dispatches indicate that we probably will get our next news of major victory from the bloody beaches of New Guinea. And there seems to be new trouble brewing in the solomons; at least Tokyo is on the air today with an unsubstantiated report of a successful Japanese naval raid on our forces there.

For the past month, except for the brilliant mid-November interlude of the naval battle off Guadalcanal, attention has been focussed on North Africa and Russia. But the allied successes there apparently have led into new, less exhilarating and spectacular phases of the two major campaigns, with the enemy reformed for battle and ready to slug it out.

General Montgomery apparently is almost ready to assault Rommel's new line at El Aghella, but the German is reported to have gathered together some 60,000 men and 200 or 300 tanks to defend that narrow gateway into Tripolitania. Montgomery may be confronted with a problem similar to that he solved so brilliantly at El Alamein, the cracking of a thoroughly prepared position by frontal attack; and this time his supply line is some 800 miles long instead of 80. Generals Eisenhower and Anderson likewise are up against a wily, stubborn defense at the other flank of the Axis' contracting African foothold. In Tunisia the Germans evidently have concentrated not merely stubborn holding strength but some striking power for the defense of the Tunis-Bizerte beachhead; they have counter-attacked strongly in the Tebourba region and have made generally very heavy going for the British first army and its American supporting units. The allied command there is up against extremely difficult problems of transport and supply and it may be several days before there is any major change in the battle lines.

The first impetus of the Russian offensives before Stalingrad and west of Moscow has largely spent itself. The Germans continue to yield ground west of the Volga city but more slowly, and while their position there remains one of extreme peril they may be able to hang on for weeks of exhausting, costly fighting for both sides.

But down on New Guinea General MacArthur's Australian-American jungle fighters seem to have brought their surge back from Port Moresby close to its triumphant end. Today's communique indicates that the Japanese have been thrust back into a narrow costal area only a few miles long in which they face extermination. MacArthur's men have rolled them back from Gona, at the northern end of the 20-mile beach that curves away to the southeast to Buna. The allied drive from the north is approaching Sanananda, about halfway between Gona and Buna, while the southern wing is infiltrating into Buna. A naval convoy which may have represented the last hopes of the Japanese for escape, reinforcement or supply has just been driven off. The few thousands left on the beach, still fighting fanatically, probably no longer have a choice between a Dunkerque or a Corregidor.

It is too early to say what may happen in the channel between Guadancanal and Tulagi in the Solomons on Monday night. The Japanese have rushed to the microphone to broadcast their version; these are tactics made familiar after the Coral Sea, Midway, Santa Cruz and November Solomons naval battles. The Japanese broadcast their claims in the hope of having them accepted by their own people and their allies before the American version is published. In those previous instances what Tokyo presented as Japanese victories turned out for the most part to be disastrous defeats. Against that background we can read without alarm the Tokyo story of a raid by a "torpedo attack flotilla off Lunga," on Guadalcanal's north shore, in which American losses included a battleship, a cruiser and two destroyers sunk. There probably has been a brush of some kind but we can withhold any attempt to assess the results until the American announcement is available.

WASN'T HUNTING FOR A JOB

Denver (AP)—Gov.-elect John C. Vivian of Colorado returned to his suburban home and found a man with both arms buried in the contents of a dresser drawer. The governor grabbed and held the fellow until police, summoned by Mrs. Vivian, arrived. "I heard the fellow who owned this house had gone away to take a new job so I just thought I'd look around," said the intruder.

Gale Brings Cold Wave; Ferry Is Stalled in Slip, Omits Several Trips

Winds of gale proportions ripped through the city's streets Wednesday afternoon and evening driving the mercury in the thermometers down to a new low of 16 degrees in some sections of the city.

As far as could be learned there was no damage in the wake of the storm in Kingston, but the gale was of such proportions on the Hudson river that the Rhinebeck ferry was unable to leave her slip on the other side of the river, and was forced to omit several trips.

On the Rhinebeck side of the river the gale was of such force at 2:30 o'clock that the ferry found it impossible to start across the river for Rondout, and remained in her slip there until 4 o'clock that afternoon when trips were resumed as usual.

At the city hall at 11 o'clock last night the thermometer recorded a low of 22 degrees, while the highest temperature recorded there on Wednesday was 46 degrees at 5 o'clock that morning.

Early this morning there was a slight fall of snow in Kingston, and road conditions were so slippery that it was necessary to sand the streets in some places.

The only automobile accident reported to the police department was at 4:25 o'clock this morning on the East Chester street by-pass when an automobile driven by Richard T. Berry south on that street struck the rear wheel of a truck driven by George Quackenbush of Stillwell. The truck was not damaged, but the automobile had to be towed to a garage for repairs. No personal injuries were reported.

The miniature gale that swept Kingston during the early afternoon and night was of such proportions that pedestrians at times had to battle their way.

The gale was followed by a cold wave that gripped the city today with temperatures of 22 degrees and lower recorded at 6 o'clock this morning.

taraugus road also was closed. Cars skidding off Chatauqua county roads were an added hazard.

Cattaraugus County Highway Superintendent Chester H. Edmunds termed it "the worst December storm" in his experience.

Many rural schools closed in Chautauqua, Allegany, Cattaraugus, Oneida, Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties. At Mayville, Chautauqua county, 105 central school pupils spent the night in the village because of snow conditions. Leroy, Nunda and Dalton schools shut their doors.

Throughout most of the remainder of the state, troopers said roads were open but slippery. They advised no unnecessary travel on Route 20 near Cazenovia and in Saratoga county. Only toward New York city were highways clear and dry.

Ferry docks at Morristown, St. Lawrence county, were washed out by the rampaging St. Lawrence river. Several tons of coal slid into the water from wind-tossed barges.

Erie county's mid-morning wind velocity was 45 miles an hour, with a temperature of 20. Other upstate temperatures at the time included: Albany, 28; Rochester, 18; Syracuse, 24; Bear Mountain, 18, and Canton, 21. The mercury reading at New York city was 26.

Yesterday's storm left in its wake fallen telephone and power lines and other damage.

State Police stopped southbound traffic in Chautauqua county, where scores of automobiles were reported stranded, their occupants seeking shelter in farmhouses. Several motorists spent the night in a schoolhouse near Jamestown. A dozen persons were quartered in Mayville jail.

In Massena, where the storm was termed one of the worst in 40 years, the town hall was opened to house 200 factory workers, marooned by deep, soggy snow and stalled busses.

Temperatures were down as far south as New York city.

Fannie Levy Legatee

New York, Dec. 2 (Special)—Fannie Levy of Ellenville will receive $200 from the estate of her late brother, Lazarus Levy, according to the terms of his will filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here today. Mr. Levy died on March 20, 1941. His estate is estimated at about $3,000.

past year to the amount of $1,459.97. In comparing our income from patients with that of other county tuberculosis hospitals in the state, you will find this is a most satisfactory figure.

Following recent conferences with the District State Health Officer, we are planning to survey all reported cases of tuberculosis in Ulster county. Some of these cases were reported several years ago and have not recently been examined. With the co-operation of the attending physicians of these families, and with the aid of Miss Murphy of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Health Association and the public health nurses of the county, every effort will be made to bring in these patients and members of their families to determine whether or not they are still active and perhaps contagious; or whether they have become cured or arrested cases whose names might be removed from the roster. This will involve the X-raying of several hundred individuals, and much valuable information will be obtained and a further necessary step will be taken to insure further control of tuberculosis in this county.

We are again indebted, as in the past, to the physicians of the county who are often called upon to see patients who may have conditions which need the attention of the various specialists. We have always found these physicians willing to help us in the care of our patients.

The Ulster County Highway Department, under the direction of the Superintendent, James F. Loughran, has carried on the work of maintaining the roads on the hospital property. The City of Kingston Department of Public Works has also co-operated in every way in any assistance which they could give us.

The large amount of laboratory work which is required in an institution of this kind has been efficiently done at the Kingston laboratory, under Dr. Taylor's supervision. To all these agencies we extend our thanks.

The Department of Thoracic Surgery, which has been carried on for many years by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, must of necessity be greatly curtailed during his absence while on duty in the navy. Dr. Robert E. Plunkett, Superintendent of State Tuberculosis Hospitals, and Dr. Ralph Horton, Superintendent of the Homer Folks Tuberculosis Hospital at Oneonta, are extending to us every possible assistance in the care of patients who are greatly in need of thoracic surgery. These operations are performed at this time at the hospital in Oneonta, and the only cost that must be borne by the county of Ulster is the charge of $17.50 per week for the maintenance of these patients while they are in that institution.

The orthopedic work which was formerly done by Dr. Saul Ritchie, who also is now in the Army, will have to be performed at the State Tuberculosis Hospital in Oneonta. This work is absolutely essential in the cure of certain cases of tuberculosis, and some provision will have to be made to meet this comparatively small expenditure. All this emphasizes the generous contributions which have been made to our hospital in the past by men who have rendered their services gratuitously to the county and who are now serving their country in the Army or Navy.

A most important work which has assisted greatly in the rehabilitation of our patients has been borne by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the hospital. There are only a very few women who have devoted their time and energy to the work of the Auxiliary. I feel that it is most unfortunate the active membership in this work has been so limited. May we hope that in the future, despite all the other demands made on their time during a world war, more public-spirited women could find the time to become interested in this most important field of endeavor.

During the past year the Board of Managers has carried on the work of supervising and advising in the administrative work of the hospital. Each member of the board has shown a keen interest, not only in this phase of the institutional activities, but also extended this interest in the welfare of the patients both in and out of the hospital. The people of the county should realize and appreciate the time which the Board of Managers spends in the interest of our institution.

It has been my privilege for the past 11 years to appear before the Board of Supervisors of Ulster county to render an account of our clinical and administrative work during the past year. May I once more thank this board for its whole-hearted cooperation and its continued interest in the work of this institution. We have attempted to make a contribution in the public health field of the county, and I can assure you that we will continue our efforts in the future toward the control or eradication of tuberculosis among all of our citizens.

Respectfully submitted,
FREDERIC W. HOLCOMB,
Superintendent.

Radio Industry Joins in Bonds

Stations Will Complete Two Jobs in One

New York — Radio has joined the "Top That 10 Per Cent by New Year's" victory parade.

The industry's personnel, numbering more than 20,000, is in the midst of a campaign to set aside better than 10 per cent of pay every payday.

Thus the industry will be doing War Bond triple duty. Hundreds of stations are telling the War Bond story to millions of listeners and acting as an issuing agent.

The National Association of Broadcasters, in a resolution adopted here, pledged the wholehearted support of the industry of the current Treasury Department campaign to enroll every wage earner in a payroll savings plan by New Year's.

Advice to Women On Care of Shoes

Valuable Possessions Will Be Given Best of Care

It takes a lot of shoe leather to keep an army on the march, so the rest of us will have to walk on something else. And with walking almost literally the order of the day, our shoes are valuable possessions to be given the best of care. Mrs. Helen Buttrick of the Ulster County Home Bureau advises women as follows: "Wear rubbers, if you have them, on rainy days. If your shoes get wet, put them on shoe trees or stuff them with paper, and dry them slowly at room temperature, turning them on their sides from side to side so that the soles have plenty of chance to be dried by the air. When they are almost dry, rub a little vaseline or mineral oil into the leather to soften it. Put the grease on a soft cloth and be sure to work as much as you can into the leather where the upper joins the sole.

"When the sole begins to wear then, take it to be re-soled. Don't wait until there is a hole clear through, because the repair man can do a much better job if there is no hole.

"Keep the heels straightened; run-over heels throw the foot out of balance. This throws the whole body off balance and causes fatigue and foot troubles. Never wear shoes that have lost their shape and balance, especially for hard work, but keep your work shoes in good condition or they may destroy your own good condition.

"Have several pairs of shoes and wear them in rotation; they will last longer, and changing from one pair to another rests the feet. And keeping them polished and in good repair preserves the leather and contributes to good morale."

Army Will Take Married Nurses for Duration

Policy governing appointment and military service of married nurses: For the duration of the war and six months subsequent thereto, married nurses who meet all other requirements for military service will be accepted for appointment in the Army Nurse Corps.

In carrying out this provision, the following policy will govern:

Nurses will not be retained or assigned at the same post, camp, or station where husbands are stationed. In the event of such an incident, the commanding officer will be responsible for requesting her transfer to another service command.

Only those nurses who are willing to accept assignment unreservedly will be accepted.

Nurses with minor children will be accepted only when adequate provision has been made for the care of such children outside military reservations.

Commutation of quarters is not authorized for members of the Army Nurse Corps except where public quarters are not available.

Army nurses retained in service under the provisions of paragraph 4, Circular No. 317, War Department, 1942, will have the same status relative to assignment and commutation of quarters as single nurses.

The maiden name of Army nurses married while in service will be retained on official records unless change to married name is specifically requested.

KIDS HIT SCRAP JACKPOT

Washington (AP) — Two public school children in St. Louis unearthed a long-unused slot machine in a neighbor's attic and persuaded him to donate it to the scrap drive. When the machine was deposited in the school scrap pile it yielded a jackpot of $5.80, according to salvage drive officials.

Railroad Movie At Rotary Club

Progress of Railroads in Meeting Demands of U.S.

A graphic illustration that mass distribution is as essential as mass production, the picture was revealing and entertaining. The progress of the railroads in meeting the growing needs of a growing nation brought out many interesting scenes from pioneer days up to the present war effort. The mass transportation of troops and the necessary equipment for the armed forces evidenced how vital railway transportation is to the conduct of war. That American railroads operating with history-making efficiency are proving themselves our lifeblood in the war was demonstrated in the movie.

Luxurious accommodations for travelers to all parts of the country in all climates and the scenic wonders en route rounded out a cinema of educational value.

SWEDEN REPAIRS SHOES

Shoe repairing has received a new impetus in Sweden now that the Stockholm authorities have enlarged allotments of sole leather to dealers. The step was taken when restrictions were placed on the sale of new leather shoes. Allocation of sole leather to shoe factories is unchanged.

Recs Trim Yankees, 51-41; West Point Here Wednesday

Two Battles Mark Hotly Contested Game Last Night

Recreations Enjoy Heavy Third Period Thrust to Trim Harlem; Herbie Gershon Gets 15

The cry for the end of basketball contests against clubs such as the Harlem Yankees issued forth this morning as repercussions were plentiful following last night's hectic battle at the municipal auditorium between the Harlem club and the Kingston Recreations. The Recs won by the score of 51 to 41.

One patron, who is a steady customer at the Broadway court everytime the club plays, declared this morning, "we've seen enough of that kind of ball playing. We like our basketball, but not when a team like the Harlem Yankees come up here and starts slugging with Kingston."

Apparently that was the general public feeling today and the talk may bring the end of further contests with such clubs. Last year the Harlem cagers tried the same thing. Last night the same story resumed. Fans were just a little tired of it all.

Herbie Gershon, the portly New York State League ace, was a big spark for the Recreations as they won their third straight game of the season. Herb tossed in 15 points. He collected six fields and three fouls. Hagen Anderson was next with 12. Bell, forward for the Yanks, chimed in with 15 for his club.

First Period

Harlem took a 22 to 15 lead in the initial period. Papa Bell sparked the visitors with some nifty shots. Harlem had the Recs on the run and proceeded to make the locals look foolish by "stealing" the ball and other "humiliating" incidents. However, the Yankees were enjoying a brief respite, for later on they became puzzled by Kingston's play.

In the second period two fights by Jim Naughton and "Moonbeam" Isles and Herb Gershon and Johnny Isaacs, last year's "bad boy," had the fans yelling. However, cooler heads restored order and the game proceeded as usual. A number of fans rushed onto the floor during the Gershon-Isaacs melee, but two policemen were on hand to put down any further uprisings.

Second Period

Big Howie Bollerman put Kingston in the ball game. With the score 29 to 19 in favor of Harlem at one time in the second period it looked like curtains for the Recreations. However, a solid drive of Kingston forged the team out in front as the midway period expired. Irv Rosen started the Recreations on their way to the lead with a foul. Gershon danced in and drilled a shot through the wicket which was followed by Naughton's free toss. Harlem now led by 29 to 23.

The first fight between Isles and Naughton appeared at this point and after order was restored, Rosen poured in a great shot from the coffin corner to make it 29-25. Gershon leveled off and made it 29-27. Bollerman and Garrett converted foul shots making it 30-28. Rosen, who stared the drive, put the Recs in a tie with his deuce and Bollerman made it 31 to 30 for Kingston as the second session ended.

Third Period

Apparently Kingston's second period offensive thrust took the life out of Harlem. The visitors proceeded to hold a contest by arguing with the officials. Meanwhile, the Recs went out in front with a heavy barrage of deuces and foul conversions to take a 46 to 37 lead. Garrett, Bell and Woods put Harlem back in the game momentarily but not enough to win. Kingston finished the scoring activities as Gershon popped in a foul. Anderson let go with a deuce and then flipped in two free throws.

Honors U. S. Army Sergeants

London (AP) — Alongside the names of many famous British naval officers, listed in the oldest Petty Officers' mess in the Royal Navy, now appear the names of four sergeants in the United States Army. They are Staff Sergeant William R. Groom of Fort Worth, Texas, Sergeants Leonard C. Reini and Edward G. Visser of Washington, D. C., and Sergeant Claude S. Elsea of Sale Creek, Tennessee, who became honorary members of the mess after completing two months of special training at H. M. S. Excellent, the Royal Naval gunnery school. The mess is the chief instructors' mess for gunners' mates, and was founded in 1832 in the old H. M. S. Queen Charlotte, the ship which preceded the present shore establishment.

Trade Talk Is Silent as Quiet Sessions Continue; Ford Frick Takes Stand

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—This is the third day of the stand-around party billed as the major league baseball meeting. But when someone posted a bulletin board notice to the effect "minor league baseball writers will meet tonight in room 708" the boys from the big cities agreed to attend too. "This major league meeting has been strictly minor so far," someone observed.

That's how it's been.

For one thing there has been nary a sign of a trade. The usual rumors float up and down hotel corridors but their originators—when tracked down—usually laugh off the yarn with an airy "you won't be able to confirm it."

If this keeps up it'll be the first time in the memory of the oldest writer present that there hasn't been some kind of player deal during the major league session.

For another thing, the Philadelphia story has been dumped back into President Gerry Nugent's lap, much to his dismay. The National League doctors, after wielding their stethescopes over the faint Phils for the last few weeks, apparently have decided there's a spark of life left in the franchise but they haven't the energy to try to fan it into a red-hot ball club. That is, not during the war years.

Joint Meeting Today

Even the setting for today's joint meeting of the leagues with Commissioner K. M. Landis was different. Instead of holding forth in the usual loop hotel suite, the head men were to assemble across town at another hotel, where Landis lives. The judge recently had a minor operation.

There Ford Frick, the National League president, was expected to seek out an uncarpeted section of floor to bounce his two baseball center samples, one of gum rubber which makes up the innards of a golf ball, the other a cork creation coated with that mysterious bulata.

Yesterday, in a press review of the bounce characteristics of the two samples, Frick dropped the cork-bulata job. It hopped well enough to be useful in a game of jacks. But the golf-center item skipped blythely to the ceiling, exacting "ohs" and "ahs" of delight out of those writers from baseball cities still possessing slugging outfielders.

The choice of 1943 baseball construction—employing one of those two centers—was to be agreed upon by the two leagues after this demonstration.

Twin Wrestlers

East Lansing, Mich. (AP)—The greatest wrestling combination in Michigan State College history has been disrupted. Burl (Bo) Jennings, N. C. A. A. 128-pound wrestling champion for two years, is recuperating from an operation and has small chance of defending his title this year. His twin brother, Merle, who also won national championships at 121 pounds, is still in the ring. The twins were honored this year by being elected as student members of the athletic council of the college. They hail from Tulsa, Okla.

Strong Army Squad Hopes to Put End To Kingston Skein

Capacity Crowd Anticipated for U.S.O. Benefit Tilt at Auditorium; Team Scouts Recreations

With three straight victories under their belts the Kingston Recreations will mark time until next Wednesday night when Sergeant James McCabe brings his strong Field Artillery Detachment team of the United States Military Academy at West Point here for a special service game against the local professional team.

Efforts are now being made to build the crowd at the Broadway court to capacity. Proceeds of the contest will go to the U. S. O. According to reports coming in concerning the sale of tickets, officials will have a tough time next week to handle the basketball fans at the municipal auditorium.

In addition to the regular ticket sale now under way the four local war plants—Island Dock, Hiltebrants, Electrol and Hercules—are waging a big ticket selling contest. Reports from these sources also hint that they are selling fast and that one of the best crowds ever to witness a basketball game here will be on hand next week.

Soldiers Scout Recs

A few of the West Point players were in Kingston last night scouting the Kingston Recreations when they met the Harlem Yankees here. Most of them agreed that the Recs have a tough team and will be a big menu for any team to stop their three-game winning skein to date.

The game with West Point is the first in a series of special games with service teams throughout the country. Other games are now being scheduled and will be announced during the season. But this opening one promises to be a crackerjack for Kingston. Although the Recreations are polished ball players and veterans at that, they won't have any easy job with the West Pointers. The soldiers will have a number of players who were star basketball athletes at their respective colleges and high schools. Most notable of all is H. H. Gist, former all-American at West Virginia, who is slated to play at one of the guard slots next week.

So far this year the West Pointers also have won three games. Their opponents were the Medical Company at the Point; the Peekskill All Stars and Hyde Park. The latter two clubs always have an ace-high quintet which speaks well for the Pointers.

Team Packs Strength

Other starting players for West Point will include Dick Gilman at forward, who is captain of the squad. Gilman is former all-Westchester City forward. The other forward slot will be occupied by George Gray, Croton-on-Hudson ace. Gray is a six-footer and packs plenty of wallop with his long shooting ability. The center position will be taken by Stan Shustin, who is a former ace from Panzer College in New Jersey. Stan was a member of the Panzer outfit that won 54 straight games to set a new world's record. He played against many top college teams such as Seton Hall, Rutgers Pharmacy and others.

Captain H. H. Gist will play at one of the guard slots and his past is well-known. Lew Panzanaro, who also coaches the squad, is expected to combine with Gist at guard. Panzanaro is a former Peekskill Big Five star and has played against such outstanding clubs as the Olsen Swedes, House of David and Kate Smith's Celtics. Ernie Dobbs, another Croton-on-Hudson ace, will see action besides Charlie Adanaski, who received his athletic letter from the U. S. Army in 1939 at the Hawaiian Islands.

Sergeant McCabe, who is well known here, is expected to be with the club next week in addition to Col. Robert L. Taylor, commanding officer of the detachment.

Tickets for this contest may be secured by calling the department of recreation, 1682.

Eastman Requests Restricted Travel To Bowl Classics

O.D.T. Head Doesn't Restrict Sales of Tickets to Folk of Bowl Cities

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Office of Defense Transportation in Washington asked the sponsors of the various New Year's Day football Bowl games to restrict travel to the contests—and found the grid officials already practicing the suggestion.

In his telegrams to the participating schools and the sponsors of the January 1 games, Joseph B. Eastman of the O.D.T., said that "long distance travel of fans and team followers must be discouraged" because of the war and cited the recent Army-Navy game, as an example.

The service school clash was shifted from Philadelphia where it customarily drew 102,000 spectators, to the Navy's field and played before 10,700 residents of Annapolis.

Although Eastman did not define the term "long distance travel" neither did he indicate that the O.D.T. wanted ticket sales restricted to the residents of the cities in which the games would be played, as was done in last Saturday's Army-Navy clash.

But even if such a rule is enforced, attendance might not tumble noticeably.

The Rose Bowl game customarily draws 90,000 and Pasadena's population is approximately the same figure; 73,000 saw this year's Sugar Bowl game and New Orleans lists 494,537 residents; Dallas could easily find 38,000 ticket purchasers among its 294,734; Miami's population is almost 200,000 and the Orange Bowl figures of January 1 were 35,000 while El Paso, Tex., where the Sun Bowl tilt is carded has a population of 96,810 and an average attendance of 14,000.

Remember them with the GIFT worth remembering

You can send your friends any old whiskey and they'll know you thought of them.

But when you send Old Overholt, they'll know you thought enough of them to go the limit in picking something really good. For the famous flavor of this fine whiskey has made it America's most popular bottled in bond rye.

And of course you'll want to have a supply of Old Overholt on hand for holiday hospitality in your home.

Craftsmen Exhibit Many Interesting Features

Craftsmen of Woodstock and Saugerties have cooperated to produce a colorful pre-Christmas event. The fourth annual Holiday Fair, sponsored by the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen reveals that the group is fulfilling its promise of quality craft work of artistic value.

The exhibit and sale shows a full selection of all types of crafts; prints, quilts, and wearing apparel, all hand-made. Every effort has been made to present to the public an educational and interesting show. Every type of craft is made in Woodstock and the surrounding territory. Mrs. Judson Smith, chairman of the fair, promises that your visit will be worth while.

The crafts of this country are gaining rapidly in quality and are receiving the recognition that they deserve. The handiwork of a community is a reflection of its creative expression and Woodstock may be proud of its showing. The people of Kingston and neighboring communities are invited especially to attend the sale. The exhibit will continue through December 12.

War Creates Realization of Need to End Frivolity

With the family income this year in millions of American homes larger than it has been in over a decade, the Christmas season looms as an opportunity for joyous giving in the traditional manner. But with a war to win, there'll be little frivolous spending for non-essentials, In the sober consciousness of a people united in an all-out war effort is the conviction that something of durable value should mark the holiday gift . . something that will give comfort and convenience and beauty in the months ahead.

To most of these Americans, dressing up their homes with furnishings of new beauty and practicality is the answer. They're going to be making home their headquarters in an increasing measure particularly during the holiday season, and "open house" will again be the rule rather than the exception, as Yuletide festivities get into full swing.

Plan for Hospitality Period

As your guests come through you open portals in the hospitality period of the year—from Thanksgiving through New Year's—will they note that your home is charming, colorful, cozily arranged? Now is the time to take stock, and plan for replacement of furniture that has served its time, for the renovation of curtains, draperies, and accessories that look worn and wan.

These are not foolish expenditures but long-range investments that pay you daily dividends in boosting morale on the home front, where it is quite as important as on the battle front. Our way of life—which we Americans know is the finest in the world—includes the privilege of homes whose standards should be maintained.

The furniture and appliances available in your community's stores have served already to provide war taxes through the manufacturer and merchant. Most of the furniture is made of materials not needed for war industries, while what appliances are still available were made before the need for their materials was apparent.

Purchases Are Patriotic

Your purchase of stocks already manufactured means that more money than can be translated into items of use in the war. While relieving your household work by more convenient and serviceable furnishings you will release time and energy that may well be devoted to vital tasks at the Red Cross or other voluntary services.

If you've been promising yourself a new bedroom set for Christmas, complete with soft yet firm new mattress and springs for the beds, it's really a patriotic plan to make this investment. As you are each morning refreshed with extra restfulness which proper bedding equipment gives, you'll carry the holiday feeling a long way beyond Christmas!

Perhaps the "gift of the family" this year should be a new living room rug. There still are plenty of attractive patterns in floor coverings available, and you'll be surprised how completely a modern fresh-appearing rug will change your room. It's good economy to get a rug that covers an ample area of your floor space, as this tends to enlarge the room's apparent size, and proves more restful than crossing bare wood sections on frequent trips from room to room.

SOUGHT TO DO JOB

Bluefield, W. Va. (AP)—The Bluefield chamber of commerce is looking for a safecracker. The chamber salvage drive turned up an old rusty steel safe calculated to weigh about 50 tons. But the owners are reluctant to turn it in unless it's open to learn if any old records are in it.

The combination was lost years ago, hence the need for someone who "understands safes."

Makes Good On Vow, Feeds All On Xmas

Pierre, S. D., (AP).—Nick Jackus will open his larder and treat the town again Christmas Day.

Nick is a Greek immigrant who started life in this country as a $1-a-day section hand and now owns a restaurant and considerable property. He vowed in leaner years that if he ever made a stake no one in Pierre or vicinity would go hungry on the Nativity Day.

Since 1930 he has made good that vow. Rich and poor alike he feeds gratis. The only money allowed to change hands is tips which financially able persons may leave for the volunteer waiters at Nick's party.

Along with 2,000 free meals of buffalo, turkey and chicken, this year he will award four $25 War Savings Bonds to guests.

Emerick's Ladies' Jottings

At Emerick's Recreation alleys Tuesday night the Emerick's Ladies' Bowling League made its initial donation for the first sum of money toward the goal of $217.50 to be given by the Kingston Women's Bowling Association to a fund which will buy a bomber for Uncle Sam as a personal Christmas gift from the association. Let it be said here that the idea of the five cents per penalty for each pin remaining upright after the delivery of the first ball in that frame, went over in great style. The sum collected was $21.20. Keep up the good work gals. Your donations and the boys' efforts on the battlefields will rid this world of those Nips and Hitlerites soon. . . . There was considerable interest as the seventh frame neared and it is believed the girls really had the old Yuletide spirit as the alleys were filled with laughter and merriment. . . . The welcome mat is out to Mrs. Emma Holcomb and Kathleen Nuels who make a complete roster for the Ertels team. Incidentally, this department wishes to make an apology for looking at the scoresheets in a wrong way when they came in yesterday morning. Two names were scribbed for Ertels and they were mistaken for other bowlers. We'll take care of that next week. . . . The Ertels proceeded to take two games from Kingston Coal. M. Callanhan average 339 high series and Emma Holcomb's 121 high single sparked the winners. For the coal squad Jane Ward made the 4-6 split and Margaret McCardle rolled high single of 147 and 375 all. . . . The Minasians swept through Phelan & Cahill as Martha Minasian began with four strikes and finished with a neat 500 series. Martha also hit 185. Other highs for the winners were Dot Gross 178, Elsa Relyea 159. For the losers Phil Gehringer had 159 and 429. The Bruck sisters stayed above the 400 triple. . . . Reinas grabbed three from the Standards as Bea Coddington collected a terrific 525 triple and a 179 solo. Helen Smart, with several picket fences to brush off and making the 2-3-5-10 split, filled in for a nice 480 series. Alyce Riseley, bowling with a sore diget, made the 5-7-9 for the winners. Rose Chamberland had 163 and tied Ruth Bliss with a 408 series. Ruth had a 184 single and converted the 3-5-7 and 3-5-8-10. Mickey Hutton had the 2-5-9-10 and made it. . . . Williams Lake took the odd game from the Mayorettes as Evelyn Provenzano ran into a double split four times and had many incomplete strike hits. For all of this Evelyn still came through with a nice 476 series as did Marge Anderson, who decided the alleys were too long and went half-way up number eight on one of her throws but was seen by the overseeing eye of the foul man. Salley Kuehn rolled high for the winners with a 184 single and 491 triple. Phil Roosa made the 3-10. For the losers Evelyn Jones posted 195 and 477 and made the 5-7 split. Kay Robertson had the 4-5. Madeline Schline, nearing her mid-season form, posted 446. . . . Elstons, as predicted last week, are hitting their stride for the upper brackets and took two from Becks as their anchor, Cora Emerick, piled up an enviable 544 series and a 187 single game. Dot Holmes converted the 7-9. For Becks Ardis Miller blasted an even 200 and a 492 all. Schwenks took two from the league-leading Alpines as Helen Hayes rolled 159 and 416 making the 5-8-10. Hope Mary Myers of the Alpines is out of the sick bed by next Tuesday. Dot Flemming's 471 blind high series and Evelyn Dolson's 166 solo sparked the losers in a losing cause. . . . More next week. . . .

Arlensky Blasts 644

Mitzie Arlensky, who is slated to go to Albany next Monday morning with a group of local selectees for his pre-induction examination, took advantage of one of his few remaining nights as a bowler with the Morgan squad in the Wiltwyck League last night by establishing a new high triple for the circuit when he blasted out a tremendous 644.

Arlensky paved the way for Morgans to win two games over the Electrol No. 1. Mitzie pounded the maples for scores of 226, 183 and 235 for his grand 644 total. He also helped the club to establish a new team series with 2616. Ken Van Etten followed Mit with 538 and T. Abdallah had a 613 triple. Mike Provenzano had a 569 triple for the losers. His high single was 214. W. Robinson pounded out a 520.

Nocando League Scores

Jack Martin highlighted the Nocando League games at Emerick's alleys last night by piling up a 567 series for Standards. Jack also had a 201 single, both high marks in the match. Standards won two from Scholls. Perc Slover had a 473 for the losers.

Lacey Burger paced Fredericks to one win over Emericks with his 205 solo and 524 all. Mike Abdallah's 484 series was tops for the winners.

H. Miller's 498 series topped Eichlers as that club won two from the Wildcats. He had a string of 175, 160 and 163. Ken Van Etten of the losers posted high single of 181.

Silver League Result

Vining & Smith won three straight from Forsts last night as Earl Mellow returned to form and helped himself to a steady 591 triple on games of 188, 196 and 197. Scott Vining had high single of 224. His triple was 569. Norm Sande hit 517 and Harry Smith 507. Ray Otto's 518 triple was high for the losers. E. Terwilliger had 502.

Laidlaw Takes 2 DUSO Titles From Middletown

League Prexy Declares Tony Capozella Ineligible; Newburgh, Monticello Benefit

After due consideration and review, Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools in this city and also president of the DUSO League, announced Wednesday in a formal letter to Frederick P. Singer, principal of Middletown High School, that he had decided that Tony Capozella had been ineligible.

Laidlaw's action in declaring Capozella ineligible, costs Middletown High two DUSO League pennants. Laidlaw's statement read, "I further declared that all contests won in which he played be forfeited to the opposing teams in accordance with DUSO League rule No. 11 and New York State Public High School Athletic Association Rule No. 10.

Loses Two Titles

"This will automatically deny Middletown the DUSO League championship in football and basketball. The team which had the second high rating shall be declared the 1941-42 champion in each sport. According to the game scores the championship for the 1941 season in football will be the Newburgh Free Academy, and in basketball for the 1941-42 season the Monticello High School."

Mr. Laidlaw's comments were based on this, "Basing judgment on the facts of this case, it definitely appears that Capozella was over the 19 year age limit during all the 1941-42 school year, during which time he played in DUSO League contests."

At the same time the league president announced that Tony Gobeo's ineligibility had nothing to do with the DUSO League. The president, however, declared this, "for the good of interscholastic athletics and the DUSO League in particular, I believe it would be best if the Middletown authorities would advise the Mount Pleasant High School by letter of the ineligibility of this player and offer to forfeit the game. This would definitely place the Middletown authorities in a better light.

Report on Newman

Mr. Laidlaw also reviewed the case of Johnny Newman, another questionable Middletown athlete. His report follows: "It is my ruling that this case was settled at the meeting held in Middletown on February 3, 1942 and subsequently by a vote resulting from a canvass made among the members of the DUSO League Council. It is the opinion of your president that the members of the Council were lax in not being willing to face the situation and give to the rule existing at that time the interpretation which all schools, with the exception of Middletown, believed was the true interpretation. It is, therefore, held that the eligibility of Newman is now an irrelevant matter."

All of these matters were brought to light after a sweeping investigation had been made on Tony Gobeo, the first who was declared ineligible. In all probability, further demonstrations of attempting to out-wit the league rules, will be more harshly treated by league officials. But for the time Laidlaw's rulings have dampened whatever hope Middletown had to win titles by using ineligible athletes.

Miami Golf Open Starts; McSpaden Hits Course Mark

Philadelphia Golf Ace Seen as Favorite in Annual Tourney in Southern State

Miami, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—A lot of talent was missing when a hundred odd golfers teed off today for the first round of the $5,000 Miami Open, but that was no sign the scoring would suffer.

Leaders of the reduced field sampled the par 70 Miami Springs course in practice, and handed in cards the like of which were not seen even when Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Craig Wood and other topnotchers, now side-lined because of the war, were taking their turns on the greens.

Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia cracked the course record with a round of 63—after going over par on the first two holes—and established himself as the favorite even though he eased off in later workouts to avoid getting on edge too soon.

Johnny Revolta of Miami, the 1933 winner, fired three 66's and a 67 in trial rounds, as did Johnny Bulla, the Atlanta airline pilot, who skipped a flight to compete.

Their 27-hole scores of 265, if carded with the chips down, would lower by two strokes the tournament mark set by Sam Snead when he won in 1937.

"The open record won't be broken," predcited tournament director H. H. Arnold, "but the scores will be just as low as they usually are."

Among the 12 low scorers of 1941 only Ben Loving of Miami and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., were certain starters.

Last year's winner, Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, telegraphed Arnold that he would fly here from a vacation in Texas, but he did not arrive in time for practice.

Arnold feared that Nelson had lost his plane seat because of priorities, and listed him as a doubtful contestant.

Writers Select Great Lakes as Best Service Team

Sailors Are Scheduled to Play Notre Dame on Saturday; Gridders Have Great Mark

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Great Lakes Naval Training Station football team, strong enough to have blanked seven of its 11 foes this season, is the nation's leading service team in the opinion of 91 sports writers polled by the Associated Press.

The sailors, whose eleven of World War I days also was outstanding, complete their schedule Saturday against Notre Dame in Chicago but 50 of the voters decided that no matter what the outcome the sailors are the best.

Although the Army produced two teams late in August that were good enough to hold their own with various clubs from the National League, the Navy snared the first six places among the top ten and also had the Pensacola Fliers in the eighth spot.

The Camp Grant squad, beaten by Great Lakes, 33 to 0, was the best soldier outfit, in the opinion of the voters, and took over seventh place with 151 points, compared to the 812 collected by Great Lakes.

Coached by Tony Hinkle, formerly at Butler University, and sparked by Minnesota's 1941 All America Bruce Smith, the sailors had a mediocre season through October 24 when they were stopped by Michigan, 14 to 0. Then they started winning and haven't been scored on since.

Polish Pianist Has Career of Success

The distinguished Polish pianist, Witold Malcuzynski, will give the second concert in this season's Co-operative Concert series, Monday evening, December 7, at the High School Auditorium. He made his debut in America in April.

Malcuzynski was born in Warsaw in August, 1914. A student of law and philosophy in two Polish universities, Witold Malcuzynski began to study music through an attraction to this art. At the Polish Conservatory in 1936, he was awarded first prize for piano in Professor Turczynski's class. Paderewski heard of this new and outstanding Polish talent and invited the young man to play for him. Highly enthusiastic over the young pianist, Paderewski urged Malcuzynski to make music his career, and offered to become his teacher. Completing his studies with the master, Malcuzynski entered and won in the International Chopin Competition in Warsaw. He gave concerts in most of the European capitals, winning a series of triumphs in Warsaw, Vienna, Budapest, with the Philharmonic Orchestra at the Royal Opera, Brussels, Riga and London. He played throughout France and in Paris, where he made his sensational debut with the Pasdeloup Orchestra conducted by Albert Wolff, his success was so great that he was re-engaged to play with this orchestra two months later. During this time he met and married Colette Gaveau, brilliant French pianist.

After war broke out in Europe, Mr. Malcuzynski was given the opportunity to come to South America. He gave 12 concerts in Buenos Aires, achieving a spectacular success which launched him on a tour of seven concerts in the important cities of South America, including Rio de Janeiro, Montevideo and Santiago.

Yehudi Menuhin was so enthusiastic over the art of the Polish pianist that he urged him to come to the United States. On Menuhin's return to New York he described Molcuzynski's playing and Columbia Concerts, Inc., cabled an invitation for Malcuzynski to come to to New York, where his triumphant debut took place in Carnegie Hall.

The concert begins at 8:30, and as usual no one will be seated during the first group, once the concert has begun.

Miss Relyea Heads Business Girls Club

At the regular weekly meeting of the Business Girls' Club of the Y.W.C.A. last evening, officers were elected. They are: Miss Sylvia Relyea, president; Miss Elise Fielder, vice president; Miss Dorothy DuMond, recording secretary; Miss Frances Osterhoudt, treasurer; and Miss Dorothy Elston, corresponding secretary.

The speaker for the evening was Miss Louise Van Wagenen, who had lived many years in Hawaii. She gave an interesting talk about the people of the island and brought pictures and novelty articles for illustration.

Next week the club will hear Mayor William F. Edelmuth speak on the program of Kingston and National Defense. Plans were also made for the Christmas service work. The club will pack candy for the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee. They will also buy Christmas seals and donate to the Day Nursery of the Volunteers of America.

MRS. ROY DeMICCO

Mrs. Roy DeMicco is the former, Miss Dolores Scanlon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Scanlon of 650 Delaware avenue. Mr. DeMicco is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo DeMicco of Delaware avenue and they were married November 15, at St. Mary's Church by the Rev. Benjamin C. Roth.

Miss Norma Duda Is Married To John W. LeFevre

Miss Norma A. Duda, daughter of Mrs. Vera C. Duda of Maple Hill became the bride of John W. LeFevre, son of Mrs. Agnes LeFevre of Bloomington, Thanksgiving day, November 26, at 3 p. m. The ceremony was performed at the Bloomington Reformed Church by the Rev. Wilhelm K. Haysom. Miss Natalie Phillips sang "Because" with Miss Evelyn Fagher presiding at the organ. Both are friends of the bride.

Given in marriage by her uncle, the bride wore a white satin gown with train and veil worn by her aunt. She carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Ruth Houghtaling of Bloomington who attended the bride wore a powder blue taffata and lace gown and carried yellow chrysantemums. Robert Freer acted as best man for the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Kirkland Hotel for the members of the immediate families.

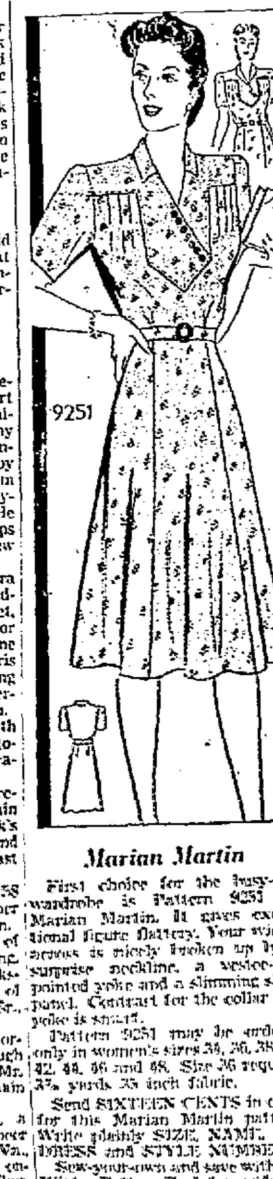
NEW YOKE TREATMENT



Marian Martin

First choice for the busy-day wardrobe is Pattern 9251 by Marian Martin. It gives exceptional figure flattery. Your width-across is nicely broken up by a surprise neckline, a vestee-like pointed yoke and a slimming skirt panel. Contrast for the collar and yoke is smart.

Pattern 9251 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send SIXTEEN CENTS in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Sew-your-own and save with our Winter Pattern Book for guidance. Styles for dress-up, sports, school, work—each available in the simplest, most accurate pattern you've ever used. Pattern Book, ten cents.

Auxiliary Elects Officers at Tea

The annual reception and tea of the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary was held yesterday afternoon at the Nurses Home. During the business meeting officers for the coming year were elected. Those chosen were Mrs. John Olivet, president; Mrs. Raymond E. Craft, first vice president; Mrs. George W. Moore, second vice president; Mrs. Edward B. Loughran, third vice president; Mrs. Sam Mann, fourth vice president; Mrs. Philip Foster, fifth vice president; Mrs. Charles Davis, treasurer; Mrs. J. Schuyler Schonger, recording secretary, and Mrs. James Higley, corresponding secretary. The annual reports of the officers and committees were also given.

Mrs. James Higley presented the newly elected president to the group, and Mrs. George Moore presented the retiring president, Mrs. Raymond Craft, with a gift of gold vases on behalf of the auxiliary members. Mrs. Craft had served as president for the past two years.

Mrs. Olivet announced that the usual Christmas decorating would be done this year and appointed Miss Anne Campbell as chairman of the committee. She also spoke of the annual tea sponsored by the Junior Auxiliary on New Year's Day.

The speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Michael Curley of Port Ewen, who had spent some time as a member of the clergy in Puerto Rico. The Rev. Father Curley spoke of his experiences with the lack of medical and health facilities and how he became deeply appreciative of the work that hospitals can do.

He made a survey of the natives whom he had known and found that after five years one in every three children born on the island had died before the age of seven. There were no facilities in the country regions and the people were not informed as to proper care of the sick. It was difficult to find treatment especially for mental cases. Leprosy was found and most of the people died from tuberculosis. He also told of the poor drinking water and of the concoctions which the natives had made.

Bringing his topic up-to-date, the Rev. Father Curley reviewed the importance of health in the time of war. He related several stories of the Civil War and World War days illustrating his point for good health, both on the home and battle fronts. In closing he praised the work of the hospital auxiliaries who assist in maintaining the health of the communities.

A short musical program was given by Mrs. Ralph Halbert, soprano soloist, with Mrs. Raoul Racette accompanying. She sang "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon, and "Because" by Guy D'Hardelot.

Following the meeting tea was served with the members of the Junior Auxiliary, the Misses Jetta Egan, Gertrude Beichert, Rose Mary Netter, Maureen Troy, Margaret Whalen and Helen Larkin, assisting. Mrs. George Moore and Mrs. James Higley presided at the tea table which was arranged with a centerpiece of bronze and yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums, silver candlesticks with yellow candles and two tea services. The room was also decorated with sprays and bouquets of the chrysanthemums.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. J. Schuyler Schonger, Mrs. Raymond Craft and Mrs. Paul Purcell, Mrs. Vincent Connelly and Mrs. J. Edwin Phelan were cochairmen of the afternoon's program and they were assisted by the committee of Mrs. James Mathers, Mrs. Cornelius Cahalien and Mrs. Frederick Fahnrich.

MAY ADOPTED SON BE JUNIOR?

Strangely enough a question which must concern many is one that I have never heard before. This is the question: "When a young baby is adopted legally, before he has been christened is it wrong to name him for his newly acquired father and call him junior? Some of our relatives insist that only a real son can be a junior. I contend that a legally adopted son must be considered a real son or there would be no meaning to the procedure of adopting him legally?"

In answer to this you are right. A legally adopted son is considered a real son and therefore may properly be called junior. At least I have just been informed that this is the law in New York state and I imagine it is the same in others. However, perhaps those who are interested and live elsewhere would be wise to get a legal opinion as I did.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married in late November and will wear a white bride's dress and veil. I have always wanted to have a train on my wedding dress but it is now decided that due to the brief furlough which my fiance will have and the war situation in general, we are going to have a small wedding in the chapel and are inviting only our nearest relatives and friends. I suppose it will not be impossible for me to have my train? Also, tell me what color my sister—my only attendant—should wear?

Answer: Of course you may have a train, unless it is a question of economy of material. From the point of view of suitability you should not choose one that is to trail two or three yards down the aisle if there isn't any length of aisle, but one of moderate length on a very simple dress should be lovely. The color of your sister's dress depends upon what color you like, or think best against the background of the church and that will also be most becoming to her. If all colors are becoming to both, then a decision may be made by the flowers she is to carry.

A New Daughter-in-law to Be Introduced

Dear Mrs. Post: My son's wife has just come to pay us a long visit. My son has gone off to the war. They have been married several years but it was only announced in her home-town before my son went away. No one here knows about it. I am wondering whether it would be a good plan for me to entertain and announce it too, or whether that would be out of place for the groom's family to do.

Answer: But of course you will have to explain who she is. By this I mean she should be called Mrs. Your-Son's-Name, and people should be asked to meet her. Beyond inviting them to meet Arthur's wife I see no need for explaining how long ago they were married, or why they did not tell everyone. So many war marriages are taking place, why not let it be supposed this is also one. Or perhaps it may be best to tell the story as it is. Not that there is any reason for not giving the facts as they are except that most people of good taste dislike being gossiped about, and every deviation from conventional pattern is that much food for gossip.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 3—The Intermediate Girl Scouts will meet at the Methodist Church hall Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and the senior group will meet at 7:30 o'clock.

The Girl Scouts of Troop 19 who have been collecting fats and grease during the month of November wish to thank all those who have cooperated with them in this work. Anyone who was not at home when the scouts called is asked to leave any grease they may have at Jump's store. Ninety-one pounds was collected and the money received, $3.64, was turned over to the Service Center for use in the canteen. Another collection will be made in December. The girls who worked on the project are Dorothy Hornbeck, Anna Winchell, Janice Fowler, Ruth Webster, Gertrude Beichert, Elnora Houghtaling, Dolores O'Donnel, Anne McConnell, Annette Beavor, Dorothy Ellsworth and Ruth Buddenhagen.

The Reformed Church choir will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Floyd Beesmer.

The junior choir of the Methodist Church will meet at 6:30 and the senior choir at 7:30 Friday evening.

The Dorcas Society will hold its annual Christmas party at the Reformed Church hall Tuesday evening, December 15. Those who wish to attend please notify Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth or Mrs. Adolph Munson or Mrs. John Groves by December 9.

The Ever Ready Club will have its annual holiday dinner at the Kirkland Hotel Tuesday night, December 8. The members will meet at Card's drug store to take the 6:30 bus.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK—IN THE MATTER OF ELIZABETH A. LE FEVRE, Bankrupt. IN BANKRUPTCY NO. 77130. IN THE MATTER OF FRANK J. LE FEVRE, Bankrupt. IN BANKRUPTCY NO. 77129.

Upon reading and filing the annexed petition of LLOYD R. LE FEVER, Trustee in Bankruptcy herein, duly verified the 1st day of December, 1942, and upon the offer of RAYMOND G. GUERNSEY, dated November 27th, 1942, hereunto annexed and marked Schedule "A", and no adverse interest being represented, and sufficient cause appearing therefor, it is,

NOW, on motion of LOUIS BRAUN, and PETER H. HARP, the attorneys for the said Trustee,

ORDERED, that a special meeting of the creditors herein be held on the 15th day of December, 1942, at the Supervisors' Room at the Ulster County Courthouse in the City of Kingston, State of New York, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to consider and act upon the offer of Raymond G. Guernsey, to pay the sum of nine hundred and twenty-five ($925.00) dollars for the trustee's right, title and interest in and to one hundred and eighty-five (185) shares of the Preferred "B" stock of the Poughkeepsie Trust Company of Poughkeepsie, New York, and to show cause why the said offer of Raymond G. Guernsey, or any higher or better offer or offers which may be made upon the return date of this order to show cause should not be accepted for the aforedescribed shares of stock, and why the Trustee herein should not have such other and further relief as to this Court may seem just and proper.

ORDERED, that service by mail of a copy of this order and notice upon all creditors of the bankrupt and other parties in interest, on or before the 5th day of December, 1942, and by publication of a copy of this order in The Kingston Daily Freeman, and the New Paltz Independent, on or before the 4th day of December, 1942, shall be deemed good and sufficient service, and notice hereof.

the city lights only. In communities outside the city there is local control of the street light systems. Special switches have been installed in these communities with a key in charge of someone authorized to turn off the lights in case of an air raid warning.

Four incidents were staged in Kingston during the blackout, and 14 in the Ulster warning district, outside the city. In the city the incidents were staged at 64 Broadway, 76 St. James street, 96 Murray street and 70 West Union street.

Those who were "injured in the air raid were rushed to the emergency hospital in the emergency ambulances where their "wounds" were "dressed" by the staff of doctors and nurses.

The blackout last night came as a complete surprise both to the county and city officials, but also to the air raid wardens and other civilian defense workers who participate in the blackout activities.

The yellow signal came through at the control centers at 7:02 o'clock last night; the blue signal at 7:21 and the red signal at 7:27. It is when the blue signal is flashed that the air raid sirens sound their warning.

The weather was far from ideal last night in staging a blackout as the gale that blew through the city and county made it extremely disagreeable for the air raid wardens and other civilian defense workers.

At the time of the blackout, Arthur L. Morrill, chief air raid warden of Kingston, was out of town, and Deputy Chief Warden Charles de la Vergne was ill at his home. However, Acting Chief Morton Finch took charge of the city's activities and was at the city control center when the alarm was sounded and took charge.

This morning Mr. Morrill stated that Acting Chief Finch had carried on with remarkable efficiency as head of the city air raid system and the Rev. Clarance A. Brown and Thomas Murray of the Second ward had covered Mr. Finch's duties in the Second ward. Prior to leaving town, Mr. Morrill had arranged for Mr. Finch to take over in case of an alert during the illness of Deputy Chief de la Vergne.

While there was some delay in sounding the alarm in some sections of the city the routine work after the alarm had been sounded was carried out with efficiency. Chief Warden Morrill today informed a Freeman reporter that when it became necessary for him to leave town arrangements were always made with the deputy chief or the acting chief to carry on the duties within the city in his absence and the city was never without a chief at the head of the system.

This morning Acting Chief Warden Finch filed with Mr. Morrill a complete report of the blackout last night, together with the reports from all zone, sector and post wardens as to violations and in general how the warden system functioned.

Mr. Morrill stated that to date there had been practically a unanimous desire of the citizens of the city to co-operate in all blackouts and daylight alerts. The policy is not to prosecute violations which may be unintentional and thus far there have been few willful violations which required the action of the police or other law enforcement officials. Unintentional violations which however continue to occur will be reported by the post wardens and investigated for correction.

Last night four incidents were staged in the city and 14 in the towns. All of the incidents were carried out as scheduled, James A. Simpson reported for the county, and likewise Allan A. Baker in charge of the city control reported all incidents in Kingston had gone off as scheduled. The city incidents took place at 76 St. James street, 64 Broadway, 96 Murray street, 79 West Union street. On St. James street a fire by incendiary bomb was reported and auxiliary fire units and the Wiltwyck pumper responded. Three "victims" from the other incidents were taken to the emergency hospital after first aid had been given.

Navy Needs Special Officers With Stevedore Experience

Recent actions of the United States Navy in amphibious attacks in the Solomons and upon Algiers, Oran and Casablanca have shown a need for officers to lead a new type of sea-fighter—hard-hitting, hard-working men who are members of the Navy's "Seabee Special Battalions."

The Navy needs commissioned and warrant officers with stevedoring experience for these positions and all applicants may write or apply in person at the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 33 Pine street, New York, or in Buffalo at the Liberty Bank Building.

Candidates for rankings from warrant officer to lieutenant commander will be considered. College education is not required, but applicants must have active and practical experience in over-all stevedoring of general cargo between ships and docks, lighters and barges. In other words, they must be able to load and unload vessels through hatches rather than through side-ports.

Those eligible for commissions include men who have worked as superintendents, hatch bosses, supervisors, etc. A limited number of applicants with bulk cargo, terminal or warehouse experience will also be considered.

Munitions Output Schedule Is Settled After Siege

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP) — The final word on scheduling of munitions output apparently rested today with civilian officials—reputed victors in a backroom verbal slugging match with the armed services.

With President Roosevelt in the dual role of matchmaker and referee, the long pending controversy was declared settled yesterday with Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson of the War Production Board, the new boss of aircraft production.

The President, himself, announced the problem was solved—just as he previously said it would be—by getting the participants together in a room and keeping them there until an agreement was reached.

A government official, who asked not to be identified, said W. P. B. Chief Donald M. Nelson who appointed Wilson head of a little W. P. B. for the aviation industry, emerged victor of the contest. Production scheduling of all other munitions would be managed by the armed services, he added, but under a delegation of authority from Wilson.

Santa May Feel New Stabilization of Salaries

New York, Dec. 2 (AP) — Even Santa Claus may be hit by the salary stabilization order.

The National Retail Dry Goods Association reported that a member had asked if it was all right to raise by $5 a week the wages of its Santa this year.

The organization referred the matter to the War Labor Board, saying, "this is a question which involves many jobs in retail stores which are unique in that the incumbent is employed only once a year or that only one person is employed in a certain capacity."

"Perhaps," the association added, "the officials of the board no longer believe in Santa Claus."

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—The United States and Canada intend to promote mutually advantageous economic relations in the post war world by lowering trade barriers and enlarging production, exchange and consumption of goods.

The State Department announced last night that the two nations have been agreed to begin conversations soon among themselves and other representatives of other United Nations toward reaching post war settlements that will better world-wide economic relations.

Gifts for a Soldier's Sock

By GLADYS DEGNER
AP Feature Writer

Chances are there'll be some extra men on your Christmas list this year. If you haven't a son, brother or husband in the service, you'll want to remember other friends to whom you might not have given presents were they safely home in civvies. Here are some gift tips any service man would like:

If he's just going into the service, a chain with two clips to hold his identification tags would be a timely remembrance. Sells for $1. More amusing would be a gay little book entitled "A Soldier's Diary," which has room for snapshots, favorite jokes and things he'll want to remember. A good laugh for only $1 of your money. Other inexpensive gifts are: Playing cards for his free hours in the barracks; a couple of man-sized bath towels tough enough to take hard wear; or a six months' supply of razor blades, boxed and ready to send for 50c plus a 3c stamp.

Now for a few higher-priced items. There are several useful kits, compactly made up in both Army and Navy twill. One is as neat as a button—a sewing roll with scissors, thimble, thread and needles. Remember Mom isn't around to do the mending. Another is a first aid kit. Handier still is an apron-like "jeep kit" which ties around his middle and holds all of his toilet equipment. More than likely there's not much space to "park" his supplies in the barracks washroom while he's shaving.

Other suggestions, high on the list of what soldiers and sailors want are cigarettes, regulation shirts and socks, wallets with insignia, and polarized sun glasses.

Largest Office Building

The War Department's new Pentagon Building in Washington—biggest office building in the world—is so large that four bus stops are needed on a road that encircles an inner court.

WANTED! 1000 WOMEN WITH POOR COMPLEXION

... to try this remarkable skin aid for JUST 10 DAYS!

If your skin is rough, dry, unattractive-looking, or marred by ugly externally-caused pimples and blemishes, read this carefully!

Thousands of women have already made wonderful improvement in their complexions with a medicated formula which nurses were among the first to discover as an aid to skin beauty . . . a formula which scores of doctors themselves use in the care of their skin, and often recommend to their patients.

This formula is Noxzema Medicated Skin Cream. In the next few days we want 1000 women to try it on the Special Offer outlined below. Use it for just 10 days. Then feel your skin; let your fingertips and your mirror prove how effective it is. That's because Noxzema is not just a cosmetic cream. It's a MEDICATED FORMULA that does two important things: 1—it helps smooth and soften rough, dry skin. 2—it helps heal externally-caused pimples and blemishes. And, in addition, it has a mildly astringent action.

Literally thousands of women have made this trial and have been overjoyed to see the wonderful improvement in their skin. Miss Norma L. Lodes, of Minneapolis, writes: "I work in a drug store and was most unhappy because of externally-caused blemishes on my face. Now Noxzema has helped change everything . . . people tell me I have a beautiful complexion, and I frequently suggest Noxzema to our customers." Miss Dee Chapman, Los Angeles, says: "I like off-the-face hats but was embarrassed by ugly externally-caused blemishes on my forehead. Then a friend recommended Noxzema and not only did it help heal the blemishes, but my skin became softer and smoother, too."

Try Noxzema for just 10 days. Use it as a night cream and as a powder base. See for yourself how much it can do to help make your skin softer, smoother, lovelier!

SPECIAL OFFER! For a limited time only, you can get the big 75¢ jar of Noxzema for only 49¢ (plus tax). Take advantage of this Special Yearly Offer. Get a jar at any drug or cosmetic counter—and start this new complexion care today!

Plan for March of Dimes

dation to raise funds in January. He said that the Foundation was established five years ago, and that in the coming campaign it was planned to use the same technique used so successfully in former years.

He called attention to the fact that Foundation would hold a demonstration of the Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis in Chancellor Hall in Albany on Tuesday afternoon, December 15, at 2 o'clock, and urged all who found it possible, to attend. He said living models would be used in this demonstration.

Among those present at the meeting last night were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Garraghan, Mrs. Grace DuBois, Mrs. Agnes Powers, Edward Hartney of Modena, Mrs. Kathryn Liscom, Robert Browning, Robert Rhinehart, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wall, Mrs. Thomas Roach, Mrs. Donald Bishop, Mrs. Howard Emerick, Mrs. Betty Richards, Mrs. Martin Keller, Mrs. Margaret Pendill, Mrs. Patrick Murphy, Joseph McTague and Mrs. Helen Stern Mann.

Hoover Favors Joint War Board

And with drastic taxes on excess profits, the low cost producer does not get away with anything consequential. . . . There must be no rules of labor that restrict or retard effort or output beyond those which safeguard health.

"Sixth— . . . We can better appraise our manpower if we calculate the male manpower available and assume that women can do the rest. There are certain jobs that only men can do. . . .

"Seventh— . . . Fix prices of a given commodity or raw material at as near the source of production as possible and . . . regulate the subsequent percentage addition for processors and the mark up for merchants. General price ceilings (or legal maximum prices as they were called in the last war) were tried out in every nation in that war and proved a failure. . . . . Fixing of wages is not wholly a factor in the cost of living. . . . Men naturally drift to the highest paid calling and production is stifled in the lower paid industries.

"Eighth—The eighth principle of war organization is to do no more regulating than is necessary to attain the major objective. . . .

"Ninth— . . . The necessity to change from the normal bid and contract peace practice of governmental purchases of commodities and services. That safeguard cannot be made universal in war. . . .

"Tenth— . . . Secure the enthusiastic cooperation of civilians with the government in order to mobilize their abilities, skill and sacrifice with the least bureacracy and force. . . .

"Eleventh— . . . Concentration of every governmental energy upon winning the war. Reforms, or making America over, no matter how attractive, cannot but dislocate the war effort. . . .

"Twelfth—And finally, a major principle is to organize all these activities so as to assure the return to economic and personal liberty the moment war is over. . . ."

Blackout Halts Pursuit

The Canadian Northwest Mounted Police still have the edge on County Probation Officer Lawrence Jenson, but it's all due to the blackout Wednesday night. "Larry" was coming up Broadway when he saw one of his probationers with whom he had been anxious to get in contact. He stopped his car near the Governor Clinton Hotel and got out to follow the boy, when suddenly the street lights went out, and he disappeared in the darkness, around the corner. However, Officer Jenson undoubtedly will "get his man" in the end.

Healthy and Comfortable

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP) — No matter how it feels to you, the War Production Board has it on good authority that a 65 degree home temperature is healthful and comfortable. The authority is Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the U. S. Public Health Service, who said the 65 degree temperature is "well within not only the health zone but even the comfort zone."

Russell Asks Review

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Re-examination of all the nation's agricultural policies in the light of war demands for food was advocated today by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Agricultural appropriations subcommittee. Russell also told an interviewer the Department of Agriculture must soon "submit a more economical plan of administration, since the cost of administering the AAA and conservation programs has been entirely too high."

Grand Jury Makes Public Testimony

Members Report Courteous Treatment, Cooperation

The following resolution of commendation was filed with the report of the November Grand Jury, Wednesday when that body made its report to Justice Francis Bergan:

December 2, 1942

In presenting our report to the Supreme Court at this time, we, the members of the Ulster County Grand Jury attending the November term, desire to publicly testify to the very courteous treatment tendered us as members of the Grand Jury.

From the Court, the District Attorney and his entire staff we have enjoyed the fullest cooperation. On presenting the cases to come before us, District Attorney Haver and Assistant District Attorney Frederick Stang have very clearly presented all matters. They have produced witnesses with necessary examinations and in every way it has made our work easy.

To Fred W. Bruhn as Grand Jury Stenographer we also extend our hearty thanks for his able services.

Also to all other Court Officers who have come in contact with our body we extend our thanks.

We have made an inspection of the Ulster County Jail and Court House. The jail was found in good condition, very clean and neat. The jail kitchen also was clean and orderly. We wish to commend Sheriff Anderson and his staff for the very excellent manner in which he is caring for our county's property.

Signed,
WILLIAM C. DUTTON
Foreman

The meeting will start at 8 p. m., and all Eastern Star members and Master Masons are invited to attend.

Ward's Restrained

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—Montgomery Ward and Company, huge mail order house, was restrained from further violations of price ceilings today in a preliminary injunction issued by Federal Judge John P. Barnes. The court ruled the company had violated the price control act by listing in its 1943 fall and winter catalogue 434 items at prices higher than the ceilings established by the company. Overcharges were from one cent to $1.62 an item, the Office of Price Administration alleged in its suit for injunction, and goods involved house furnishings, wearing apparel, sporting goods, musical instruments and notions.

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—A shade more recovery confidence was displayed by today's stock market as rails and industrial favorites added fractions to a point or so to Wednesday's comeback.

Lightening of tax selling, expectations of the usual year-end rally and the brighter earnings outlook for many companies brought in some buyers, brokers said. Scant inspiration was found in the war news.

Irregular upward tendencies were in evidence at the opening. While assorted losers were seen here and there, plus marks were well distributed near the fourth hour. Dealings picked up at intervals.

Commodities were mixed and bonds generally improved.

International Harvester and J. I. Case were among the few stocks to post new year's peaks. Tilting forward were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Texas Co., Loew's, United Aircraft, J. C. Penney, Anaconda, Allied Chemical and Union Carbide.

Poisonous Gases Blamed For Night Club Deaths

Boston, Dec. 3 (AP)—Medical authorities indicated today that poisonous gases developing from the Cocoanut Grove night club fire Saturday night contributed heavily to the death toll, now officially placed at 490.

"There is no question that there was something poisonous in that smoke beside carbon monoxide and flame," Dr. Timothy Leary, Suffolk county medical examiner, told reporters.

"People died too quickly to fight for their lives," added Dr. William H. Watters, associate medical examiner.

He said he had viewed hundreds of the bodies and that there were scarcely any broken bones to indicate crush or panic.

It is human nature to fight for your life," he continued. "They undoubtedly died too quickly to have a chance to fight.

A number of witnesses at the inquest have testified that the smoke during the holocaust had a peculiarly acrid odor such as they never had smelled before.

Nazi reinforcements were said to have been hurried into action in the sectors of Velikie Luki, Rzhev and the Don-Volga corridor before Stalingrad.

Conflicting reports obscured the situation in Tunisia, with the Germans asserting they had recaptured a key rail town 20 miles west of Tunis, destroying 22 American tanks, while pro-Allied French troops were said to have crushed a Nazi counterattack at Pont De Fahs, 30 miles below Tunis.

Frontline dispatches said a decisive battle for the two key Axis strongholds in Tunisia was apparently under way.

Allied siege columns were attacking less than a dozen miles from the Axis-held citadels, with one force striking southward toward Tunis from Medjez-el-Bab and another driving toward the big Bizerte naval base from the Mateur sector, 12 miles below Bizerte.

Heavy fighting was reported at Mateur.

Allied headquarters gave no details on supporting operations by the British fleet, announcing merely:

"The Royal Navy is assisting in the provision of cover for the advance of our forces."

This could mean either that the fleet was unlimbering its big guns to rain destruction on the Axis defenders or sending carrier-based planes into the assault.

Meanwhile, the Navy in Washington announced the loss of five U. S. naval transports during the occupation of North Africa by American expeditionary forces.

Three other transports, a destroyer and a tanker were damaged during the operation, the Navy said, in its first communique on the North African coup.

No mention was made of the number of men lost.

"The next of kin of personnel killed, wounded or missing are being notified by telegram as soon as information is received," the Navy said.

While the Allied land offensive flamed toward a climax, the London admiralty announced that light British naval forces pounced on a Tunisia-bound Axis convoy in the Mediterranean and destroyed six of the enemy ships.

"On being attacked, the convoy scattered and made smoke," the admiralty said.

"During the spirited engagement which followed, four enemy ships and two of the escorting destroyers were sunk or left burning wrecks."

British Lose Carrier

At the same time, it was officially disclosed that the British aircraft carrier Avenger, three destroyers and five lighter ships were among Allied naval losses incident to the landings in North Africa.

Frontline correspondents reported that the Germans dropped 50 parachute troops disguised as Arabs in an attempt to delay the Allied capture of Tebourba, vital rail junction 20 miles west of Tunis, where American troops played a major role in smashing a big Nazi counterattack.

Allied troops quickly mopped up the masquerading enemy, however, and occupied the town at daybreak Saturday.

Allied headquarters said the Nazis suffered heavy losses in their unsuccessful counter blow at Tebourba, aimed at cutting off the Allied wedge now firmly driven between Bizerte and Tunis. The Berlin radio claimed the Germans recaptured Tebourba and destroyed 22 American tanks in the attack.

On the Libyan flank of the Allied vise, British headquarters again reported patrol clashes as Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army probed Axis defenses at El Agheila, where Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has entrenched in a narrow corridor between salt marshes and the sea.

Bombers Attack Bases

A British communique said Allied heavy bombers rained new blows on Axis bases in Libya and Tunisia, attacking Tripoli, Bizerte and Gabes, and also sank a large south-bound tanker off Sicily.

On the Soviet front, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red Armies captured another strategic height in the Stalingrad sector—the second announced within 24 hours—and the southern arm of the Russian offensive reached out to within a few miles of Kotelnikovski, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Kotelnikovski is a main German base on the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway.

After two full weeks of tempestuous attack, the Red Army's great winter drive was slowing somewhat in pace, but Soviet dispatches said the Russians were steadily closing the jaws of a trap around upwards of 300,000 Nazis in the Don-Volga corridor.

Local Death Record

William F. Russell, formerly of Brooklyn, died Tuesday evening, December 1, after a long illness, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William H. MacReady in Woodstock. He is survived by his daughter, and one brother, Joseph F. Russell of Brooklyn. Funeral and burial will be private.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Marie Skoog, who died suddenly Monday evening at Poughkeepsie, were held today at the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue, with the Rev. Russell Damstra, of Church of the Comforter, officiating. Burial took place in the family plot in Montrepose cemetery.

Frank M. Scherger, formerly of this city, died at the N. Y. State Volunteer Firemen's Home, at Hudson, on Wednesday. Mr. Scherger had been at Hudson for the past 14 years. A former member of Weber Hose Company here, Mr. Scherger was active in the formation of that company many years ago. He is survived by several nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held from the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, 27 Smith avenue, Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, with a requiem Mass at St. Peter's Church at 9:30 o'clock. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Martin H. Nilan, for the last 10 years a well known and highly respected resident of Port Ewen died last night following a long illness. He was born in New Paltz and had lived in Poughkeepsie and West Park where he had been employed as caretaker of estates. He was a man of sterling christian character and was held in high esteem by a very large circle of friends. He was a faithful member of the Church of the Presentation, the Holy Name Society and Kingston Council No. 275 K. of C. Besides his wife who was Mary Mack, he leaves one son, Martin P. Nilan of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Peter L. Germiller of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. William Corbett of Tampa, Florida, also six grandchildren. The funeral will be held from his late home on Main street, Port Ewen Saturday morning at 9 o'clock and 9:30 o'clock at the Church of the Presentation where a requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of his soul. Burial in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery at Poughkeepsie.

The funeral of Lester Finley was held at the Trinity Methodist Church at 2:30 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon with the Revs. Strivings and Weyant conducting the service. Before going to the church a brief prayer service was held at the home. The Rev. Peter C. Weyant, a former pastor at Trinity and a personal friend of Mr. Finley, recalled the years of his pastorate at Trinity and the fact that the two Finley boys, Donald and Lester, Jr., were baptized by him. Now both sons are in the Methodist ministry. Trinity Church, Dr. Weyant said, has sustained a great loss in the death of this loyal and capable member. The church was filled with Mr. Finley's many friends and relatives and numerous floral designs were placed around the altar. While his remains reposed at his home a host of friends came to pay their last tribute of affection and respect to a friend. Bearers were: Monroe Burger, George Bode, George Lowe, Edward Hillis, M. Lee Osterhoudt and Charles Shultis. Burial was in the family plot in Montrepose cemetery, where the Revs. Strivings and Weyant conducted the committal service.

Poletti Takes Over

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—New York's 46th Governor, Charles Poletti, plunged into the complex duties of his new office today, pledged to keep the state's war effort in high gear and its administrative wheels "at full speed." The 39-year-old governor, although slated to serve one of the shortest "terms" on record, voiced that promise solemnly and emphatically yesterday after taking the oath of office from Irving Lehman, chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Charges Are Filed

Buenos Aires, Dec. 3 (AP)—The federal prosecutor filed charges today against 38 persons—all Germans or of German origin—rounded up in a sweeping investigation based on evidence supplied by the United States. The penal code provides sentences of one to six years for hostile acts tending to affect friendly relations between Argentina and other countries. The prosecutor demanded the maximum penalty.

Jury Is Completed In Nuzzo Tri

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—Trial of Samuel Nuzzo, 46, former labor union business agent, charged with grand larceny and forgery, was to begin today with Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill outlining the case. A jury of 10 men and two women was completed yesterday from a special panel of 56 petit jurors. Fifty-four were examined.

Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath is presiding.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Jennie Entrott, who departed this life, December 3, 1941.

Ever thoughtful, ever kind,
Good was her heart, her friendship true,
Loved and respected by all she knew,
To a beautiful life came a sudden end,
She died as she lived, every one's friend.

SON, DAUGHTER and DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my wife, Jennie Entrott, who departed this life December 3, 1941.

She had a nature you could not help loving,
And a heart that was purer than gold,
And to those who loved and knew her,
Her memory will never grow old.

Husband,
CHARLES.

Caps For AEF

Somewhere in England (AP)—American soldiers in England have devised a new use for British-made woolen mufflers now being issued them. By doubling under one end of the thick olivedrab scarf and rolling the fold to desired head size, the Yanks have converted them into first class stocking caps.

To conserve material the mufflers are little over half the length of those commonly worn by Americans.

The ground around Mogador, Moroccan port, is so low that the city becomes an island in times of high water.

Gale Brings Cold Wave; Ferry Is Stalled in Slip, Omits Several Trips

Winds of gale proportions ripped through the city's streets Wednesday afternoon and evening driving the mercury in the thermometers down to a new low of 16 degrees in some sections of the city.

As far as could be learned there was no damage in the wake of the storm in Kingston, but the gale was of such proportions on the Hudson river that the Rhinebeck ferry was unable to leave her slip on the other side of the river, and was forced to omit several trips.

On the Rhinebeck side of the river the gale was of such force at 2:30 o'clock that the ferry found it impossible to start across the river for Rondout, and remained in her slip there until 4 o'clock that afternoon when trips were resumed as usual.

At the city hall at 11 o'clock last night the thermometer recorded a low of 22 degrees, while the highest temperature recorded there on Wednesday was 46 degrees at 5 o'clock that morning.

Early this morning there was a slight fall of snow in Kingston, and road conditions were so slippery that it was necessary to sand the streets in some places.

The only automobile accident reported to the police department was at 4:25 o'clock this morning on the East Chester street by-pass when an automobile driven by Richard T. Berry south on that street struck the rear wheel of a truck driven by George Quackenbush of Stillwell. The truck was not damaged, but the automobile had to be towed to a garage for repairs. No personal injuries were reported.

The miniature gale that swept Kingston during the early afternoon and night was of such proportions that pedestrians at times had to battle their way.

The gale was followed by a cold wave that gripped the city today with temperatures of 22 degrees and lower recorded at 6 o'clock this morning.

taraugus road also was closed. Cars skidding off Chatauqua county roads were an added hazard.

Cattaraugus County Highway Superintendent Chester H. Edmunds termed it "the worst December storm" in his experience.

Many rural schools closed in Chautauqua, Allegany, Cattaraugus, Oneida, Jefferson and St. Lawrence counties. At Mayville, Chautauqua county, 105 central school pupils spent the night in the village because of snow conditions. Leroy, Nunda and Dalton schools shut their doors.

Throughout most of the remainder of the state, troopers said roads were open but slippery. They advised no unnecessary travel on Route 20 near Cazenovia and in Saratoga county. Only toward New York city were highways clear and dry.

Ferry docks at Morristown, St. Lawrence county, were washed out by the rampaging St. Lawrence river. Several tons of coal slid into the water from wind-tossed barges.

Erie county's mid-morning wind velocity was 45 miles an hour, with a temperature of 20. Other upstate temperatures at the time included: Albany, 28; Rochester, 18; Syracuse, 24; Bear Mountain, 18, and Canton, 21. The mercury reading at New York city was 26.

Yesterday's storm left in its wake fallen telephone and power lines and other damage.

State Police stopped southbound traffic in Chautauqua county, where scores of automobiles were reported stranded, their occupants seeking shelter in farmhouses. Several motorists spent the night in a schoolhouse near Jamestown. A dozen persons were quartered in Mayville jail.

In Massena, where the storm was termed one of the worst in 40 years, the town hall was opened to house 200 factory workers, marooned by deep, soggy snow, and stalled busses.

Temperatures were down as far south as New York city.

Fannie Levy Legatee

New York, Dec. 2 (Special)—Fannie Levy of Ellenville will receive $200 from the estate of her late brother, Lazarus Levy, according to the terms of his will filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here today. Mr. Levy died on March 20, 1941. His estate is estimated at about $3,000.

Reports Are Given To Supervisors on Tuberculosis Work

past year to the amount of $1,459.97. In comparing our income from patients with that of other county tuberculosis hospitals in the state, you will find this is a most satisfactory figure.

Following recent conferences with the District State Health Officer, we are planning to survey all reported cases of tuberculosis in Ulster county. Some of these cases were reported several years ago and have not recently been examined. With the co-operation of the attending physicians of these families, and with the aid of Miss Murphy of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Health Association and the public health nurses of the county, every effort will be made to bring in these patients and members of their families to determine whether or not they are still active and perhaps contagious; or whether they have become cured or arrested cases whose names might be removed from the roster. This will involve the X-raying of several hundred individuals, and much valuable information will be obtained and a further necessary step will be taken to insure further control of tuberculosis in this county.

We are again indebted, as in the past, to the physicians of the county who are often called upon to see patients who may have conditions which need the attention of the various specialists. We have always found these physicians willing to help us in the care of our patients.

The Ulster County Highway Department, under the direction of the Superintendent, James F. Loughran, has carried on the work of maintaining the roads on the hospital property. The City of Kingston Department of Public Works has also co-operated in every way in any assistance which they could give us.

The large amount of laboratory work which is required in an institution of this kind has been efficiently done at the Kingston laboratory, under Dr. Taylor's supervision. To all these agencies we extend our thanks.

The Department of Thoracic Surgery, which has been carried on for many years by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, must of necessity be greatly curtailed during his absence while on duty in the navy. Dr. Robert E. Plunkett, Superintendent of State Tuberculosis Hospitals, and Dr. Ralph Horton, Superintendent of the Homer Folks Tuberculosis Hospital at Oneonta, are extending to us every possible assistance in the care of patients who are greatly in need of thoracic surgery. These operations are performed at this time at the hospital in Oneonta, and the only cost that must be borne by the county of Ulster is the charge of $17.50 per week for the maintenance of these patients while they are in that institution.

The orthopedic work which was formerly done by Dr. Saul Ritchie, who also is now in the Army, will have to be performed at the State Tuberculosis Hospital in Oneonta. This work is absolutely essential in the cure of certain cases of tuberculosis, and some provision will have to be made to meet this comparatively small expenditure. All this emphasizes the generous contributions which have been made to our hospital in the past by men who have rendered their services gratuitously to the county and who are now serving their country in the Army or Navy.

A most important work which has assisted greatly in the rehabilitation of our patients has been borne by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the hospital. There are only a very few women who have devoted their time and energy to the work of the Auxiliary. I feel that it is most unfortunate the active membership in this work has been so limited. May we hope that in the future, despite all the other demands made on their time during a world war, more public-spirited women could find the time to become interested in this most important field of endeavor.

During the past year the Board of Managers has carried on the work of supervising and advising in the administrative work of the hospital. Each member of the board has shown a keen interest, not only in this phase of the institutional activities, but also extended this interest in the welfare of the patients both in and out of the hospital. The people of the county should realize and appreciate the time which the Board of Managers spends in the interest of our institution.

It has been my privilege for the past 11 years to appear before the Board of Supervisors of Ulster county to render an account of our clinical and administrative work during the past year. May I once more thank this board for its whole-hearted cooperation and its continued interest in the work of this institution. We have attempted to make a contribution in the public health field of the county, and I can assure you that we will continue our efforts in the future toward the control or eradication of tuberculosis among all of our citizens.

Respectfully submitted,
FREDERIC W. HOLCOMB,
Superintendent.

Wickliffe-Morton

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Morton of Kingston, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Henrietta Hazel Morton, to P.F.C. Winfred P. Wickliffe, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Wickliffe, of Fort Wayne, Ind.

The marriage took place Wednesday, September 30, in Upper Marlboro, Md. The Rev. C. M. Shrewsbury performed the ceremony. The bride wore an ensemble of hunter's green velvet with an eggshell satin blouse and brown accessories. Her corsage was of rosebuds.

Recs Trim Yankees, 51-41; West Point Here Wednesday

Two Battles Mark Hotly Contested Game Last Night

Recreations Enjoy Heavy Third Period Thrust to Trim Harlem; Herbie Gershon Gets 15

The cry for the end of basketball contests against clubs such as the Harlem Yankees issued forth this morning as repercussions were plentiful following last night's hectic battle at the municipal auditorium between the Harlem club and the Kingston Recreations. The Recs won by the score of 51 to 41.

One patron, who is a steady customer at the Broadway court everytime the club plays, declared this morning, "we've seen enough of that kind of ball playing. We like our basketball, but not when a team like the Harlem Yankees come up here and starts slugging with Kingston."

Apparently that was the general public feeling today and the talk may bring the end of further contests with such clubs. Last year the Harlem cagers tried the same thing. Last night the same story resumed. Fans were just a little tired of it all.

Herbie Gershon, the portly New York State League ace, was a big spark for the Recreations as they won their third straight game of the season. Herb tossed in 15 points. He collected six fields and three fouls. Hagen Anderson was next with 12. Bell, forward for the Yanks, chimed in with 15 for his club.

First Period

Harlem took a 22 to 15 lead in the initial period. Papa Bell sparked the visitors with some nifty shots. Harlem had the Recs on the run and proceeded to make the locals look foolish by "stealing" the ball and other "humiliating" incidents. However, the Yankees were enjoying a brief respite, for later on they became puzzled by Kingston's play.

In the second period two fights by Jim Naughton and "Moonbeam" Isles and Herb Gershon and Johnny Isaacs, last year's "bad boy," had the fans yelling. However, cooler heads restored order and the game proceeded as usual. A number of fans rushed onto the floor during the Gershon-Isaacs melee, but two policemen were on hand to put down any further uprisings.

Second Period

Big Howie Bollerman put Kingston in the ball game. With the score 29 to 19 in favor of Harlem at one time in the second period it looked like curtains for the Recreations. However, a solid drive of Kingston forged the team out in front as the midway period expired. Irv Rosen started the Recreations on their way to the lead with a foul. Gershon danced in and drilled a shot through the wicket which was followed by Naughton's free toss. Harlem now led by 29 to 23.

The first fight between Isles and Naughton appeared at this point and after order was restored, Rosen poured in a great shot from the coffin corner to make it 29-25. Gershon leveled off and made it 29-27. Bollerman and Garrett converted foul shots making it 30-28. Rosen, who stared the drive, put the Recs in a tie with his deuce and Bollerman made it 31 to 30 for Kingston as the second session ended.

Third Period

Apparently Kingston's second period offensive thrust took the life out of Harlem. The visitors proceeded to hold a contest by arguing with the officials. Meanwhile, the Recs went out in front with a heavy barrage of deuces and foul conversions to take a 46 to 37 lead. Garrett, Bell and Woods put Harlem back in the game momentarily but not enough to win. Kingston finished the scoring activities as Gershon popped in a foul. Anderson let go with a deuce and then flipped in two free throws.

Honors U. S. Army Sergeants

London (AP) — Alongside the names of many famous British naval officers, listed in the oldest Petty Officers' mess in the Royal Navy, now appear the names of four sergeants in the United States Army. They are Staff Sergeant William R. Groom of Fort Worth, Texas, Sergeants Leonard C. Reini and Edward G. Visser of Washington, D. C., and Sergeant Claude S. Elsea of Sale Creek, Tennessee, who became honorary members of the mess after completing two months of special training at H. M. S. Excellent, the Royal Naval gunnery school. The mess is the chief instructors' mess for gunners' mates, and was founded in 1832 in the old H. M. S. Queen Charlotte, the ship which preceded the present shore establishment.

'Boosters' List For Basketball Game for U.S.O.

The first in a series of basketball games for the Kingston Recreations against service teams in the country will be played at the municipal auditorium on Wednesday night, December 9, when the West Point Field Artillery cagers appear here in a special benefit contest for the U.S.O.

Ever since the game was originally announced, players and fans alike have taken the games into spirit and are doing everything possible to make this an S.R.O. crowd at the Broadway court.

Besides the regular ticket sales a special ticket-selling contest is being waged between the four war plants in this city—Electrol, Island Dock, Hiltebrants and Hercules of of Port Ewen.

Besides the regular ticket sales there is a large list of "Boosters" for this game and these "Boosters" will pay all expenses in connection with the game and the balance will go for the U.S.O.

Trade Talk Is Silent as Quiet Sessions Continue; Ford Frick Takes Stand

Chicago, Dec. 3 (AP)—This is the third day of the stand-around party billed as the major league baseball meeting. But when someone posted a bulletin board notice to the effect "minor league baseball writers will meet tonight in room 708" the boys from the big cities agreed to attend too. "This major league meeting has been strictly minor so far," someone observed.

That's how it's been.

For one thing there has been nary a sign of a trade. The usual rumors float up and down hotel corridors but their originators—when tracked down—usually laugh off the yarn with an airy "you won't be able to confirm it."

If this keeps up it'll be the first time in the memory of the oldest writer present that there hasn't been some kind of player deal during the major league session.

For another thing, the Philadelphia story has been dumped back into President Gerry Nugent's lap, much to his dismay. The National League doctors, after wielding their stethescopes over the faint Phils for the last few weeks, apparently have decided there's a spark of life left in the franchise but they haven't the energy to try to fan it into a red-hot ball club. That is, not during the war years.

Joint Meeting Today

Even the setting for today's joint meeting of the leagues with Commissioner K. M. Landis was different. Instead of holding forth in the usual loop hotel suite, the head men were to assemble across town at another hotel, where Landis lives. The judge recently had a minor operation.

There Ford Frick, the National League president, was expected to seek out an uncarpeted section of floor to bounce his two baseball center samples, one of gum rubber which makes up the innards of a golf ball, the other a cork creation coated with that mysterious bulata.

Yesterday, in a press review of the bounce characteristics of the two samples, Frick dropped the cork-bulata job. It hopped well enough to be useful in a game of jacks. But the golf-center item skipped blythely to the ceiling, exacting "ohs" and "ahs" of delight out of those writers from baseball cities still possessing slugging outfielders.

The choice of 1943 baseball construction—employing one of those two centers—was to be agreed upon by the two leagues after this demonstration.

Twin Wrestlers

East Lansing, Mich. (AP)—The greatest wrestling combination in Michigan State College history has been disrupted. Burl (Bo) Jennings, N. C. A. A. 128-pound wrestling champion for two years, is recuperating from an operation and has small chance of defending his title this year. His twin brother, Merle, who also won national championships at 121 pounds, is still in the ring. The twins were honored this year by being elected as student members of the athletic council of the college. They hail from Tulsa, Okla.

Strong Army Squad Hopes to Put End To Kingston Skein

Capacity Crowd Anticipated for U.S.O. Benefit Tilt at Auditorium; Team Scouts Recreations

With three straight victories under their belts the Kingston Recreations will mark time until next Wednesday night when Sergeant James McCabe brings his strong Field Artillery Detachment team of the United States Military Academy at West Point here for a special service game against the local professional team.

Efforts are now being made to build the crowd at the Broadway court to capacity. Proceeds of the contest will go to the U. S. O. According to reports coming in concerning the sale of tickets, officials will have a tough time next week to handle the basketball fans at the municipal auditorium.

In addition to the regular ticket sale now under way the four local war plants—Island Dock, Hiltebrants, Electrol and Hercules—are waging a big ticket selling contest. Reports from these sources also hint that they are selling fast and that one of the best crowds ever to witness a basketball game here will be on hand next week.

Soldiers Scout Recs

A few of the West Point players were in Kingston last night scouting the Kingston Recreations when they met the Harlem Yankees here. Most of them agreed that the Recs have a tough team and will be a big menu for any team to stop their three-game winning skein to date.

The game with West Point is the first in a series of special games with service teams throughout the country. Other games are now being scheduled and will be announced during the season. But this opening one promises to be a crackerjack for Kingston. Although the Recreations are polished ball players and veterans at that, they won't have any easy job with the West Pointers. The soldiers will have a number of players who were star basketball athletes at their respective colleges and high schools. Most notable of all is H. H. Gist, former all-American at West Virginia, who is slated to play at one of the guard slots next week.

So far this year the West Pointers also have won three games. Their opponents were the Medical Company at the Point; the Peekskill All Stars and Hyde Park. The latter two clubs always have an ace-high quintet which speaks well for the Pointers.

Team Packs Strength

Other starting players for West Point will include Dick Gilman at forward, who is captain of the squad. Gilman is former all-Westchester City forward. The other forward slot will be occupied by George Gray, Croton-on-Hudson ace. Gray is a six-footer and packs plenty of wallop with his long shooting ability. The center position will be taken by Stan Shustin, who is a former ace from Panzer College in New Jersey. Stan was a member of the Panzer outfit that won 54 straight games to set a new world's record. He played against many top college teams such as Seton Hall, Rutgers Pharmacy and others.

Captain H. H. Gist will play at one of the guard slots and his past is well-known. Lew Panzanaro who also coaches the squad, is expected to combine with Gist at guard. Panzanaro is a former Peekskill Big Five star and has played against such outstanding clubs as the Olsen Swedes, House of David and Kate Smith's Celtics. Ernie Dobbs, another Croton-on-Hudson ace, will see action besides Charlie Adanaski, who received his athletic letter from the U. S. Army in 1939 at the Hawaiian Islands.

Sergeant McCabe, who is well known here, is expected to be with the club next week in addition to Col. Robert L. Taylor, commanding officer of the detachment.

Tickets for this contest may be secured by calling the department of recreation, 1682.

Eastman Requests Restricted Travel To Bowl Classics

O.D.T. Head Doesn't Restrict Sales of Tickets to Folk of Bowl Cities

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Office of Defense Transportation in Washington asked the sponsors of the various New Year's Day football Bowl games to restrict travel to the contests—and found the grid officials already practicing the suggestion.

In his telegrams to the participating schools and the sponsors of the January 1 games, Joseph B. Eastman of the O.D.T., said that "long distance travel of fans and team followers must be discouraged" because of the war and cited the recent Army-Navy game as an example.

The service school clan was shifted from Philadelphia where it customarily drew 102,000 spectators, to the Navy's field and played before 10,700 residents of Annapolis.

Although Eastman did not define the term "long distance travel" neither did he indicate that the O.D.T. wanted ticket sales restricted to the residents of the cities in which the games would be played, as was done in last Saturday's Army-Navy clash.

But even if such a rule is enforced, attendance might not tumble noticeably.

The Rose Bowl game customarily draws 90,000 and Pasadena's population is approximately the same figure; 70,000 saw this year's Sugar Bowl game and New Orleans lists 494,537 residents; Dallas could easily find 38,000 ticket purchasers among its 294,734; Miami's population is almost 200,000 and the Orange Bowl figures of January 1 were 35,000 while El Paso, Tex., where the Sun Bowl tilt is carded has a population of 96,810 and an average attendance of 14,000.

TRICYCLES REPLACE TAXIS

Electric tricycles are being used for taxis in Rome, Italy. The vehicles, which have two wheels in front and one behind, are said to make as much as 40 miles an hour. Unprotected from weather, the driver sits behind two passengers.

Emerick's Ladies' Jottings

At Emerick's Recreation alleys Tuesday night the Emerick's Ladies' Bowling League made its initial donation for the first sum of money toward the goal of $217.50 to be given by the Kingston Women's Bowling Association to a fund which will buy a bomber for Uncle Sam as a personal Christmas gift from the association. Let it be said here that the idea of the five cents per penalty for each pin remaining upright after the delivery of the first ball in that frame, went over in great style. The sum collected was $21.20. Keep up the good work gals. Your donations and the boys' efforts on the battlefields will rid this world of those Nips and Hitlerites soon. . . . There was considerable interest as the seventh frame neared and it is believed the girls really had the old Yuletide spirit as the alleys were filled with laughter and merriment. . . . The welcome mat is out to Mrs. Emma Holcomb and Kathleen Nuels who make a complete roster for the Ertels team. Incidentally, this department wishes to make an apology for looking at the scoresheets in a wrong way when they came in yesterday morning. Two names were scribbed for Ertels and they were mistaken for other bowlers. We'll take care of that next week. . . . The Ertels proceeded to take two games from Kingston Coal. M. Callanhan average 339 high series and Emma Holcomb's 121 high single sparked the winners. For the coal squad Jane Ward made the 4-6 split and Margaret McCardle rolled high single of 147 and 375 all. . . . The Minasians swept through Phelan & Cahill as Martha Minasian began with four strikes and finished with a neat 500 series. Martha also hit 185. Other highs for the winners were Dot Gross 178, Elsa Relyea 159. For the losers Phil Gehringer had 159 and 429. The Bruck sisters stayed above the 400 triple. . . . Reinas grabbed three from the Standards as Bea Coddington collected a terrific 525 triple and a 179 solo. Helen Smart, with several picket fences to brush off and making the 2-3-5-10 split, filled in for a nice 480 series. Alyce Riseley, bowling with a sore diget, made the 5-7-9 for the winners. Rose Chamberland had 163 and tied Ruth Bliss with a 408 series. Ruth had a 184 single and converted the 3-5-7 and 3-5-8-10. Mickey Hutton had the 2-5-9-10 and made it. . . . Williams Lake took the odd game from the Mayorettes as Evelyn Provenzano ran into a double split four times and had many incomplete strike hits. For all of this Evelyn still came through with a nice 476 series as did Marge Anderson, who decided the alleys were too long and went half-way up number eight on one of her throws but was seen by the overseeing eye of the foul man. Salley Kuehn rolled high for the winners with a 184 single and 491 triple. Phil Roosa made the 3-10. For the losers Evelyn Jones posted 195 and 477 and made the 5-7 split. Kay Robertson had the 4-5. Madeline Schline, nearing her mid-season form, posted 446. . . . Elstons, as predicted last week, are hitting their stride for the upper brackets and took two from Becks as their anchor, Cora Emerick, piled up an enviable 544 series and a 187 single game. Dot Holmes converted the 7-9. For Becks Ardis Miller blasted an even 200 and a 492 all. Schwenks took two from the league-leading Alpines as Helen Hayes rolled 159 and 416 making the 5-8-10. Hope Mary Myers of the Alpines is out of the sick bed by next Tuesday. Dot Flemming's 471 blind high series and Evelyn Dolson's 166 solo sparked the losers in a losing cause. . . . More next week. . . .

Arlensky Blasts 614

Mitzie Arlensky, who is slated to go to Albany next Monday morning with a group of local selectees for his pre-induction examination, took advantage of one of his few remaining nights as a bowler with the Morgan squad in the Wiltwyck League last night by establishing a new high triple for the circuit when he blasted out a tremendous 614.

Arlensky paved the way for Morgans to win two games over the Electrol No. 1. Mitzie pounded the maples for scores of 226, 183 and 235 for his grand 644 total. He also helped the club to establish a new team series with 2616. Ken Van Etten followed Mit with 538 and T. Abdallah had a 613 triple. Mike Provenzano had a 569 triple for the losers. His high single was 214. W. Robinson pounded out a 520.

Nocando League Scores

Jack Martin highlighted the Nocando League games at Emerick's alleys last night by piling up a 574 series for Standards. Jack also had a 201 single, both high marks in the match. Standards won two from Scholls. Pete Slover had a 473 for the losers.

Lacey Burger paced Fredericks to the win over Emericks with his 205 solo and 524 all. Mike Abdallah's 484 series was tops for the winners.

H. Miller's 498 series topped Eichlers as that club won two from the Wildcats. He had a string of 175, 160 and 163. Ken Van Etten of the losers posted high single of 181.

Silver League Result

Vining & Smith won three straight from Forsts last night as Earl Mellow returned to form and helped himself to a steady 591 triple on games of 188, 196 and 207. Scott Vining had high single of 224. His triple was 569. Norm Sande hit 517 and Harry Smith 507. Ray Otto's 518 triple was high for the losers. E. Terwilliger had 502.

Laidlaw Takes 2 DUSO Titles From Middletown

League Prexy Declares Tony Capozella Ineligible; Newburgh, Monticello Benefit

After due consideration and review, Arthur J. Laidlaw, superintendent of schools in this city and also president of the DUSO League, announced Wednesday in a formal letter to Frederick P. Singer, principal of Middletown High School, that he had decided that Tony Capozella had been ineligible.

Laidlaw's action in declaring Capozella ineligible, costs Middletown High two DUSO League pennants. Laidlaw's statement read, "I further declared that all contests won in which he played be forfeited to the opposing teams in accordance with DUSO League rule No. 11 and New York State Public High School Athletic Association Rule No. 10.

Loses Two Titles

"This will automatically deny Middletown the DUSO League championship in football and basketball. The team which had the second high rating shall be declared the 1941-42 champion in each sport. According to the game scores the championship for the 1941 season in football will be the Newburgh Free Academy, and in basketball for the 1941-42 season the Monticello High School."

Mr. Laidlaw's comments were based on this, "Basing judgment on the facts of this case, it definitely appears that Capozella was over the 19 year age limit during all the 1941-42 school year, during which time he played in DUSO League contests."

At the same time the league president announced that Tony Gobeo's ineligibility had nothing to do with the DUSO League. The president, however, declared this, "for the good of interscholastic athletics and the DUSO League in particular, I believe it would be best if the Middletown authorities would advise the Mount Pleasant High School by letter of the ineligibility of this player and offer to forfeit the game. This would definitely place the Middletown authorities in a better light.

Report on Newman

Mr. Laidlaw also reviewed the case of Johnny Newman, another questionable Middletown athlete. His report follows: "It is my ruling that this case was settled at the meeting held in Middletown on February 3, 1942 and subsequently by a vote resulting from a canvass made among the members of the DUSO League Council. It is the opinion of your president that the members of the Council were lax in not being willing to face the situation and give to the rule existing at that time the interpretation which all schools, with the exception of Middletown, believed was the true interpretation. It is, therefore, held that the eligibility of Newman is now an irrelevant matter."

All of these matters were brought to light after a sweeping investigation had been made on Tony Gobeo, the first who was declared ineligible. In all probability, further demonstrations of attempting to out-wit the league rules, will be more harshly treated by league officials. But for the time Laidlaw's rulings have dampened whatever hope Middletown had to win titles by using ineligible athletes.

Miami Golf Open Starts; McSpaden Hits Course Mark

Philadelphia Golf Ace Seen as Favorite in Annual Tourney in Southern State

Miami, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—A lot of talent was missing when a hundred odd golfers teed off today for the first round of the $5,000 Miami Open, but that was no sign the scoring would suffer.

Leaders of the reduced field sampled the par 70 Miami Springs course in practice, and handed in cards the like of which were not seen even when Ben Hogan, Sam Snead, Craig Wood and other topnotchers, now side-lined because of the war, were taking their turns on the greens.

Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia cracked the course record with a round of 63—after going over par on the first two holes—and established himself as the favorite even though he eased off in later workouts to avoid getting on edge too soon.

Johnny Revolta of Miami, the 1933 winner, fired three 66's and a 67 in trial rounds, as did Johnny Bulla, the Atlanta airline pilot, who skipped a flight to compete.

Their 27-hole scores of 265, if carded with the chips down, would lower by two strokes the tournament mark set by Sam Snead when he won in 1937.

"The open record won't be broken," predicted tournament director H. H. Arnold, "but the scores will be just as low as they usually are."

Among the 12 low scorers of 1941 only Ben Loving of Miami and Clayton Heafner of Linville, N. C., were certain starters.

Last year's winner, Byron Nelson of Toledo, Ohio, telegraphed Arnold that he would fly here from a vacation in Texas, but he did not arrive in time for practice.

Arnold feared that Nelson had lost his plane seat because of priorities, and listed him as a doubtful contestant.

Sailors Are Scheduled to Play Notre Dame on Saturday; Gridders Have Great Mark

New York, Dec. 3 (AP) — The Great Lakes Naval Training Station football team, strong enough to have blanked seven of its 11 foes this season, is the nation's leading service team in the opinion of 91 sports writers polled by the Associated Press.

The sailors, whose eleven of World War I days also was outstanding, complete their schedule Saturday against Notre Dame in Chicago but 50 of the voters decided that no matter what the outcome the sailors are the best.

Although the Army produced two teams late in August that were good enough to hold their own with various clubs from the National League, the Navy snared the first six places among the top ten and also had the Pensacola Fliers in the eighth spot.

The Camp Grant squad, beaten by Great Lakes, 33 to 0, was the best soldier outfit, in the opinion of the voters, and took over seventh place with 151 points, compared to the 812 collected by Great Lakes.

Coached by Tony Hinkle, formerly at Butler University, and sparked by Minnesota's 1941 All America Bruce Smith, the sailors had a mediocre season through October 24 when they were stopped by Michigan, 14 to 0. Then they started winning and haven't been scored on since.

12-Year-Old Caddies

New Orleans (AP) — Louisiana boys as young as 12 years may now be golf caddies outside school hours. An amendment to that effect has been made in the Louisiana child labor law on prompting by golf club officials and Joseph Gumbel, chairman of the sports committee of the New Orleans Association of Commerce.

Captain And Majorette

University, Miss. (AP)—The captain and the majorette are happily married, thank you. The captain in this case being Dan Wood of the University of Mississippi football team. The majorette is the one who twirls that baton in front of the Rebel band, the former Violet Mulvenna.

The average incubation period of infantile paralysis is twelve days.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK—IN THE MATTER OF ELIZABETH A. LE FEVRE, Bankrupt. IN BANKRUPTCY NO. 77130. IN THE MATTER OF FRANK J. LE FEVRE, Bankrupt. IN BANKRUPTCY NO. 77129.

Upon reading and filing the annexed petition of LLOYD R. LE FEVER, Trustee in Bankruptcy herein, duly verified the 1st day of December, 1942, and upon the offer of RAYMOND G. GUERNSEY, dated November 27th, 1942, hereunto annexed and marked Schedule "A", and no adverse interest being represented, and sufficient cause appearing therefor, it is,

NOW, on motion of LOUIS BRAUN, and PETER H. HARP, the attorneys for the said Trustee,

ORDERED, that a special meeting of the creditors herein be held on the 15th day of December, 1942, at the Supervisors' Room at the Ulster County Courthouse in the City of Kingston, State of New York, at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to consider and act upon the offer of Raymond G. Guernsey, to pay the sum of nine hundred and twenty-five ($925.00) dollars for the trustee's right, title and interest in and to one hundred and eighty-five (185) shares of the Preferred "B" stock of the Poughkeepsie Trust Company of Poughkeepsie, New York, and to show cause why the said offer of Raymond G. Guernsey, or any higher or better offer or offers which may be made upon the return date of this order to show cause should not be accepted for the aforedescribed shares of stock, and why the Trustee herein should not have such other and further relief as to this Court may seem just and proper.

Sufficient reason appearing therefor, it is,

ORDERED, that service by mail of a copy of this order and notice upon all creditors of the bankrupt and other parties in interest, on or before the 5th day of December, 1942, and by publication of a copy of this order in The Kingston Daily Freeman, and the New Paltz Independent, on or before the 4th day of December, 1942, shall be deemed good and sufficient service, and notice hereof.

Dated, Kingston, N. Y., December 1st, 1942.

the city lights only. In communities outside the city there is local control of the street light systems. Special switches have been installed in these communities with a key in charge of someone authorized to turn off the lights in case of an air raid warning.

Four incidents were staged in Kingston during the blackout, and 14 in the Ulster warning district, outside the city. In the city the incidents were staged at 64 Broadway, 76 St. James street, 96 Murray street and 70 West Union street.

Those who were "injured in the air raid were rushed to the emergency hospital in the emergency ambulances where their "wounds" were "dressed" by the staff of doctors and nurses.

The blackout last night came as a complete surprise both to the county and city officials, but also to the air raid wardens and other civilian defense workers who participate in the blackout activities.

The yellow signal came through at the control centers at 7:02 o'clock last night; the blue signal at 7:21 and the red signal at 7:27. It is when the blue signal is flashed that the air raid sirens sound their warning.

The weather was far from ideal last night in staging a blackout as the gale that blew through the city and county made it extremely disagreable for the air raid wardens and other civilian defense workers.

At the time of the blackout, Arthur L. Morrill, chief air raid warden of Kingston, was out of town, and Deputy Chief Warden Charles de la Vergne was ill at his home. However, Acting Chief Morton Finch took charge of the city's activities and was at the city control center when the alarm was sounded and took charge.

This morning Mr. Morrill stated that Acting Chief Finch had carried on with remarkable efficiency as head of the city air raid system and the Rev. Clarance A. Brown and Thomas Murray of the Second ward had covered Mr. Finch's duties in the Second ward. Prior to leaving town, Mr. Morrill had arranged for Mr. Finch to take over in case of an alert during the illness of Deputy Chief de la Vergne.

While there was some delay in sounding the alarm in some sections of the city the routine work after the alarm had been sounded was carried out with efficiency. Chief Warden Morrill today informed a Freeman reporter that when it became necessary for him to leave town arrangements were always made with the deputy chief or the acting chief to carry on the duties within the city in his absence and the city was never without a chief at the head of the system.

This morning Acting Chief Warden Finch filed with Mr. Morrill a complete report of the blackout last night, together with the reports from all zone, sector and post wardens as to violations and in general how the warden system functioned.

Mr. Morrill stated that to date there had been practically a unanimous desire of the citizens of the city to co-operate in all blackouts and daylight alerts. The policy is not to prosecute violations which may be unintentional and thus far there have been few willful violations which required the action of the police or other law enforcement officials. Unintentional violations which however continue to occur will be reported by the post wardens and investigated for correction.

Last night four incidents were staged in the city and 14 in the towns. All of the incidents were carried out as scheduled. James A. Simpson reported for the county, and likewise Allan A. Baker in charge of the city control reported all incidents in Kingston had gone off as scheduled. The city incidents took place at 76 St. James street, 64 Broadway, 96 Murray street, 79 West Union street. On St. James street a fire by incendiary bomb was reported and auxiliary fire units and the Wiltwyck pumper responded. Three "victims" from the other incidents were taken to the emergency hospital after first aid had been given.

dation to raise funds in January. He said that the Foundation was established five years ago, and that in the coming campaign it was planned to use the same technique used so successfully in former years.

He called attention to the fact that Foundation would hold a demonstration of the Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis in Chancellor Hall in Albany on Tuesday afternoon, December 15, at 2 o'clock, and urged all who found it possible, to attend. He said living models would be used in this demonstration.

Among those present at the meeting last night were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Garraghan, Mrs. Grace DuBois, Mrs. Agnes Powers, Edward Hartney of Modena, Mrs. Kathryn Liscom, Robert Browning, Robert Rhinehart, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wall, Mrs. Thomas Roach, Mrs. Donald Bishop, Mrs. Howard Emerick, Mrs. Betty Richards, Mrs. Martin Keller, Mrs. Margaret Pendill, Mrs. Patrick Murphy, Joseph McTague and Mrs. Helen Stern Mann.

And with drastic taxes on excess profits, the low cost producer does not get away with anything consequential. . . . There must be no rules of labor that restrict or retard effort or output beyond those which safeguard health.

"Sixth—. . . We can better appraise our manpower if we calculate the male manpower available and assume that women can do the rest. There are certain jobs that only men can do. . . .

"Seventh—. . . Fix prices of a given commodity or raw material at as near the source of production as possible and . . . regulate the subsequent percentage addition for processors and the mark up for merchants. General price ceilings (or legal maximum prices as they were called in the last war) were tried out in every nation in that war and proved a failure. . . . Fixing of wages is not wholly a factor in the cost of living. . . . Men naturally drift to the highest paid calling and production is stifled in the lower paid industries.

"To freeze men to their jobs is a violation of the constitutional freedom of men from involuntary labor.

"Eighth—The eighth principle of war organization is to do no more regulating than is necessary to attain the major objective. . .

"Ninth—. . . The necessity to change from the normal bid and contract peace practice of governmental purchases of commodities and services. That safeguard cannot be made universal in war. . .

"Tenth—. . . Secure the enthusiastic cooperation of civilians with the government in order to mobilize their abilities, skill and sacrifice with the least bureacracy and force. . . .

"Eleventh—. . . Concentration of every governmental energy upon winning the war. Reforms, or making America over, no matter how attractive, cannot but dislocate the war effort. . . .

"Twelfth—And finally, a major principle is to organize all these activities so as to assure the return to economic and personal liberty the moment war is over. . . ."

Blackout Halts Pursuit

The Canadian Northwest Mounted Police still have the edge on County Probation Officer Lawrence Jenson, but it's all due to the blackout Wednesday night. "Larry" was coming up Broadway when he saw one of his probationers with whom he had been anxious to get in contact. He stopped his car near the Governor Clinton Hotel and got out to follow the boy, when suddenly the street lights went out, and he disappeared in the darkness, around the corner. However, Officer Jenson undoubtedly will "get his man" in the end.

Healthy and Comfortable

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP) — No matter how it feels to you, the War Production Board has it on good authority that a 65 degree home temperature is healthful and comfortable. The authority is Surgeon General Thomas Parran of the U. S. Public Health Service, who said the 65 degree temperature is "well within not only the health zone but even the comfort zone."

Russell Asks Review

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Re-examination of all the nation's agricultural policies in the light of war demands for food was advocated today by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Agricultural appropriations subcommittee. Russell also told an interviewer the Department of Agriculture must soon "submit a more economical plan of administration, since the cost of administering the AAA and conservation programs has been entirely too high."

Caps For AEF

Somewhere in England (AP)—American soldiers in England have devised a new use for British-made woolen mufflers now being issued them. By doubling under one end of the thick olivedrab scarf and rolling the fold to desired head size, the Yanks have converted them into first class stocking caps.

To conserve material the mufflers are little over half the length of those commonly worn by Americans.

The ground around Mogador, Moroccan port, is so low that the city becomes an island in times of high water.
